CAPITAL AND LABOR BLAMED

Former Charged With 50 Per Cent Waste, Latter With Less Than 25 P. C.

Report Outlines Program of Governmental Assistance to Eliminate Waste

Urges Labor to Co-operate by Developing Policy for Increasing Output

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Responsibility for more than 50 per cent of the waste in industrial processes, which is causing enormous annual losses to the nation, can be placed at the door of the management and less than 25 per cent at the door of labor, declares a report of the American Engineering Council's committee on elimination of waste in industry made public today at a meeting of the council's executive board. The committee was appointed by Herbert Hoover, when he was head of the council.

The report says that the margin of unemployment amounts to more than a million men; that billions of dollars are tied up in idle equipment; that high labor turnover is a rough index of one of the commonest wastes, and that waste of time and energy and money through duplications and estimates and bids in building trades run into millions annually.

Capital and Labor Blamed
Both employers and employees restrict output, it is said. Both capital and labor are blamed for existing abuses, but the annual losses through waste by committees between them is much less than is popularly supposed.

From four to five million workers were idle during January and February of this year. In 1921, half a billion dollars will be lost in wages in the building trades, the report says. The inquiry was in charge of a committee headed by J. Parker Chipman, of New York as chairman, and L. W. Wallace of Washington as vice chairman. This was the beginning of a movement by the country's organized engineers, about 250,000 in number to bring about better industrial conditions and more harmonious relations between capital and labor.

Program to Eliminate Waste

MAN FOUND IN ALLEY
DIES AT HOSPITAL
Edward Sweeney of Appleton street died at 2 a. m. today at St. John's hospital, after being found lying in an alley off Tyler street by Patrolman Connelley about 10:15 o'clock last night. The patrolman heard groans proceeding from the alley, and upon investigation discovered the prostrate form of the victim. A bottle containing a deadly substance, it is said, was found in Sweeney's pocket. Police headquarters were notified and the man was sent to St. John's hospital, where his death occurred a few hours later. Immediately upon his arrival at St. John's, the authorities at the institution placed his name on the dangerous list. Officers Winn and Phillip D. Murphy took him to the hospital. That his name is Edward Sweeney and his address 256 Appleton street, was information given the police by a Mr. Murphy, residing on Congress street. The city directory revealed the name and address, as being that of the deceased, who is said to have been a lodger at an Appleton street house. He was employed by the city, it was learned, and was working on the First street grade.

Investigating Death
Medical Examiner Thomas B. Smith announced this afternoon that the death is under investigation, but declared that no cause has as yet been assigned. The medical examiner also

Aged Civil War Veteran Makes Trip In Auto From the Golden Gate to Lowell

WALTER H. MORRISON, HIS TRAVELLING COMPANION, "PEGGY" AND THE MACHINE IN WHICH THEY MADE THEIR TRANS-CONTINENTAL JOURNEY

Arrives Here in Time to Participate in Memorial Day Parade—A Pet Dog His Only Companion on Long Journey—Plucky Veteran on Last Leg of Journey to Home Town in Maine

On the last leg of a transcontinental trip made in a Ford car which he drove unassisted despite the loss of his left hand, Walter H. Morrison, an 82-year-old Civil War veteran, arrived in Lowell a few days ago and is living in Dutton street for a short time before he starts out for Waterville, Me., his home town, which he has not seen since the days of '61. Rarely has so interesting a visitor struck Lowell and the story of his adventures in the west, his Civil War experiences and the vigor which he still possesses despite his advanced age combine to make him an exceptionally attractive conversationalist. In his youth he studied to become a surgeon and travelled in various European countries in pursuit of professional knowledge. However, an injury to his head early in life caused him to abandon his professional work and later the loss of his hand while fighting with cattle rustlers in Texas added to his physical disadvantages. But he fought and overcame these handicaps courageously and can now use his one hand with much more skill and dexterity than a man many years younger.

Marched in Parade
Morrison has spent the greater part of his life roaming about the west and he has made it a practice to take part in the annual Memorial day parade no

Ten More Officers Slain In Ireland
CORK, June 3.—District Inspector Stevenson, a police sergeant and four constables were killed and four officers were seriously wounded when a police patrol was ambushed by 100 armed men at Westnorth, County Mayo, last night. Arms and ammunition carried by the police were taken, and the three motor cars in which the officers were riding were burned.

When the police were attacked they replied with rifles and machine guns. The fight lasted several hours but in the end the police lost all their arms, including their machine guns. One survivor, a constable, arrived at Westport at midnight with the news of what had occurred, and medical assistance and reinforcements were then dispatched. Two of the wounded men are not expected to recover.

The patrol had gone out to fill up with commandeered labor, a trench which had been dug across the road. On the return journey at a point where the road winds through some small hills the party was attacked by the civilians, who had taken up a position behind walls which had been loopholed. Six constables took cover in a house, where they continued fighting until their ammunition was exhausted.

At Ballyvaughan, County Donegal, yesterday, a party believed to comprise a half-dozen armed men fired upon a police motor car. The crown forces replied, killing two of the ambushers. In County Tyrone a bridge across the river Owenkill was demolished by explosives. The body of a youth, with the neck broken, was found in the debris. It is believed the charge exploded prematurely.

DUBLIN, June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Four constables were killed and five wounded in an ambush by 200 civilians at 10 o'clock this morning in Kylesbeg Cross, near Berrisokane, County Tipperary, says an official statement. The constables were in motor cars and on bicycles when attacked by the civilians, who were concealed in the woods.

RULES AGAINST VOLSTEAD ACT

Lawrence Judge Says Dry Act Superseded by Massachusetts Statute

Liquor Seized Contained But 2.51 P. C. Alcohol and Defendant is Discharged

LAWRENCE, June 3.—The Volstead prohibition act, which permits of one half of one per cent alcohol in beer, is superseded by the Massachusetts statute, which permits 2.75 per cent alcohol in beer, in the courts of this commonwealth, according to a finding made by Judge J. J. Mahoney in district court here today.

The decision was made in the case of James McGurn, charged with illegal keeping of liquor. Counsel for the defense argued that the state law should apply rather than the federal law. When a chemist of the state department of public health testified that the sample seized at McGurn's place contained only 2.51 per cent alcohol, the court dismissed the case.

In disposing of the case, however, the court suggested that the case be brought to the attention of the federal authorities, and that a conviction might be procured in the federal court.

LOVE IN IDLENESS WINS OAKES STAKES

EPSON DOWNS, June 3. (By the Associated Press).—The Oakes stakes, for fillies, second in importance only to the Derby in British turf events, was won today by Joseph Watson's Love in Idleness, by three lengths. Mrs. H. Nugent's Lady Sloopster was second and Viscount Astor's Long Suit, third. The race was for 1000 sovereigns over a course of about one and one-half miles.

Twenty-two horses ran. The race was run in the heavy rain. The betting was 5 to 1 against Love in Idleness, 25 to 1 against Lady Sloopster, and 10 to 1 against Long Suit.

Marital Law Still in Force at Tulsa—Known Death Toll Remains at 30

TULSA, Okla., June 3.—Plans for building homes for the thousands of negroes rendered destitute by the burning of the negro quarter here in the race war, were worked out today by a civilian committee of relief.

Known Dead 30
The number of known dead remained at 30 today, no additional bodies having been found. The list was expected to be increased slightly by deaths of some of the several hundred wounded.

More than 1000 negroes, who have not been released from guard, slept at the fair grounds.

Marital Law Still in Force at Tulsa—Known Death Toll Remains at 30

TULSA, Okla., June 3.—Plans for building homes for the thousands of negroes rendered destitute by the burning of the negro quarter here in the race war, were worked out today by a civilian committee of relief.

Business men of the city have agreed to erect as many houses as needed in the shortest time possible. One plan under consideration is to form a corporation to buy up land in the northern part of the city and build a new negro colony.

Known Dead 30
The number of known dead remained at 30 today, no additional bodies having been found. The list was expected to be increased slightly by deaths of some of the several hundred wounded.

More than 1000 negroes, who have not been released from guard, slept at the fair grounds.

The Red Cross distributed food and clothing at a dozen churches. An identification bureau, operated by the Red Cross, sifted the names of the refugees and brought families together.

Contributions from a number of outside cities, were received today by the Red Cross for relief work.

A real estate committee set at work today to determine the extent of the property damage resulting from the incendiary fires, which has been fixed unofficially at $1,500,000. Appraisal blanks were distributed and all those who lost property were requested to list it with the committee.

Marital Law Still in Force
Marital law, greatly modified, remained in effect, but the 300 troops under the command of Adj. Gen. Barrett, and little to do except aid in relief work among the negroes.

Hundreds of negroes, wearing badges inscribed "Police protection," were on the streets and downtown Tulsa took on a normal appearance. Negroes were at work in hotels and stores and other places. Employers fed them and provided shelter last night in garages, shops and basements of residences.

CLOSE MILLS TO ENFORCE CUT
CHARLOTTE, N.C., June 3.—Comparative quiet prevailed in this city, Concord and Kannapolis, N.C., and Rock Hill, S.C., today, where approximately 9000 textile workers are on strike, with mill owners generally determined to allow their mills to remain idle and to enforce recent wage reductions.

A slight disturbance occurred here today, when strikers at the Savana Manufacturing Co.'s mill attempted to return to work and were met by other strikers, starting a fight. The company requested police protection.

It is estimated that only 15 per cent of the looms in North Carolina are affected by the strike. Mills employing non-union workers have not been affected.

CADETS ACQUITTED OF LOOTING IN DUBLIN
DUBLIN, June 3.—Eighteen auxiliary cadets charged with looting in Antrim on Feb. 9, were acquitted by court martial today. Four were held for trial on charges arising from a subsequent raid. The others were released.

Ballyvaughan House in County Monaghan, the residence of H. E. Leslie of the diplomatic service, was burned to the ground by Sinn Feiners today.

TILDEN AND WASHER TO MEET FOR TITLE

ST. CLOUD, June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—William T. Tilden, of Philadelphia, world's grass court champion, will meet M. Washer of Belgium in the final of the world's hard court tennis championship.

In the semi-finals today, Tilden defeated Nicolas Pietrangola of Romania, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 and Washer defeated Erik Teener of Denmark, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

The Belgian outplayed Turner, who seemed tired after his hard match yesterday in which William H. Lawrence of France, was defeated as world's hard court champion. Washer, who is a mere youth, learned to play tennis with the American commission for relief in Belgium, often practicing with Brand Whitlock, then the American minister to Belgium in Brussels.

Mrs. Mallory Wins Match
Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the American women's singles champion, gained a place in the finals through defeating, by 8-6, 6-4, Madame Billout, the third ranking French player after Miss Suzanne Lenglen, the French champion, and Mme. Golding, the runner-up in the recent French national championships.

Mrs. Mallory's work was somewhat disappointing, lacking snap and dash, and she netted many drives, but she rallied gamely in the first set, after being behind five games to three. Mme. Billout played excellent tennis but appeared tired after her exertions in the first set and became erratic toward the end of the match.

America was eliminated from the mixed doubles today when Arnold W. Jones of Providence and Mrs. Edith Sigourney of Boston were defeated by M. Hirsch and Mme. Figueur of France, 6-0, 6-0.

WITH THE FIREFMEN
There were two telephone alarms this afternoon, the first at 2:35 o'clock for a fire in a can of paint at 491 Merrimack street, and the second at 2:45 o'clock for a brush fire in Gorham street. The alarm from box 414 at 3:21 o'clock was for a slight roof fire at 15 Penn avenue.

GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE
SALEM, June 3.—At the superior criminal court before Judge Fosdick this afternoon, Savino Cararo, of Lawrence, who at the last term of the criminal court in that city pleaded guilty to a charge of murder in the second degree in the killing of Michele Caratonda, was brought into court here and sentenced to state's prison for life.

DIFFICULT TO FILL JURY BOX

Panel of 500 Exhausted at Trial of Sacco and Vanzetti for Murder

175 Protesting Citizens Rounded Up for Examination As Prospective Jurors

DEDHAM, June 3.—A panel of 500 veniremen having failed to complete a jury for the trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti on charges of robbery and murder, the homes and highways of Norfolk county were combed overnight by direction of the court for additional testesmen and a group of 175 protesting citizens was rounded up for examination as prospective jurors today. Only seven seats in the jurybox were filled in three days up to last night.

This morning Sheriff Capen and 12 deputies who had gathered in the citizens sought to quiet them, but business men protested that their affairs needed attention, factory workers said discharge would follow their failure to punch time clocks, as required; professional men objected to what they termed the sudden seizure, and farmers represented the need of their oversight and labors on crops at a critical time in their development.

Routed Out of Bed
Most of those who appeared had been routed out of their beds. Others had been hailed as they returned from an evening call or as they left their homes this morning. Nearly all were in a protestant mood while the sleepless sheriff and his deputies sought to hold them until the court could pass on their objections.

The extraordinary panel was drawn from the city of Quincy and the towns of Brookline, Dedham, Stoughton, Norfolk, Millis and Medway.

The impressed talesmen fretted in the courtroom while counsel conferred at length with the judge in chambers on the situation.

Question Raised by Defense
It was understood from attorneys associated with the defense that a question was raised as to the manner in which men were summoned, whether from prepared lists or at random. If from lists, it was said, objection would be made on the ground that the defense was not consulted in their preparation and that the sheriff, who was in charge of the round-up as an officer of the government associated with the prosecution, might be considered as not qualified to direct the selection.

Deputy sheriffs said informally that they had obtained their talesmen in various ways. One said he served notice on men whom he found at a lodge meeting last night and that the meeting immediately broke up.

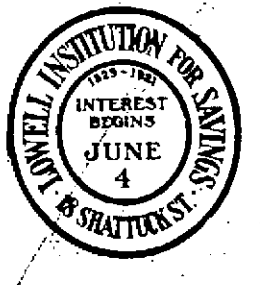

Court came in an hour late, and proceeded to instruct the panel on the duties of jurors.

Another deputy sheriff told how the audience at a band concert in Braintree melted away after he had served notice on several men. Two or three

Thief Steals Car While Supt.
Welch Explains Police
Methods

Owner Gets Car Back But
the Thief Is Still At Large

That thief simply was lacking in good taste, and that's all there is about it. He had no sense of the fitness of things. His aesthetic bump was a dent. He's as mean as a man who, with a bottle of real liquor, gives his old father a drink of Lowell moonshine when he craves a small snifter!

Who was the fiend in human form who stole the Dort touring car belonging to Walter Bruce, while Bruce sat within the Pawtucketville Congregational church, harkening to the eloquent words of Superintendent Edmund Welch, of the local police department, as the latter depicted the unconquerable vigor of the minions of the law? Bruce would like to know. Superintendent Welch would like to know. The police sleuths would like to know. And, by golly, they're going to know! Any crook who will breeze away with a 1920 model automobile right at the moment when its owner is listening with ravished ears to proof that you can't get away with it,—any such crook ought to be caught! It's all right for a run-runner to escape in a car of his own,—especially when he can make the car disappear.—Sweet—just like that, to the very heart of the city. That's cleverness,—just like a magician. But to sneak off with a machine when the art of running down malefactors is being theoretically explained a few yards away,—that's low down. Well, we'll get him yet, by chowder!

Anyhow, Bruce got his car back. That well-known testing place for purchased automobiles, the rear of the Textile school, once more proved its fame as a spot where stolen machines are abandoned by thieves suddenly seized with cold feet. About 5:30 a. m. today, Officer Farris, member of the late shift, made his way to this place, and sure enough, there was Bruce's car calmly awaiting reclamation. The chap who so nonchalantly took it, figuratively speaking, from beneath the very nose of the law, or if we consider the note of Superintendent Welch, perhaps it were better to say the very eyes, apparently lost heart. He must have heard in imagination the tolling of the tocsin of justice. He must have pictured the saluting forth of the imperial blackcoats, armed in all the panoply of authority,—and his pedal extremities must have grown icy. He didn't even take with him as a souvenir a spare tire, as did the last law-breaker who parked a stolen limo back of the school.

"The Chief and the Thief"
An audience in rapture
Was listening to the tale
Of how policemen capture
Evil-doers off hill and dale.

The accomplishment of coppers
Were detailed in words sublime—
How they act as toughy stoppers
Of every sort of crime.

'Twas the Chief, in words melodious,
Speaking of his power
Woe to malefactors odious,
Who should venture to appear!

Let the naughty burglar shiver!
The police are on his trail,
And the bird who steals a fiver
Will be parked within the jail.

Now it chanced, a miscreant fearful Loitered in the dark without,
Did he fail to get the earful
That the chief was pausing out?

Did he miss the chief's expounding
Of police department wiles,
And with confidence abounding
Hover near with baleful smiles?

Yes, he missed the dire narration
Of how doomed all culprits are,
And with confidence abounding
Stole a listener's touring car.

Sad the fate of wretch so daring!
All that superhuman power
Coppers use in thief-ensnaring
Were on foot within the hour.

Forth the telegraphic message
Flashed relentless, crisp and short,
With its words of ominous message,
"Stolen, strayed or lost—one Dort."

Every badge is brightly gleaming;
Every suit is neatly pressed,
As police, with faces beaming,
Hasten forward to arrest.

By the cops, with flashlights tested,
He'll be tracked by land and sea,
If he fails to be arrested,
How extremely rude he'll be!

WILL BACK PLAN FOR LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

The Crescent Hill association will back to the limit the efforts of the Centralville Social club for local improvements. This decision was reached last evening at the regular monthly meeting of the body. Other features of the gathering included the installation of officers for the year. President John J. Mahoney, re-elected for a third term, held the chair. Among the new officers to be installed were: James Mahoney, vice-president; Thomas Carey, recording secretary; Ferdinand DeCoeleau, financial secretary; E. J. Donnie, treasurer; and master-at-arms, R. G. Levesque. The meeting took place at the West Sixth street rooms of the organization.

Five Arrested In Kidnapping Case

NEW YORK, June 3.—Five men were arrested this morning in connection with the kidnapping last week of Giuseppe Verotta, five year old son of Salvatore Verotta, who lives in the Italian quarter. Officials said they had obtained confessions that the prisoners had sought to collect ransom money from the father.

The capture of the five men, all of whom are Italians, was made possible largely through the efforts of a woman detective, who took up her residence in the Verotta home posing as a cousin from Detroit. She conducted negotiations for payment of ransom with one of the men, and later caused the arrest of the gang.

Police officials said they expected to recover the boy some time today, as they were convinced the men would tell where he was being hidden.

Anti-Bolshevik Forces Annihilated

STOCKHOLM, June 3.—Anti-Bolshevik forces at Vindösvet have been annihilated by soviet troops. It is asserted in a despatch sent out by the Russian Official Telegraph Agency. The despatch asserts that the anti-Bolsheviks were aided by the Japanese. General Budenny, the Bolshevik cavalry leader who played a prominent part in the campaigns against General Wrangel, has reported that Ukrainian troops which were threatening to attack the Bolsheviks in southern Russia have been scattered.

BOULEVARD DANCE HALL IN LIMELIGHT AGAIN

Will the Bechard brothers, L. T. and P. W., and T. Lirette, owners of a dance bungalow on the Pawtucket boulevard, lose their investment of $20,000, when their petition for a permit to hold dancing parties there comes before the license commission, Tuesday, June 14, at a public hearing? The Lowell General hospital trustees, and other remonstrants, are able to convince the commissioners that such festivities as would be carried on at the structure would be a public nuisance, the three men who were concerned in the venture stand a large chance of being much out of pocket.

Yesterday afternoon the first echo of last year's protests against a permit for the pavilion, which resulted in its standing idle and unoccupied up to the present time, was heard, when the trustees of the hospital voted to make vigorous efforts against the proposed summer amusement headquarters. The trustees were in receipt of a communication from James J. Kerwin, representing the owners of the dance hall, and were asked to revise their decisions of last year. Their reply, drawn up by Clerk William Trull Sheppard, states in no ambiguous terms that "this institution will most earnestly oppose any attempt to disturb the existing adjudication of our honorable board of license commissioners."

It is reported that agitation among Pawtucketville residents which took place against the dance hall last year will be duplicated when the matter comes up again. The proposal of Lirette and the Bechards that a two weeks' trial be accorded their enterprise has fallen on deaf ears as far as the trustees are concerned. It is feared that the matter will be decided as a claim is made that the bath house, even farther from the institution than the pavilion, is a source of annoyance to the sick and additional accession of sound would be most lamentable.

NINE OF CREW HELD IN $3000 EACH FOR TRIAL

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 3.—Nine of the 17 members of the crew of the steamer Iverheath, who were indicted here yesterday by the federal grand jury for robbing the cargo and riding the mails on the steamer, are being held in the city jail, during the latter part of last January and the first of February, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the United States district court today. They were committed to jail in default of $3000 bail to await trial. The other eight indicted yesterday will enter pleas later this afternoon.

Early one members of the Iverheath's crew were brought here in from six weeks ago, but since then the government has indicted charges against 21 of them. Those who pleaded not guilty in the indictment today were: Alexander Pizarro, Vincent Menez, Telemario Perez, Ismael Gileacul, Jose Castillo, Alejandro Martini, Francisco Moll, Manuel Perzifera and Juan Macasa, all Chileans, who live in the merchant seamen's hotel at New York. At the time of the trouble aboard the Iverheath, the crew of the Iverheath was being brought to Canada after their vessel had experienced engine trouble at Antwerp.

Man Who Took Poison Dies

stated that Sweeney was a man about 25 years of age, and possessed a remarkable war record, having participated in the two battles of the Marne, the Meuse-Argonne offensive, and other important conflicts. He served in a company with Battery C of the 37th Artillery, and was honorably discharged from the army in February, 1919. At his place of residence he was known as a man quiet and unobtrusive in his habits. Dr. Smith has learned that the medical examiner said he would not comment at the present time on the story that a bottle containing poison was found on Sweeney's person. He said, however, that the report that the man was a suicide has not been substantiated at the present time. The remains are at the undertaking rooms of Charles H. Morley Sons, where they are awaiting the arrival of relatives.

HARVEY IS TO BE NEW U. S. ATTORNEY

Frederic S. Harvey, of this city, is to receive an appointment as Assistant United States attorney, with headquarters in Boston, according to an announcement made last night by United States Attorney Robert O. Harris at a dinner given in the Villa Lorraine, Pepperell, at which William J. White, Jr., was the principal guest. Mr. White has recently taken up the duties of an assistant on the United States attorney's staff and the dinner was given in recognition of the event. Seated with Mr. White at the dinner table were Judge Harris, Mayor Perry D. Thompson, Assistant United States Attorney Keith of Brockton and others. The toastmaster was James E. O'Donnell.

Among the speakers, in addition to Judge Harris, were Daniel J. Donahue, Former Mayor John J. Pickman, Mayor Thompson, Assistant United States Attorney Keith and Mr. White.

Arrangements for the dinner were made by a committee consisting of Charles A. Donahue, James E. O'Donnell, J. Henry Gilbride, J. Joseph Hennessey and Cornelius J. O'Neill.

and a basket luncheon was enjoyed. The pupils of the Varnum school boarded a special electric car at the corner of John and Merrimack streets at 9 o'clock, their objective point being Whittier's birthplace, just outside of Haverhill. Several historic points were visited in the vicinity of Haverhill and at noon luncheon was enjoyed. The afternoon was devoted to sports and games. The party was in charge of the principal, Miss Kennel, and the teachers of the highest grades, Misses Donohue and Whitney. Several historic points and Thurbur.

MADAME CURIE, DISCOVERER OF RADIUM

MADAME CURIE MAKES UP HER MIND ABOUT US

BY N. W. QUINN

PITTSBURG, June 2.—Madame Curie knows now what she thinks of America and Americans. A week after her arrival from France the famous discoverer of radium begged to be excused—she had had only time for superficial opinions, and scientists cannot think superficially.

But now—After visiting several of our greatest cities and educational institutions. After receiving from President Harding a $100,000 gift of radium presented by American women.

After inspecting the laboratory here in which more of the world's supply of radium is refined—

The madame speaks. She has found much that is good in us, some that is—well, not so good.

American women—Ah, yes, how she admires them! So different, so much more active, so much more independent than European women.

American cities—Wonderful, to be sure. But she dislikes the noise, the push, the jam. It tires her so—but so does Paris.

New York—Long and narrow, cold and steel! Too much marble, too few flowers. Too many puddles; too few children.

Washington—She likes it best of all. The parks and gardens and statues—ah, there is an inspiration and a happiness.

Our rivers—The Hudson—majestic, mac—there's a river you can take to but spoiled by commerce! The Potomac—your heart and love!

Smoking by women—She likes best those women who confess they do smoke—for then you can ask how much.

Jazz—Never heard it—or of it—either in Paris or New York. What is it?

Carpenter-Dempsey Fight—Please write down a blank like this—American cooking—Ditto for the sake of diplomacy.

The writer came to Pittsburgh to interview Madame Curie. He found the famous scientist had surrounded herself with the same barriers that presidents and kings erect. She must not be quoted directly; her daughter Irene was authorized to express her views; yes, she understood them fully! Irene is her mother's co-worker.

This recluse of the Paris laboratory, who has stepped for a few weeks into the whirl of American affairs, confesses it is somewhat dizzying. But she enjoys it—much!

The wrinkles around her lips and eyes deepen with concentration, but often relax into a motherly smile. Of Polish descent, the madame has a typical Slavic face. The nose is prominent but well molded. Her lips are thin, her chin strong. Her eyes gray—are true mirrors of intellect. Her hair, once brown, now is gray.

Madame Curie dresses most plainly—like an American housewife going marketing. Black skirtwaist, with some lace and white collar. High shoes with low heels, black, of course. No ornaments, save a ribbon with jeweled clasp, from which dangled the golden key to her casket of radium.

ZIONIST CONVENTION OPENS SUNDAY

CLEVELAND, June 3.—Zionist districts in every Jewish community in the country are expected to be represented here next Sunday at the opening of the annual Zionist convention, when the Zionist Organization of America will demand a vote of confidence in it for its stand in the controversy relative to the placing of safeguards around the funds that are being raised for the Palestine foundation.

While numerous other subjects will come before the convention the vote of confidence on this subject has temporarily overshadowed all others. American leaders, headed by Judge Julian W. Mack, of New York, contend that the activities of the Keren Hayesod or Palestine foundation fund, be limited to a donation fund, to be paid to the executive of the World Zionist organization, but to be expended by the latter body only in Palestine and only in accordance with the fixed Palestinian budget.

They point out that there was chartered in London on March 23, a Keren Hayesod Association as a separate corporation independent of the World Zionist executive, or of the Zionist congress. The American leaders headed by Judge Mack contend that the charter gives to the five directors of the association power to supersede the world organization or the congress. They claim further that the London resolutions provided that the Palestine foundation be a fund for the immigration and colonization of Jews in Palestine, but that the articles of incorporation give its five directors powers which may be exercised in any part of the world and to surrender the up-building of Palestine to private individuals and corporations.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, head of the World Zionist organization, recently declared in New York that the charter of the Keren Hayesod association is merely provisional, and that it may be altered at the world Zionist congress to be held abroad next September. He asks that the whole matter be held in abeyance until then, while collections for the fund continue.

The American leaders say they are willing to leave to the Zionist congress the disposition of the funds, but demand proper safeguards for the expenditure in Palestine only of the fund collected meanwhile and they will ask that this attitude be upheld by a vote of confidence.

FIGHT ON IRISH REPORT IN AUSTRALIAN HOUSE

LONDON, June 3.—Efforts on the part of extremists in the Australian house of representatives to introduce the report of the American commission on Ireland into the official record of that body were defeated yesterday, says a Melbourne despatch to the London Times. M. P. Connelley read the conclusions of the American committee and while he was thus engaged, Sir Robert W. Best of Victoria denounced them as "vile and odious slanders upon the empire."

STEFANSSON TO VISIT HEART OF ICE FIELDS

PASADENA, Cal., June 3.—It is to lift the veil of mystery from an unexplored icy area, lying 350 miles beyond the North Pole, that Vilhjalmur Stefansson, famed explorer, will make his new Arctic dash in 1923.

His goal is the center of this ice field, concerning which nothing is known.

This vast tract, he believes, is playing an important part in the evolution of the world. The ice pack at the southern edge are being worn away by the gulf stream, the warm currents of which flow constantly into the Atlantic. This gradual melting and breakage process has placed the pole 350 miles nearer the open ocean.

Such are the announcements of vast scientific interest just made by the intrepid explorer while vacationing here at the home of Ernest Dekoven Lefingwell, who commanded an expedition in 1906.

Stefansson is starting east to prepare for what may prove his most hazardous undertaking.

The area which he hopes to penetrate, he points out, extends some 450 miles this side of the pole and the central point is located 500 miles beyond any point so far reached by ship.

"It might be reached by airship," he said, "but nothing of a scientific nature could be unearched en route. Necessary observations of the surface of the ice and earth must be made on the way."

His ambition is to reach the very center of the ice area. There has been much conjecture regarding what lies there, and he hopes to answer the question for the world.

Stefansson laughed when the question of hazard was raised. "Proper preparation for an Arctic expedition eliminates danger," he said. "Tropical exploration is far more dangerous. There are no poisonous snakes and fevers in the northland. It is a simple matter to maintain perfect health."

He expects to take some 15 men with him. He will make up his expedition in New York.

RISK LIVES IN SEARCH FOR HIDDEN GOLD

BISBEE, Ariz., June 3.—For three hundred years, according to the reliable records, the Sierra Madre mountains of Sonora and Chihuahua, Mexico, have held the secret of a gold mine of fabulous richness and a vast treasure store of gold, mined and hidden away in an inaccessible tunnel.

The romance of the gold hunter is written in the history of man's efforts through the centuries to reach and bring back to civilization this wealth of the Old Tyopa mines. Murders and violence have marked many of these efforts and still in many hardy breasts of this mining country today there still glows the spirit which has prompted many to brave the dangers of starvation, thirst and death at the hands of Indian bands and outlaws in the search for gold.

Mexico City contains records of the old mine and several prospectors, one of them Jack Dunn, accredited discoverer of the Warren district, have reported seeing ruins of the old mine, but none ever reached there.

According to records at the Mexican capital, in the latter part of the 17th century the isolated village of Old Tyopa was raided by Indians, who destroyed the town and killed all the inhabitants except a priest.

After wandering for several weeks the priest arrived at a little town called Auga Fila, on the Paqui river, where he was received and cared for by a Mexican family. His hardships caused his death, but before he died he gave to the family a description and map of the mining camp. He also reported that the gold obtained from seven years of mining had been stored in an old tunnel because of the impossibility of shipment to civilization.

The story and map, it is said, have been handed down from family to family for generations. Those who attempted to reach the camp lost their outfits and many did not return. The Indians for years menaced all prospectors and this condition still exists, augmented by bands of outlaws.

Max Covita, for several years Mexican consul at Naco, is said to have been the latest possessor of the priest's map. He declared he twice succeeded in getting as far as Casa Blanca from which the ruins of Old Tyopa are visible and it was reported he had not given up hopes of reaching the place at his death several years ago.

Bert Grover, a local man, twice started with two companions to make the perilous journey, but was forced back because of insufficient equipment, Indians and outlaws.

Some remarkable gold specimens have been brought back from the vicinity of the Old Tyopa, but so far as known no one ever has reached the mines since the old town was destroyed centuries ago.

WOMEN RESCUE CHILD FAMINE VICTIMS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Little Chou Ya Dao has come out of a far land stricken with famine and disease into a land of peace and plenty—the first victim of famine-stricken China

to be rescued and brought to the United States.

Mrs. H. A. Raider of Tientsin, China, is the rescuing angel of the frail little 10-year-old Chinese girl, and has brought her here to act as "amah" to her two little children during their tour through the states.

Throughout all China, Mrs. Raider declares, American men and women, and other foreigners, are doing everything within their power to alleviate the suffering of the famine victims.

FOR PAN-PACIFIC LEAGUE OF NATIONS

HONOLULU, T. H., June 3.—A Pan-Pacific league of nations, with Honolulu as the capital of the league, as recently advocated by Professor Walter B. Pitkin of Columbia university, is a subject which has been informally discussed between officials of the Pan-Pacific union, whose headquarters are in Honolulu, and several premiers of Pacific lands, according to Alexander Hume Ford, secretary-director of the union.

Last year, said Secretary-Director Ford, both Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Franklin K. Lane, then secretary of the interior, advocated a Pan-Pacific league of nations.

It has been suggested by some of the Pacific premiers who have passed through Honolulu that the Pan-Pacific union, of which all of them are officers, should take up the project of the Pan-Pacific league and Mr. Ford, who recently left for the national capital, expects to confer on tentative plans along this line with officials there.

TO HOLD CONVENTION

American Institute of Banking
Meets at Minneapolis This Month

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 3.—The American Institute of Banking, educational section of the American Bankers' association, holds its 15th annual convention here July 19 to 22. Approximately 1500 delegates from almost every state in the union are expected to be present.

Because of recent financial readjustments, the meetings promise to be the most important held by banking heads this year. Five industry talks by men actively identified with each individual subject will be a feature of the convention. Men nationally known are to be selected to talk on milling, livestock and packing, automobiles, merchandise jobbing and transportation.

Another feature will be a symposium on foreign trade, in which a number of prominent institute men will participate. Questions of world-wide trade, and any relating subject which affects American bankers will be discussed.

Formed a number of years ago at Richmond, Virginia, through the consolidation of a number of local associations, the organization now has an active membership of 14,000 throughout the country. Originally, it was known as the American Institute of Bank Clerks, but later, when it became a part of the American Bankers' association, its name changed and both officers and clerks of banks were admitted to active membership. Many bank directors recently have become affiliated with the institute as associate members.

Local chapters of the institute have been established in 84 of the country's principal cities, and six state chapters have been organized for the purpose of extending the educational advantages of the organization to country bankers.

Educational classes for the most part are conducted under agreements with well-known universities, but where this system cannot be effected, the work is under the direct supervision of George F. Allen, educational director of the institute.

GREATEST AUCTION OF
WET GOODS IN WORLD

NEW YORK, June 3.—Uncle Sam will soon hold the greatest auction of wet goods in the world. About $10,000,000 worth of bonded liquor, confiscated in New York since the Volstead act became effective, will be placed under the hammer. If $5,000,000 is realized the government will be happy.

But this auction will be a semi-private affair. The man with a thirst, regardless of the condition of his pocketbook, will not get an opportunity to participate, except possibly in the role of a mournful spectator on the sidelines. The only bidders will be persons duly licensed to deal in alcohol or have it in their possession. Some of the liquor may be given away to hospitals if there are no bidders.

The principal reason for holding the auction is that the big warehouse where the liquor is now stored, is crowded to capacity. In this glorified bar room is stored every kind of intoxicant known in the dry era. There are something like 33,000 cases of rare old whiskey, brandy, gin and wine; more of the same in 5000 barrels, to say nothing of hundreds upon hundreds of demijohns, bottles and flasks.

Marshal (Big Tom) McCarthy has been designated as auctioneer.

SALEM, June 3.—Judge George H. Sears, justice of the local court, was almost summoned into his own court yesterday. The judge left his automobile standing in front of a hydrant on Washington street. A fireman discovered the machine and promptly tagged it with a notice directing the owner to appear at the nearest police station. Judge Sears reported to Police Captain Edwin W. Dennis as ordered and after explanation was dismissed because of his first offence. The judge promised Captain Dennis that "it wouldn't happen again."

JAIL SENTENCE FOR
"HARDING'S COUSIN"

CHICAGO, June 3.—Everett Harding, self-styled cousin of President Harding, was sentenced yesterday to 15 months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth by Federal Judge K. M. Landis, after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of impersonating a federal officer.

REPORT CONCESSION
ON YAP BY JAPAN

TOKIO, June 3.—(By the Associated Press).—The Hochi Shimbun says it has reason to believe Japan has proposed to give the United States the Yap-Guam cable, with the privilege of control of the line to the island of Yap. While Japan intends to keep the mandate, the newspaper says, she considers this to be virtual internationalization.

Dan Beard Tells How To Make Log Boats

THIS IS HOW THE FIJI ISLANDERS RIDE LOGS. TRY IT YOURSELF.

Dan Beard is national Boy Scout commissioner of America. He has spent his life in work in the interest of boys and has written many books about them. This is the fourth of six stories on "Summer Suits for Boys," written by him.

By DAN BEARD
National Boy Scout Commissioner
Logs are cranky, awkward things in the water and I have always marveled at the lumber pack and rivermen of Maine and Canada who could slide them through all sorts of rough water and only average about one tucking a day.

But from reading about the Fiji Islanders in my geography, I learned the wrinkle of how to bridge a log and keep it from being "cranky" and rolling over all the time. When I learned that secret I felt that I could make a capital craft out of almost any ordinary old log.

The South Sea Islanders put outriggers on their very narrow canoes so that they cannot tip over or roll. I put outriggers on a log (Fig. 1). It was easy. All I had to do was notch the log fore and aft, spike two cross pieces on (A & B), then to these spike two smaller logs (C & D). The main log was about 18 inches through the butt. The smaller logs were about 6 inches through the butt.

There was my craft all ready for me. I shoved it off the sand bar where I had built it, into the water, and climbed aboard. I could do a jig on the big log and it just wouldn't roll over because the outriggers held it firm.

But I wanted a more comfortable craft than that, so I made a seat about two feet from the stern of the main log. I found a slab (Fig. 2), or as the planners used to call them, a poncheon, and used an augur to make a poncheon bench (Fig. 3).

Keeps You High, Dry
This was done by drilling holes into the slab (B, F, G & H) and inserting the bench legs, first wetting them a little so that the wood would swell after it had been forced into the holes. That made a butt joint that would let me sit down, all high and dry, and paddle my own canoe wherever I wanted to go.

To be sure, the catamaran sort of a thing was a little heavy to make very fast progress but by paddling or poling I found nothing more successful. I found I could get almost anywhere on Mud Creek I wanted to go, and it wasn't long before several other town boys had copied my craft and we had a regular fleet of these "logomans" on the creek.

SURPRISE PARTY

John W. and Harry Cole
Guests of Honor

John W. Cole, for the past 25 years connected with the D. L. Page Co. and his son, Harry A. Cole, who has also been connected with the company, were the guests of honor at a surprise party given last evening at the Cole home, 15 Fairfield street. Both men are soon to take over the management of an out-of-town hotel.

Mr. Cole, Sr., was presented a large silver loving cup and gold pencil, while his son received a writing set. The presentations were made by William B. Reynolds on behalf of the Page Co's employees, 60 of whom were present at last evening's affair. Both expressed their appreciation of the thoughtfulness of those present and expressed their regret at leaving Lowell. In the course of the evening in entertainment program was carried out and included several songs by Miss Theresa McCarron and Jessie McLean and piano selections by Solomon Stein and Miss Helen Campbell. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the affair included Miss Mary Cox, Miss May McClure, William B. Reynolds, Austin Page and John C. King.

SAYS PADDOCK

COULD LOWER MARK

NEW YORK, June 3.—Springer Charles Paddock, who ran the 220-yard dash in 20 seconds flat, if he trained exclusively for the distance, in the opinion of David Cusack, former trainer of the University of Southern California, could lower the mark.

Paddock, who is on a business trip to the east, stated today that he considered Paddock one of the greatest sprinters in this country. "Paddock should be at his best in the two-twenty," he said, "and if he lets stand up I should not be surprised to see him do even time for the furlong. I doubt that he will ever surpass 22.5 seconds for the hundred, for he is not a particularly quick man of the mark, but once under way he gathers speed quickly and finishes it a terrible pace."

Cusack also said he believed that the victory of the University of California at the intercollegiate games in Boston last week would prove a great boost for college track and field sport on the Pacific coast. He said that the winning of the eastern track classic would encourage other colleges to come east more frequently to compete in this as well as other branches of college sport.

"We have plenty of fine athletes on the western coast," said Cusack.

WILL ATTEND LAYING OF CORNER STONE

A large delegation of members of Court St. Antoine, C.O.F., will go to North Cambridge next Sunday to attend the laying of the corner stone of the new Notre Dame de Pile Church. The trip to the neighboring city will be made in automobiles, which will leave the C.M.A.C. hall in Pawtucket street in the early forenoon.

The program of the exercises will consist of a street parade in which the Lowell men will participate, followed by the laying of the stone, which will be marked with appropriate exercises. Later a banquet will be served and a mass meeting will be held, during which addresses will be delivered by prominent clergymen and laymen.

NEW LAKEVIEW PARK

The old days of Lakeview's popularity have been restored, with good measure added. Never has the scenic ground of Lowell seen the crowds that enjoyed its many and varied features the past week. Lake Masquepee is a natural beauty spot, where rest and quiet await the fatigued and wholesome diversion makes its appeal to those who are striving to banish dull care. The grand dance hall is the center of activity and there are others. The fare is 10 cents—just half what it used to be.

Aged Civil War

Veteran Makes Trip

matter what town he is in. Accordingly he marched with the 30th A. I. veterans 11 years ago Monday parade here and received his share of the continuous applause which greeted the grand old man.

He served three years in the Civil war with the Eighth Maine Infantry and did a lot of surgery during the great struggle. However, he had not completed his professional education at the time the war broke out and for that reason refused to accept a commission as an assistant surgeon. He was content to leave the army as he entered it—a private.

When asked if he made it a practice to march in the Memorial day parade every year, Mr. Morrison said: "Yes, sir; there aren't any too many of the old vets now and every one helps out." He wears his old army coat and keeps the brass buttons carefully polished. In tribute to the two of his sons who saw service with the air forces in France in the great conflict, he has worn a poppy in the buttonhole of his uniform since he arrived in Lowell. These sons are now in California engaged in the airplane business.

Looking For Excitement

Asked why he never returned to his home in Maine after the war, Morrison said that the excitement of the conflict gave him a taste of excitement and he wanted more. Consequently he struck for the west, after serving a few years on a railroad in New York state. It was while he was working for the road that the accident which made him give up his intention of becoming a surgeon occurred. There was an explosion on a section of the road where construction work was going on and one of the workmen was pretty well mangled as a result. The services of Morrison were called upon and while performing an operation on the injured man another unexpected explosion occurred, injuring Morrison's forehead and causing him to lose his mind for a short time. The shock of the accident unsteady his hands and he was unable to pursue his professional work further.

He then went west in the early days when Buffalo Bill, Sitting Bull and the other noted personages of the old west were in their prime. His experiences in the west were a series of nomadic adventures, ranging from mining, to which he devoted much of his time, to acting as a detective in rounding up cattle rustlers. Incidentally, his stocky build caused a professional wrestler to become interested in his development as a wrestler and he claims to have thrown some of the best men of the west. While hunting a band of cattle rustlers in Texas, he was shot in the left wrist and as a result had to lose his hand.

His Indian Experiences

Morrison was thrown in more or less with the various Indian tribes that inhabited the west in the early days and had to take his chances with them on more than one occasion. He says he fought the Indians after their own fashion, that is behind trees and rocks, but never coming out into the open.

He recounts amusingly an adventure with Sitting Bull, one of the famous Sioux chieftains, in which he narrowly escaped being burned to death. It seems that had shot three of the best men in Sitting Bull's tribe and was unlucky enough to be captured. The famous chief was at the height of anger and ordered the unfortunate white man to be burned to death by degrees.

He was thrown into a wigwam to await his doom and while meditating on his fate, he says there came to him a sort of a vision that misfortune was to befall several members of the Sioux tribe who were out on a buffalo hunt. He was aware of the great respect and awe in which the Sioux held anyone who could foretell the future and he decided to tell Sitting Bull what was going to happen. He warned him that several of his men would be killed by the Blackfeet before daylight and his prophecy happened to come true.

Sitting Bull and the other braves were duly impressed and thereafter looked upon Morrison as a sacred being. Nothing was too good for him. Mr. Morrison has spent much of his time during the last few years with his sons at Sawtelle, Cal., but has been unable to stay near the seacoast for any extended period because of his inability to stand the cold. He says he liked to be in the mountains where he has spent much of his life.

A few years ago he decided to come east to see his own home town in Maine once more and to spend the rest of his days in a soldier's home there. At the time he made the decision he was in Colorado and wanted to go west to see his sons before starting out on the trip. He left Colorado in May 1922 and in the following autumn came to Lowell. He arrived there on September 27 and remained for the winter months, starting out again early this spring for the east. He has traveled from 50 to 125 miles a day. He has had little trouble with his machine, which carried full equipment for sleeping out, except when he struck poor roads. However, he managed to make the entire trip practically unassisted. An appliance attached to the steering gear on his machine has assisted him.

His car is in a more or less battered looking condition but runs smoothly. Upon his arrival in Lowell it needed a number of repairs. He took it to a local garage, but was charged exorbitantly and then went to Peter J. McKenna's garage in Broadway where the car was taken care of. It is now in a garage in Cheever street. Mr. Morrison expects to leave for Montpelier, Vt., tomorrow, and will then swing over into Maine to reach Waterville where his long journey will end.

Despite his advanced age, Mr. Morrison looks like a man not more than 55 or 60. His hair, which he has not had cut since he was a boy, is jet black, this being due to constant care he has given it since his youth. He says he eats very plain food but always endeavors to get the best possible living and plenty of exercise. In-door activity are the essentials of longevity, he says. He is not an opponent of tobacco but rather enjoys smoking a pipe occasionally.

His Friend, "Peggy"

During his trip across the continent Mr. Morrison's sole companion has been "Peggy," a pet bull dog. "There's my best friend," said Mr. Morrison, pointing to the dog in the corner of his room. Before I had her, I used to lose many of the articles from my machine, but since she and I have been travelling together, there has been no stealing.

One of Mr. Morrison's first acts when he gets back to Waterville, he says, will be to fix up his mother's grave. She died during his absence in the west.

PLEASED WITH ELECTION

Members of Local Greek
Community Well Satisfied
With Results

General satisfaction prevails in the local Greek community over the result of the recent election, the announcement of which was made in yesterday's Sun, and the members of the community feel and expect that the new board of officers will accomplish
a great deal toward the advancement of the colony.

The new president, James Danas, is an active young man, who has the Interest of the community at heart.

He is a very successful business man and his friends predict that under his direction the affairs of the community will be conducted under strictly business principles. The new secretary, Demetrios Kirkilis, has had considerable experience in the administration of the community's affairs as he has served for years on the board of directors. Last year he was a member of the board of auditors.
As far as could be learned the recent election cost the community over $400

and the work of counting up the ballots was very slow, this being due, it is said, to the system in vogue. There was but one voting place and that was in the basement of the church in Jefferson street and inasmuch as there were close to 100 names on the ballot,
the task of counting, which was in the hands of only a couple of men, was a very difficult one. The new board of directors are now planning to change the system and to establish voting places in various parts of the district, or in other words, divide the district into wards. Then election officers will be chosen and the election will be conducted along the same lines

as the city election. It is felt that with such a system the tabulating will be facilitated, while the election expense will not be so great.

705 MEN ARE LAID OFF

Great Falling Off in Both
Freight and Passenger
Traffic On B. & A. R. R.

BANGOR, Me., June 3.—To meet a 40 per cent. falling off in passenger business and a decided slump in freight traffic, the Bangor & Aroostook railroad today notified its men that large temporary reductions would be made immediately in its forces, a total of 705 men being suspended for a period of 30 days. The locomotive and car repair shops at Derby and the car repair shops at Houlton, will be closed, affecting 350 men at the former and 35 men at the latter shops, and the maintenance of way and construction departments, 320 employees will be relieved for a similar period. The men were notified that they may report
for work in 30 days.

"The great falling off in both freight and passenger traffic all over the United States," said President Todd,
"was not so severe in northern Maine
as elsewhere in the country, and our traffic, both passenger and freight,
compared fairly with the corresponding months of last year until about two months ago when the bottom seemed to fall out of everything and since then the number of passengers carried on our trains is about 10 per cent. less than it was a year ago."

Honeymoon Interrupted
Norman Gardinere of Quincy, who was summoned by Deputy Sheriff
Cody, had just been married. Mr.
Gardinere was preparing to start for
New York on his honeymoon, the officer said, but the wedding trip was postponed and he was in court today.

The Italian consul at Boston, Marquis A. Ferranti, was present today,
accompanied by Vice Consul Silvio Vitale. The consul said he was under instructions from his government to observe the proceedings and would be in attendance at such times as counsel for the defense recommended. The defendants Sacco and Vanzetti are nationals of Italy.

Moore Was Counsel For Etor

Fred H. Moore of Los Angeles, who has been active in formulating the defense of the prisoners, filed with the court a motion of attorney signed by Sacco, together with a petition that he
be allowed to represent him. Moore, who appeared before the council of this state previously as counsel for the defendants in the trial at Salem in 1912, of Etor, Giovannitti and Caruso,
I.W.W. leaders, for murder in connection with Lawrence strike riots, is not a member of the Massachusetts bar.
Judge Thayer said he would reserve decision for the present, adding that he would announce his answer shortly with the reason for it. Meantime, Attorney Moore continued to look after Sacco's interests.
Counsel for the defense suggested to the court that because of the summary manner in which the prisoners were obtained, the usual questions be amplified and after conference with the prosecution, the judge added to the

After five talesmen had been ex-

in Harry E. King of Mills, a shoe-

The court overruled an objection by counsel for the defense to the man-summoned. The objection was based on the claim that the defense had had no opportunity to inform itself concerning the man. A request that the defense be given an opportunity to establish whether the manner of summons was legal also was overruled.

Woman Drover—Miss Cribb Finds Business Success In Health Quest

MISS GRACE CRIBB

MINNEAP. June 3.—Miss Grace Cribb was assistant credit manager of a large department store four years ago. She was a city-bred girl. She knew nothing of the small village or the country. She had never looked into the soulful eyes of a cow. She knew not the difference between a Holstein and a Philippine buffalo. Sheep made splendid effects in oil paintings, and in real life bleated and were the parents of lambs. Pigs and hogs were one and the same to her; she liked them best in pork chops.

Becomes "Drover"

Today Miss Cribb is a "drover." She often stops by a cattle pen to discuss market conditions and the latest quotations on hogs. Her business is to sell sales service to stock farmers. Although she doesn't

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF LOWELL

This is to let you know that Johnson's Boot Shop opened its doors on April 2, 1921, with ladies' and men's shoes in stock, up to date in every respect, to sell for one price, $5.00.

Of course, we admit that we are, what is considered, a little bit out of the way of the real shopping district, (36 Gorham St., opposite the postoffice), but wouldn't it seem reasonable to believe that if a man or woman could save from two dollars and a half to five dollars on every pair of shoes they buy that they would come down to 36 Gorham Street for that saving?

If you do not believe that we save you that much money on every pair of shoes, go into your dealer's store and ask him what he can sell a pair of "Just Wright" shoes for, (remember the name is "Just Wright"), and see what he will say to you.

If you are convinced that we are able to save you that much money, come in to see us and we will sell you a pair of shoes for $5.00 that you will be proud of.

Yours very truly,

TEN-CENT POSTAGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 3.—Householders held their noses as a postman passed by. An inquisitive crowd followed him to an office building. There he delivered a first-class package from Germany. It held first-class Limburger cheese.

Atty. Gen. Baugherty was among the callers at Jack Dempsey's training camp the other day. The cabinet member who should have called on Dempsey was the former secretary of war.

Fight experts seem to be agreed that Carpenter is the fastest man with whom Dempsey has ever been matched. He may be a fast man, but when it came to getting up and being knocked down again there never was anybody as fast as Jess Willard.

WINDY CITY TO HONOR MADAME CURIE

CHICAGO, June 3.—During a part of the two days of her three-day visit in Chicago, Madame Marie Sklodowska Curie, famous woman scientist who, with her husband, discovered radium, will be entertained by Northwestern University, the University of Chicago and the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society of which Prof. W. Lee Lewis of the former university is chairman, according to announcement made by Prof. Lewis. Mrs. Curie is due in Chicago on the morning of Monday, June 13, coming here from Colorado. That afternoon at the Art Institute, Chicago women will pay her tribute at a reception promoted by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, and by the Associated Women's Organization of Chicago.

Tuesday, June 14, Mrs. Curie will be the guest of the University of Chicago a part of the afternoon and, in the evening will be entertained by the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society, when the Willard Gibbs medal, one of the highest honors bestowed by chemical circles will be awarded to Madame Curie. Prof. Lewis is a member of the national committee of scientists which early last winter co-operated with Mrs. William Brown Meloney of New York in an appeal to Mme. Curie to visit America. There ensued the movement for a gift of $100,000 worth of radium which on May 20 was presented at the White House in Washington.

Wednesday, June 15, Mrs. Curie and her daughters, Irene, aged 20 and Eva, aged 15, with Mrs. Meloney, will be guests of Northwestern University at the annual convocation exercises. The distinguished guest will then be honored with the doctor of science degree. Mme. Curie will be entertained at luncheon the same day and her daughters will be the guests of the women at Northwestern University at Willard hall. At the head of the Willard hall girls' committee will be Miss Raymonde Barthélemy, daughter of the French consul in Chicago, who is a senior at Northwestern university.

Returning from the Evanston campus of Northwestern university, Mme. Curie goes to a reception to be tendered her by the Polish Women's association of Chicago. Mme. Curie distinguishes guest will then be honored with the doctor of science degree.

MISS SULLIVAN HONORED

Miss Julia Sullivan, a popular young woman of this city, who will soon become the bride of Mr. James S. Oldfield, was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Thomas Galvin, 51 Coburn street, last evening. A large number of the young woman's friends were present and after extending their best wishes, showered her with numerous gifts. Miss Sullivan responded in a fitting manner, and an evening of pleasure followed, during which entertainment numbers were given and luncheon was served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Galvin, Mrs. McAvoy and Miss Tessie V. Oldfield.

Romance of "Most Beautiful" Princess Wrecked by Spectre of First Husband

❖ Mrs. Schultz—Princess Troubetskoy

PRINCESS NADEJDA TROUBETSKOY, KNOWN AS THE "MOST BEAUTIFUL RED CROSS NURSE," WHOSE WHIRLING ROMANCE WITH CAPTAIN WALLACE STRAIT SCHULTZ CAME TO AN UNHAPPY ENDING WHEN THE ARMY OFFICER SECURED AN ANNULMENT OF THE MARRIAGE IN GREEN BAY, WIS.

Out of the past has come the specter of a husband she thought dead to lay in cold ashes the romance of Princess Nadejda Troubetskoy, known as "the most beautiful Red Cross nurse," and the dashing Captain Wallace Strait Schultz. Annulment of their marriage was recently secured by Schultz in Green Bay, Wis. He secured the decree through the declaration that a former husband of the princess, Victor A. Turin, at one time officer of the Imperial Russian Guard, was alive and residing in New York state. At the very moment Schultz was bringing his action the princess was attempting to secure a legal residence in California that she might sue for divorce. She had gone to San Diego under an assumed name, it developed, and was studying aviation under the direction of Lieutenant W. F. Richardson, her father's adjutant in Russia. But a few weeks after the marriage, which followed a whirlwind courtship in Washington, D. C., the "ghost" of the "dead" first husband crossed the family threshold and began its work of matrimonial destruction. Captain Schultz, it is said, accused her of having another husband. The princess declared that Turin had been killed in France and that she had proof of this. Schultz, however, had started on the trail of Husband No. 1 and the romance went smash. "I had come to America to find freedom," the princess related when she heard of the annulment suit. "I had fled from my revolution-torn country—only to end in this."

NAVY RECRUITING STAFF OFFICE

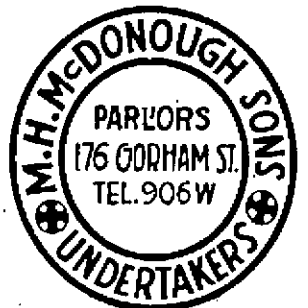

An office has been hired by the local navy recruiting staff, in the Howe building, and unlimited acceptance of men for sea service is in prospect in the near future. Chief Gunner's Mate McDowell, in charge of activities here, states that the lid is expected to come off July 1, when every man of moral fitness who can pass the physical and mental tests will be eligible to become a man-of-war's man. Until a recent order limited the number of recruits to sixteen throughout this part of New England Lowell had held the lead as furnishing the greatest proportional number of men for Uncle Sam's fighting forces. Many local young men have joined the colors during the past months, many of them veterans of the world war.

LOWELL FIREMEN WILL PLAY SALEM

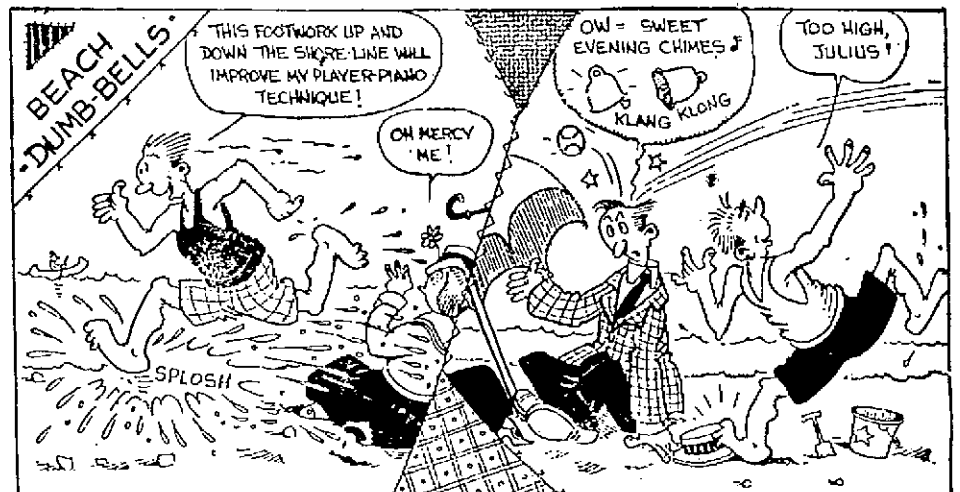

The baseball team of the second platoon of the Lowell fire department will play the team of the second platoon of the Salem department next Monday, June 6, at Salem. The Lowell team, with a large delegation of loyal rooters will leave Central fire station at 9 o'clock. Game will be called at 11 o'clock.

LOWELL'S STATE TAX THE SAME AS LAST YEAR

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 3—Lowell's contribution to the expense of operating the commonwealth will be $248,459 this year, this being the same amount of tax which the city was obliged to raise last year for the benefit of the state.

The aggregate amount which the commonwealth will assess upon the cities and towns—and every municipality in the state is obliged to contribute—will be $13,000,000. The state tax, as it is called, is always levied by the legislature in an amount approximating the difference between the expenses which it authorizes the various state departments to incur, and the amount of revenue which is expected from ordinary sources, including inheritance and other special taxes, license fees, and the many other sources of revenue which a thoughtful legislature has provided in an effort to conceal as much as possible of the expenditures which it annually authorizes.

This year those expenditures amount to about $10,000,000, and since only about $26,000,000 of that is expected to come in from other sources, it became necessary to levy the so-called state tax.

Figuring the apportionment of the state tax is looked upon in the office of the tax commissioner as a real "man's" job. Each city and town is supposed to contribute according to its ability to pay, and in determining that ability the commissioner takes into account the valuation of the city or town, the number of poll taxes it collects, and any other information he may have as to the wealth of the town and its inhabitants.

The figures showing the wealth of all the cities and towns are then added together, and for each municipality a determination is made as to its proper proportion of the total. Figuring these proportions is likely to perplex any except a trained mathematician. For example, it appears that Boston is required this year to pay thirty and four hundred and forty-five one-thousandths per cent. of the total, or $1,262,300. Lowell's percentage figures at two and one hundred and thirty-two thousandths per cent.

The little town of Gay Head, down on Martha's Vineyard, rejoices this year that it pays the smallest tax in the state, $210, which, reduced to percentage, amounts to one one-thousandth of one per cent. of the total tax. New Ashford, up in the hills of Berkshire, ranks second, and pays just twice as much, not because it is exactly twice as rich as Gay Head, but because the mathematicians tired of using small figures and decided they would use nothing smaller than thousandths of one per cent. So they assigned one of "those things" to Gay Head, and because New Ashford was a little richer, they decided that her "dose" must be two.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
There's an excellent program of attractions being shown at the Merrimack square theatre today, early up to the usual high standard of this popular amusement house. The leading feature is "Don't Neglect Your Wife," an original story by Gertrude Allen, dealing with riches and social position in San Francisco and poverty and degradation in New York. Mabel Jullienne Scott plays the leading role. The other feature for the week-end, "See My Lawyer," is an Al Christie comedy of exceptional merit. The International News and a "Torchy" comedy are other attractions.

THE STRAND

Alice Joyce is making a pronounced hit in her newest picture offering, "Cousin Kate," an adaptation from the stage play of the same name in which Ethel Barrymore scored one of her bluest stage successes. It's a delightful story and handled remarkably well by Miss Joyce. Harry Carey in "If Only Jim" is another picture of exceptional merit in which the star and an able cast of players are seen to advantage. The remainder of the program is commendable. The Strand is "always cool and comfortable."

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The wonderful tapping of the mallets by Signor Prisco at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, marks the work of the master xylophonist, for it is probable that no more artistic player on this instrument has ever appeared in this city than is he. He also brings delightful comedy into his act. A most attractive woman is Elaine Lange, who appears with Emmet Gilfill, and in her bridal gown she is wonderfully fascinating. Will Mahoney, the Cossack comedian, is certainly a laugh-causer all of the time, while the Three Kervilles give one of the season's best novelty acts. Others on the bill are Holmes & Holliston in a rube comedy skit; George and May LeFevre, dancers, and Adams & Barnett.

"WAY DOWN EAST"

A feature of every production bearing the name of D. W. Griffith is the music and those who have seen his "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Hearts of the World," "Broken Blossoms" and "Way Down East" And that a real enjoyment is to be had in the flow of melody from the orchestra—always present. Each situation is given the proper emphasis or shading by the character of music that is played and whether there is fortissimo or pianissimo makes the greatest difference in the world in the effect of the scene upon the latent spectator. Some of the music that is to be heard in "Way Down East" and the reason for this is that the music is identified with a role—for all the characters in a Griffith play have their characteristic musical theme and when the theme recurs the appearance of the person is definitely indicated.

RIALTO THEATRE

The first showing of the week-end program at the Rialto theatre lived up to all expectations yesterday afternoon and established the same reputation which that theatre holds for first class pictures. The program introduced Wanda Hawley in a brisk comedy, "Her First Elopement," also William Fairbanks in "Fighting Bill." There is also a Johnny Hines comedy, "Torchy's Indiscretion," and the last episode of "Fighting Fate."

There is little need to comment upon the work of Wanda Hawley, and it is sufficient to say that her serene appearance in this, her latest picture, is well up to her usual standard. The western picture is equally good, though of a far different type, and is full of red blooded action.

Crisis in World's Fuel Problem Averted by Scientific Discovery

BY PAUL N. WILSON,
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Science has come to the rescue of the world's rapidly dwindling fuel supply.

The serious danger of oil reserve
exhaustion will be removed by a discovery which will not only double the world's fuel supply, but will make the use of that fuel so cheap that the cost of freight, manufacturing and production is expected to drop as soon as its employment is made common.

This is not the dream of an over-
enthusiastic amateur, but the solemn pronouncement of an engineer and scientist of world renown, Lindon W.
Bates. Bates is given credit for having developed the hydraulic drive, as well as many other mechanical appliances, and did invaluable work during the war as head of the Submarine
Defense association.

His discovery, announcement of which is here made for the first time, will be called Colloid Fuel and is an outcome of Bates' researches during the war for a fuel which, while easily handled in liquid form, still would not make necessary the transportation
across the Atlantic of enormous quantities of fuel oil, so often the special target of enemy submarines. With the new discovery it became possible to ship to England half the previous amount of oil, mix it with English coal and still have the same amount of liquid as was being transported before Colloid Fuel was perfected.

Saves Millions

Hundreds of millions of dollars will be saved annually to railroads the world over, manufacturers and other big users of fuel oil, and through them to the ultimate consumer, it is declared.

Bates' discovery will be made available to all users of either coal or oil.
Low grade coal, which has heretofore been considered useless for fuel

Lindon W. Bates

purposes, will immediately assume value commensurate with that of coal
of higher test. For Bates' new fuel will be about 45 per cent. cost and 55 per cent. crude oil. It is described by Bates as merely the suspension of pulverized carbon from coal in the hydro-carbonates that make oil, the two being stabilized by the introduction of a small percentage of soapified substance to keep the solid carbon particles from settling.

The new fuel has been thoroughly
tested by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and pronounced the best fuel yet devised. It has been given an unusually low insurance rating, since its flash and ignition points are high and it can, unlike oil, be easily quenched by water.

Given National Test

The immense waste now involved in transporting coal will be eliminated,
as all fine particles broken off in carrying will be available in the manufacture of the new product.

The new fuel will be of great importance not only in the reduction of operating expenses of industries, and the conserving of the present oil supply, but will also be of great assistance
to the navy in that it will greatly enlarge the cruising radius of vessels.

Tests made with U. S. naval vessels have proved Bates' new composition to be the most economical as well as the most efficient fuel yet found. Bates is also negotiating with the large railroad systems of the country, and it is expected that Colloid Fuel will shortly come into universal use for transportation and industrial purposes.

Scientists and industrial engineers
who have studied Bates' new discovery
state that it is the biggest discovery
to result from the millions of inventions and researches made during the war.

Chief Iron Lightning Led

One of Sitting Bull's Divisions at Little Big Horn

PIERRE, S. D., June 3.—In the recent death of Chief Iron Lightning, at his home near Thunder Butte in the northwestern part of the Cheyenne Indian reservation, the country lost probably the greatest of the few remaining famous Indian characters who figured in the early history of Dakota territory.

Iron Lightning was one of the sub-chiefs, who under Sitting Bull, participated in the memorable battle of the Little Big Horn, June 25, 1876,
when Custer and his band of 251 men were annihilated. He is said to be the last of the chiefs who were in control of the Sioux nation at that time. He was 35 years old at the time of his death and has for years made his home in the vicinity of Thunder Butte station.

Unusually tall and well proportioned,
even for an Indian, and possessing a voice which commanded attention and obedience although it knew no word
of English, Iron Lightning was a natural leader of men. In the early part of this century following the Ute
Indian uprising, when the Utes had been rounded up and sent to the Cheyenne reservation, it was Iron Lightning
who went among them urging them
to forget their grievance with the whites and settle down to peaceful lives.

He was the last Indian, so far as is known, to have continued to live with two wives after the order prohibiting polygamy and further polygamous marriages among the Indians was made. Iron Lightning was called to the Thunder Butte station when this order was received and told he must choose between the two women
with whom he was living.

"If the commissioner has lived with one woman," the chief replied in Indian, "he will know how impossible it is for Iron Lightning to separate himself from two. Iron Lightning laughs."

This speech won for him his case and the two wives were retained. They lived together in harmony, one doing
the cooking for the family, which among the Indians is regarded as an honor, for one week when the other came into power for a like period.

KEEP ADVERTISING; POLICY OF ADMIRAL

Chairman, U. S. Shipping Board

During the war, in connection with recruiting work, we were obliged to give a great deal of consideration to the power of advertising. I became an absolute believer in the government paying for messages they desire carried which, strictly speaking, come within the province of advertising.

It is particularly apropos at this time, with the labor situation confronting us, to refer to our advertising campaign. This campaign began last August and has reached a point where it affects, in a material sense, the passenger ships of the government fleet.

Faced as we were within the last month by a threatened tie-up of our shipping, we found it necessary either to stop our advertising at once or to go ahead full force.

We refused to let go; our campaign
continues full force.

Our campaign to arouse the American traveler and shipper to "Ship and Sail in American Ships" is meeting with success. Passenger ship business was in full swing when the labor controversy threatened its success. But we have carried that slogan into every American home and business house,
and the response is most encouraging.

I have refused to recognize any move as a reason to cease for one moment our campaign of advertising.
Through it we can stimulate the wholesome interest and support that is necessary to success in any line of endeavor.

TAFT SEES CUT IN TAXES A NECESSITY

By R. H. WHITNEY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 3.—The man who in all probability will be the next chief justice of the United States regards governmental economy and reduction of taxation as the greatest necessities in the administration of national affairs.

I laid before William H. Taft in his office room at the Hotel Taft, questions dealing with national and international problems and asked him to discuss them. He declined, saying, "It would be improper for me to talk upon these matters at this time. The president has gone into them very fully in his recent address in New York."

"But," I inquired, "do you agree fully with all that President Harding said, with all that he suggested should be done?"

"I will answer that, and thereby touch in a measure on those other questions you've presented," he replied. He stepped across the room to his desk and wrote what follows:

Experience in such matters can value to the full the importance of such a speech.

"Of course I cordially and emphatically approve the policy of the president in his proposed fiscal reform and budget."

"But, as the president himself pointed out, the adoption of a budget is only one step. The main reform must be in cutting down appropriations in many fields of expenditure with a ruthless hand. The mounting weight of taxation shown in the halt of business, in the spread of unemployment, and in the general depression, requires this."

While advices from Washington are that President Harding has definitely decided to send Taft's nomination for the chief justiceship to the senate at an early date, Taft gives the impression that he will consider the appointment most seriously before acceptance. Taking this most has been a grave question with him even if, as has been said, it would be the crowning achievement of a life honored in many ways, including four years in the White House.

Lloyd George Under Fire

LONDON, June 3.—Premier Lloyd George and Sir Hankey Greenwood were again bombarded yesterday in the House of Commons with inquiries regarding Ireland.

The chief secretary said that since January 1, 1921, five women had been murdered, seven wounded and three kidnapped by the Sinn Féin forces. During the fortnight ending May 28, 29 police, eight military and 46 civilian deaths were reported by the police.

Asked if the cabinet approved the policy of reprisals, the prime minister said military authorities were authorized to take such action as was necessary and justified by the military exigencies to suppress rebellion and restore order.

Try to Blow Up Ship

The destroyer was slightly damaged.

In consequence of the incident all the dockyard employees were paid off yesterday on 20 minutes' notice.

TRUCK AND CAR CRASHED —2 SEVERELY INJURED

WORCESTER, June 3.—Mrs. Ida Peterson, 50 years old, and Albert Buskey, 24, were dangerously injured when an automobile truck driven by Buskey collided with a electric car near Chadwick square, today. Four other women occupants of the truck were severely injured. Mrs. John Ekberg, 40, suffered concussion of the brain and injury to the back; Mrs. John Johnson, 45, injuries to chest and head; Mrs. Nils Backlund, 40, fracture of right hip; Mr. Cristie Quist, 43, injury to left hip and head injuries. All are in City hospital.

The women were being taken to the fair grounds in Greendale to prepare the tables for the big dinner of the United Commercial Travelers of New England there tomorrow.

caused by the war," as an excuse for transitory experiments, but as an opportunity to point out the need for permanent reform, and the committee outlines the following program of governmental assistance to eliminate waste:

"A national industrial information service should be established covering more timely, regular and complete information covering current production and consumption and stocks of commodities; a national statistical service should be established covering employment requirements; a national policy regarding public health should be fostered and encouraged; the national program for industrial rehabilitation should be encouraged and should offer opportunities for education and placement to those having physical defects as well as those handicapped because of industrial accidents; a nationwide program of industrial standardization should be encouraged in conjunction with industrial interests; the government should recognize the necessity for a revision of such federal laws as interfere with the stabilization of industry; a body of principles should be accepted which should be developed for the adjustment and settlement of labor disputes."

Urges Co-operation of Labor

After emphasizing the need of reform an improvement in plant management and administrative policies the report urges the co-operation of labor.

"The attitude of opposition or indifference to proper standards for production should be changed to a frank and aggressive insistence on such standards; there should be a scientific examination of the basis for wages; certain union rules should be modified in regard to machine operation, apprenticeship and craft workers' distinction which result in restriction of output; individual workers should realize their responsibilities for waste resulting from ill-health and disregard of safety measures."

75 Per Cent. of Deaths Preventable

Declaring that the annual economic loss in the country through preventable diseases and death amounts to $1,000,000, the report urges a more general use of safety methods already perfected. It is asserted that 75 per cent. of the deaths and serious accidents in industry could be thus prevented.

In regard to the number of days lost, the report says: "Forty-two million persons lose 350,000,000 days from illness and disease and non-industrial accidents annually; 43 per cent. of the waste of ill-health is preventable. In 1912 there were three million industrial accidents resulting in an economic loss to the country of about $533,000,000. Industrial accidents are caused by the carelessness of the workmen and lack of ordinary safeguards."

Plant illness comes in for its share of the blame for waste. In the printing industry alone, the report says, an investment of more than $100,000,000 in stocks of paper carried to meet trade requirements could be cut in half through standardization in the brands of paper.

The building industry is said to be about 60 per cent. efficient. In the shoe industry the waste is put at about 35 per cent. The average plant in the metal trades group is from 25 to 30 per cent. behind the best plant in output per employee.

In the ready-made clothing industry, the report says, it should be relatively easy to save three-quarters of a million dollars a day—an increase of 50 per cent. in effectiveness. The value of the output in this industry is at $600,000,000 a year.

CHAMPIONS WAGE EARNER'S CAUSE

Lord Haldane Says That Old
Social Order is Passing Away

Newer and Better State in Process of Achievement,
He Avers

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON, June 3.—"When people talk about labor and wages and standards of living, they all seem to overlook the one fundamental thing—that the old social order is passing away and that a newer and better state is in process of achievement in most of the civilized lands of the globe."

"Everywhere you look you see the workers determined to secure—and securing—a better and fuller existence for themselves and their families. Part of this demand is a demand for an adequate wage. But the desire of the workers is for something higher than mere money, although money can help them attain it."

"The worker of today—and properly so—is demanding his chance to have some of the better things of life—knowledge, peace, art. He says—and I agree with him—that these good things shall no longer be the monopoly of a small proportion of the people."

The man who said these things to me is one of the greatest living Britons—Lord Haldane. Multifarious activities have been crowded into the life of this Scot, who was educated in the best Scotch and German universities.

He is an authority on constitutional law. He is an authority on philosophy and has translated some of the greatest German philosophers into English. He served in the house of commons for 25 years. He has been rector of several great British universities.

From 1905 to 1912 he was secretary of state for war. It was in those fruitful years that he completely reorganized the British army, so that when the great war came Britain sent her first expeditionary force into France in record-breaking time.

He was lord chancellor of Great Britain from 1912 to 1915. He is now one of the law lords, constituting the court of last resort in the kingdom.

It may be added that all his life Lord Haldane has been a liberal in politics and liberal in his outlook on life.

An Advocate of Progress

"When the worker demands better things he is not a Bolshevik and it is wrong to accuse him of being one," Haldane continued. "He is an advocate of a progress which will make for the good of the state."

"He is simply demanding that we shall narrow, as much as possible, the gap that has hitherto always separated the manual worker from the rest of the nation. He is demanding that the importance of his labor and its dignity shall be recognized and that it shall receive a fair share of the wealth it helps to create."

"That does not mean he is seeking to put everybody upon a wage equality. Every worker who thinks at all, knows that some kinds of work are worth higher rates of pay than others. He knows that though manual labor is necessary, the mental labor of directing and organizing work because of their trained intelligence are entitled to high rates of pay."

"When the new order of things becomes stabilized, the manual workers will get a full share of the monetary profits, so they can get a full share of intellectual pleasures in their leisure hours. There will then be something that is often too sadly lacking today—contentment."

Cause of Discontent

"It has been said that our British miners are constantly in a bad temper. That comes very near being true with the workers in most industries. It is because many of them have been looked down upon, undervalued, and thereby denied the good things of life."

"During the war the workers began to come into their own. They are, therefore, very suspicious of anything which looks like a movement to take away all they have gained. You must not be surprised then if they violently protest against any sudden and general reduction of wages."

"I have found in Britain—and I imagine you would find it so in America—that the workers are keenly alive to the needs of education. I don't mean merely the education boys and girls get in the schools up to the age of 18. I mean the fuller education which begins when school days are over and which continues during the rest of life. We must bring that kind of education within the means of every worker.

"Knowledge makes men free. The educated man is the contented and the honest working man. His job may be tiresome. So are many of my tasks in the law courts. But when a man knows his work is useful and necessary and an honorable service to his nation, he carries on in a cheerful frame of mind.

"But there is another reason why education must be available to the workers throughout life. Hitherto the great jobs of leading in the state have—with some exceptions—been done by those who have had the advantages of full education and training. We have thus left untapped a great source of power and talent and, perhaps, even genius. We have not used the latent abilities of the great mass of the people. It is up to us to use this reservoir of fresh mental and spiritual power."

"Now you, perhaps, begin to realize why there is this fierce hostility to wage reductions. Such proposals, especially when not well grounded, at once suggest to the workman that he is once more to be treated as a chattel, instead of a fellow servant."

"The way to prosperity and to peace and contentment is to bring it about that capital is really and truly nothing but a fellow servant in industry with the manual worker and also with the inventing and organizing type."

State Ownership or Control

"I think another thing is coming, too. Sooner or later I think such arterial industries as the railroads and the coal mines will either be state-owned or state-controlled."

"I know that both in America and England there is an objection that such things are never as well done by the state as they are by private enterprise."

training and education for a special type of government servant."

I mentioned to Lord Haldane that in America and Britain many employers said that with wages at their present figure, they couldn't compete with nations where the rate of wages were very much lower. He replied:

"It is quite possible that in some cases a temporary adjustment will be found necessary. But if it is, the employers might take a leaf out of the Italian book. The workers should be taken into the confidence of the employer and shown the books. Just I think in many instances wage cuts will not be necessary if the employers introduce better machinery and better methods. I have one final thought to give you:

"If there is an industry which is unable to meet competition while paying decent wages, it may be far better for the nation for that industry to cease to exist."

"It would be better for the employer to use his capital in some industry in which he can at one and the same time pay good wages and successfully face competition."

Commissioner of immigration—John G. Hagberg of Watertown, to succeed Henry Skeffington.

Assistant appraiser of customs—William S. Briry of Melrose.

Assistant appraiser of customs—Osgood C. Blaney of West Roxbury. These appointments complete the list of big jobs in the state. The senior senator said that the selections were made after a careful survey of the field.

The big federal appointment, collector of internal revenue, which went to Mr. Nichols, is not alone generally satisfactory to the republican organization, but it was supported by some of the most responsible business men in Massachusetts. From the beginning Mr. Nichols had a substantial lead over the other candidates by reason of his exceptional qualifications for the office.

Mr. Nichols was for many years a member of the staff of the Boston Post. He was born in Portland, Me., May 8, 1875. Graduated from Harvard college in 1899.

He is a graduate of Tufts college and a former newspaperman. In 1917 he enlisted as a private in the Aviation Service. Served at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex.; appointed second lieutenant Jan. 2, 1918. Served at same field as adjutant of the flying school until transferred to Mineola Field, Long Island, August, 1918. Promoted to first lieutenant, Air Service, Aeronautics August, 1918. Subsequently transferred to Langley Field, Virginia, as commanding officer of a battalion. Honorably discharged Dec. 30, 1918. Is now a commissioned officer in the Reserve Corps.

The new immigration commissioner

lege in 1899, is a lawyer and member of the Massachusetts bar.

He served in the Boston city council, in the house of representatives and for four years in the Massachusetts senate.

McCarthy's Successor

Elmer C. Potter of Worcester, who has been named federal prohibition commissioner for New England, has had considerable experience in handling liquor legislation, having served for a number of years as chairman of the liquor commission of Worcester. He was born in Framingham, Aug. 23, 1868.

He is a graduate of Dartmouth college, a member of the Worcester County Bar association, and has served in both branches of the legislature for an aggregate of eight years. He was also at one time a member of the Worcester city council and is prominent among republican party workers.

Mr. Potter studied law and was admitted to the bar in Worcester county in 1897. He has practiced law in Worcester since 1906.

The new federal prohibition officer, Mr. Wilson, is unknown to politics. It is understood that he had the solid backing of the "dry forces" in the state.

Wilson was born in Cawker City, Kansas, is a graduate of Tufts college and a former newspaperman. In 1917 he enlisted as a private in the Aviation Service. Served at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex.; appointed second lieutenant Jan. 2, 1918. Served at same field as adjutant of the flying school until transferred to Mineola Field, Long Island, August, 1918. Promoted to first lieutenant, Air Service, Aeronautics August, 1918. Subsequently transferred to Langley Field, Virginia, as commanding officer of a battalion. Honorably discharged Dec. 30, 1918. Is now a commissioned officer in the Reserve Corps.

The new immigration commissioner

is promoted from inspector to the head of the department. This appointment is a recognition of the civil service principle.

Hagberg was born in Sweden in 1874. Has resided in the United States for 41 years, coming to this country at the age of 6. Was associated with various business firms until appointed an inspector in the immigration service in 1902. Is in the classified civil service, having been appointed after examination. Served in the Massachusetts state militia and is a veteran of the Spanish war. Served as a republican member of the house in the Massachusetts legislature.

Hornell's Appointment

Mr. Hornell, the new surveyor, was born in Boston, Oct. 15, 1873. Educated at Boston Latin School and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Has served for 15 years as a member of the republican state committee of Massachusetts and had charge of the speakers' bureau of the committee from 1903 to 1911. Has served several terms in the Massachusetts senate and at the present time is chairman of the republican city committee of Boston.

Assistant Appraiser of Customs William S. Briry, in charge of drug inspection, is at present director of registration, department of civil service and registration, for the state of Massachusetts. He is secretary of the Commercial Travelers' Republican club of Massachusetts and an experienced druggist and chemist.

Assistant Appraiser of Customs Osgood C. Blaney was born in Boston Jan. 20, 1860. Served as republican member of the Boston city council. Appointed sealer of weights and measures in Boston in 1896; Massachusetts House, 1898; served for 13 years as assistant appraiser during the administration of McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. Is at present a member of the house of representatives of Massachusetts.

LIABILITY IN AUTO FATALITIES

Another fatal auto accident is reported, to be followed by a presumption, by the usual formula, only to bring the usual finding of no criminal negligence that would warrant an indictment for manslaughter.

In the recent case in which a little girl was the unfortunate victim, the facts are yet to be determined. Our remarks here have reference to this class of cases.

Doubtless the public has the idea that an autoist may do almost anything on the public highways without incurring criminal liability on which he can be held on a charge of manslaughter if he kills anybody. That idea, whether right or wrong, prevails very widely throughout our city. It may be based upon the uniformity with which men who kill people on the highways are found not guilty of criminal negligence, or it may have grown from a misconception of the law. We understand that there must be positive evidence of extreme recklessness before a driver can be sent to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter, even though he kills one or more.

The local court, we are informed, has sent up some cases of alleged criminal liability, which were promptly thrown out, as no jury would find a defendant guilty without strong and tangible evidence that he had no regard for the public safety and that to his recklessness alone was due the fatality. It is a recognized principle of law that if a burglar, apprehended while engaged in his nefarious business, commits murder, the charge against him will be murder in the first degree, although it was not premeditated.

When the burglar set out to rob a house, he did not mean to kill anybody; but he was armed for emergencies and to make good his escape when caught, he shot somebody. Now take the case of the speedster on the highway. He does not mean to kill anybody; but it is evident that if anyone gets in his path, he is going at such a high rate of speed that he cannot stop in time to prevent a fatality.

While violating the speed laws, and menacing public safety on the highways, he kills a person. Why should he not be held for manslaughter for the reason that he was violating the law when the accident happened? It would seem that there is just as good ground for holding him for manslaughter as there is for holding the burglar who kills, for first degree murder. It is not always possible to prove that the fatality in an auto accident of this kind is due to over-speeding. There may be contributory negligence on the part of the victim, as when a person steps in front of a moving auto so that an accident is inevitable. But to provide for reasonable safety even under such circumstances, the state has fixed a speed limit in thickly settled districts, which, if observed, will generally enable drivers to avoid fatal accidents even when careless pedestrians do get in the way. When, however, the speed limit is disregarded and as a result a fatality occurs, it would seem that the driver should be held criminally liable.

The inquest findings are based upon the law and the evidence; but whether one or the other, or both combined, be weak, the fact is, that with a very rare exception, the autoists who kill people escape without any punishment whatever. This, of course, may be due to the fact that under the law reckless driving at a rate of speed forbidden by law, is not prima facie evidence of criminal liability in case a fatal accident occurs.

It may be, that to secure greater safety on the highways, the law must be made more stringent in reference to the responsibility of autoists for accidents while they are violating the speed laws. It should be remembered, however, that although a driver who kills a person on the highways is acquitted on the charge of manslaughter, he may be liable for civil damages or for prosecution for violation of the speed laws. It is plainly evident that either the present laws must be more rigidly enforced or more stringent laws enacted with a view to securing greater security on the highways. In this city we have been particularly unfortunate in the number of fatal auto accidents during the past few months. When or how is it going to be stopped? The people have been cautioned thousands of times against taking chances on the streets and highways, but when anybody is killed the driver comes forward with a statement that the victim was to blame for stepping in front of the car. In many cases that is true, but in the majority of such cases no accident would occur if the speed laws were duly observed.

PURPOSEFUL "KICKING"

Although Mr. Jefferson failed to include it among the inalienable rights of man named in the Declaration of Independence, the privilege of "kicking" over unsatisfactory civic conditions is one that belongs to every citizen and can scarcely be too largely exercised. When the disposition to object, and that strenuously, to failure of the municipal government to provide for the common welfare as it should, ceases, then the city may as well conclude that the time has come for hanging crepe on its front door.

There is usually enough "kicking" over unwholesome conditions in this city to make it sure that we are alive and very much so. Altogether too much of the "kicking" is purposeless, however. It favors too much of aimless grumbling. It fills the air to such an extent that it ceases to be impressive. The people of Centerville have recently shown the residents of other parts of the city a course of action that might profitably be widely copied. They, in common with citizens of the Highlands, Belvidere and Pawmucketville, for several years have been discontented with the condition of their streets. There has been cause enough, in all conscience, for their discontent. The Centervilleans have not liked the way a municipal dumping place has been permitted to become a public nuisance for their section.

With their grievances in mind the residents of that district have held a largely attended mass meeting. At this gathering they listened to some earnest speeches telling of the things that the city government has failed to do for them. Then they decided to do something more than talk or listen to condemnatory addresses. They made up their minds to attempt to bring concentrated pressure to bear on the municipal council to give the section needed improvements in the streets and to eliminate the offending dump. They are to make a drive for signatures to a petition setting forth their wishes for presentation to the city fathers. Their campaign has the appearance of promising to accomplish the end at which it is aimed or else result in making things unpleasant for those who happen to be responsible for its failure.

Not the least important development of the meeting was the discussion of a proposal to form a local improvement association. It is almost a foregone conclusion that such an organization in each one of the different sections of the city would result in making the municipal council more responsive to the public needs of the different districts. It would serve the purpose of ward representation in the city council.

Encouraging, indeed, is this latest sign of civic life and purpose in Centerville. May the good cause be pushed with enthusiasm and determination? May it progress from victory unto victory for the common good? May it furnish an inspiration to others to go and do likewise? Where there is united "kicking," with a purpose, something worth while is quite sure to be accomplished.

WEALTH AND DEBT OF NATIONS

The financial statisticians of Commerce and Finance has compiled some interesting figures, showing the wealth and debts of the leading nations of the world.

A study of these figures ought to give Americans a rather comfortable feeling when they compare their lot with that of the citizens of other nations.

The countries dealt with are the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy, Japan, Germany and Austria-Hungary.

The estimated total wealth of all eight is $1,000,000,000,000. The wealth of the United States is estimated at five hundred billions, or exactly one-half the total.

The total debts of the eight nations is two hundred and fifty-seven billion dollars, or more than 25 per cent of their total wealth.

The total debts of the seven nations other than the United States is two hundred and thirty-three billion dollars, or about 46 per cent of their total wealth.

The total debt of the United States is, roughly, twenty-four billion dollars, or less than five per cent of its total wealth.

The British debt is almost double ours—about 20 per cent of its wealth. France owes fifty-one billion dollars, 51 per cent of its wealth. Italy owes nearly twenty billions, about 50 per cent of its wealth. Russia owes about twenty-five billions, 42 per cent of its wealth.

The figures for Germany and Austria-Hungary seem almost incredible. The former's debt is 312 per cent of its wealth and the latter's 210 per cent.

Bankruptcy is a mild word to use in connection with the financial situation of Austria-Hungary.

Little Japan is the only nation in the lot in the same class with the United States. Although her national wealth is but forty billions, as compared with our five hundred billions, her debt is less than two billions, slightly under ours in percentage.—N.E.A.

Not unlike Hamlet, puzzling over "To be or not to be," are the members of the municipal council realizing that very likely their political lives may depend upon the way they act on the commerce chamber's contract-street-work proposition.

No Place for Him

A man visiting a friend in the hospital began to take an interest in the other patients. "What are you in here for?" he asked one. "I've got tonsillitis and I've got to have my tonsils cut out," was the answer. "And you?" he asked another. "I've got blood poisoning in my arm and they're going to cut it off," was the reply. "Heavens, this ain't no place for me," exclaimed Bill. "I've got a cold in my head."

Boozing Papa

That daddy in the eyes of childhood is always just as big a man as any in the world was evidenced one day in the West Indianapolis branch library. A tiny, smiling girl stood at the desk. "What does your father do?" asked the librarian in an effort to identify her father among the many men of the same name in the city directory. "He's either a millionaire or an engineer, and I can't remember which," returned the tiny one, with a puzzled frown.

Live for Heart

"You have no heart?" Sensation. Pale, but fearless, she stood before him—beautiful, poor but proud. Adverse fortune had reduced her warrior-driven her and her venerable house to the top floor of a wretched house in a squalid back street, and hardly the lines about her still desirable mouth. But it could not dim the lustre of her blue-black eyes nor could it tame the unconquerable spirit that animated every muscle of her slender form. Erect she stood and, silently, she awaited his answer. "No, miss," replied the butler. "But we have some here. Here's a fine piece. I'll let you have that for a quarter."

Thus, unaccountable week arrives on the heels of busy week, and week is on its way just as you've got it through your brain that you'll get it through your head in April ten to seventeen.

BOTTLED PLANTS UNDER BOARD OF HEALTH

Large and Appreciative Audience Enjoys "Honors Are Even" at Opera House

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 3.—

With the soda-pop season close at hand—according to the almanac—some of the joy will be taken out of life by the enactment of a new law which puts all bottling plants under the control of the board of health in each city and town.

The larger bottling plants generally are maintained in a sanitary condition, but there are many of the smaller places in which alterations must be made in order to conform to the new law.

The new statute is found in Chapter 332 of the acts of the current year; it provides that every bottling establishment shall be licensed, frequently inspected, and governed by regulations of health or by the municipal health authorities.

Representatives of the state association of bottlers have recently held conferences with the state department of health, as a result of which regulations are being prepared for the government of such places.

One of the clauses of the new regulations which is likely to cause trouble for some of the smaller bottling establishments is one requiring the sterilization of all bottles in an alcohol or caustic solution at a temperature of 130 degrees. This means that every bottle must be washed in water which is really hot, and there are said to be in the state a considerable number of bottlers who have not heretofore taken the trouble to equip their plants with the necessary facilities for providing that commodity.

Another regulation is that all pipes used for conveying sugar and other materials shall be of block tin. This will knock out the use of the rubber hose and the siphoning of soda into bottles from a syrup jar.

Bottlers will be compelled to label their bottles with their own names and addresses, as well as with the name of the beverage which the bottle is supposed to contain.

The new regulations require bottlers to maintain light, well ventilated rooms with clean floors, walls and ceilings. All tables, benches and stands must be of hard wood or some other non-porous substance. All premises must be screened and kept free from flies, which are especially objectionable in soda and wash-rooms for their employees, without connection with the rooms in which bottling is actually carried on, and bottling will be prohibited in rooms used for domestic purposes.

Adventures of The Twins

OLD MAN FLOOD ESCAPES

The Magic Green Shoes carried Nancy and Nick right up to the star of the weatherman, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, a great big place with plenty of room on it for everything.

They walked along and pretty soon they came to two houses. One was on one side of the road and the other house was across from it on the other side of the road.

So the twins did what anyone else would have done, walked up to one of them and knocked. If that wasn't the right one, at least there was no harm in asking, was there?

A voice inside said, "Come in!" and Nick gave the door a push, wide open.

Before Nancy could move an eye-bash, something dashed out of the door past her with a great rushing noise, almost knocking her down. Nick grabbed the door and pulled it shut again with all his might, but not before some words reached his ears. A lot of voices were shouting at once. "Oh, there goes Old Man Flood!" said one.

"Jack Frost, why didn't you watch your turn and get out, too?" said another.

"Get out old Sizzly Dry-Weather!"

retorted Jack Frost. "Why didn't you go yourself?"

"Ten soon, Jack, too soon!" said old Sizzly Dry-Weather. "Just you wait 'till summer."

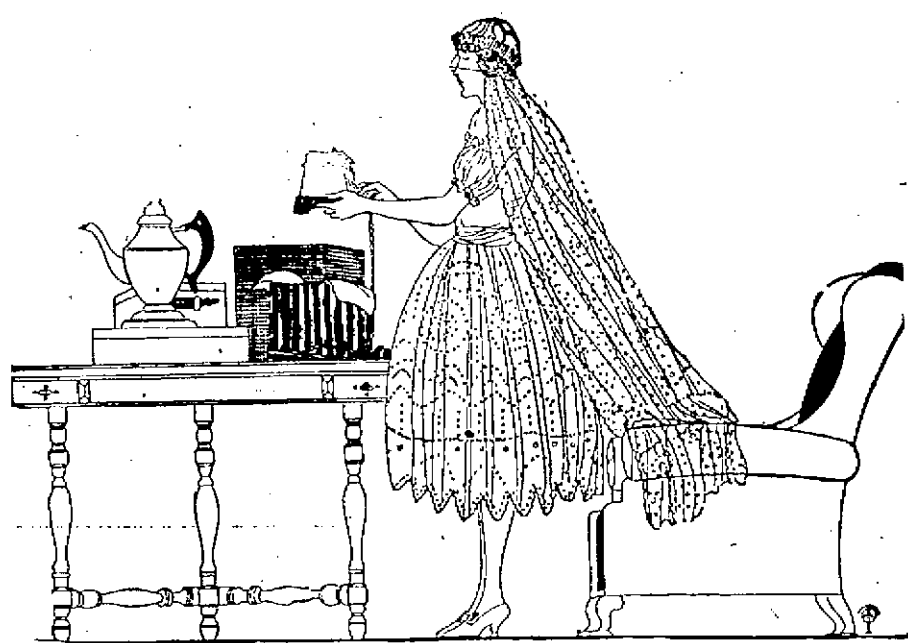

"Gracious!" exclaimed Nick mopping his face with his handkerchief. "Now we've done it, Nancy! We got the wrong house. This must be the place the Nubeneo Fairies live to that the Fairy Queen told us about. I guess that's Mr. Sprinkle-Blow's house across the road."

Just then the door of the other house opened and out came an odd little fairyman carrying a large umbrella.

IN THE POLICE COURT

The case of Samuel R. Romane, of Fulton street, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of six-year-old Marion McCartney, struck and fatally injured by an automobile operated by the defendant, was continued to June 21 to await the result of the inquest hearing. The little McCartney girl was struck at the corner of North and Walnut streets on Wednesday, and died early yesterday at the Lowell Corporation hospital, where Romane carried her in his machine after the accident. According to the defendant the child stepped directly in front of his car from the sidewalk and had been hurled to the ground before he could halt the machine. The usual bonds of $2000 were furnished for his appearance.

Disgrace to Uniform

"A disgrace to the uniform," was the comment of Judge John J. Pickman, in the police court this morning when the officer who arrested John Brown, a soldier, for drunkenness told of the defendant being intoxicated and soliciting passers-by to purchase liquor. As a matter of fact, however, said the officer, Brown did not have any booze in his possession. Brown pleaded guilty to drunkenness, and the court, after stigmatizing his conduct as a disgrace, even though he had not been a member of the military forces, added the sentiment that "soldiers are supposed to be brave." Brown, who admitted buying liquor in a local store, was then fined $5.

Truck Driver Fined

A $15 fine was the penalty paid by Victor N. Schult, operator of the motor truck which struck and fatally injured Mrs. Helen A. Fuller, and also knocked down two other women who were less seriously hurt, when he appeared before Judge J. Pickman in the local police court this morning. Three charges were lodged against him, namely, manslaughter, reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle without a license. The former two counts were dismissed, as Judge Pickman in the inquest found no criminal negligence on the defendant's part in connection with the death of the Fuller woman. It was on the charge of operating without a license that the fine was imposed. Schult's license was recently suspended at the state house, subsequent to the accident in which he figured.

Other Offenders

The case of Wladislaw Nalwajko, charged with threatening his wife, Anna Nalwajko, continued to Tuesday. The case of Daniel O'Keefe, charged with assault and battery on his wife, was continued to tomorrow. The case of Alex Jachimowicz, 16, charged with assault and battery, was continued for the juvenile session one week from today.

FOR SEPARATE SUPPORT

A petition for separate maintenance of Mary Teresbury by her husband, Dennis Teresbury, was under consideration today by Judge Liggett in the probate court. The case was under advisement. Attorney Henry V. Charbonneau appeared as counsel for the petitioner; Daniel J. Donahue by the respondent.

Starts on its Career With 500 Names on Membership List

It Plans to Purify Local Politics and Also to Boom the G. O. P.

With a mission "to prevent candidacy for public office or even party prominence for private gain," to boom the republican party, and with all holders of public positions barred from its staff of officials, the Lincoln club, with 500 members strong, was launched on its career at a meeting held in Engles' hall, Central street, last night. According to an announcement by its newly elected president, Edgar P. Dougherty, the organization plans to make an intensive survey of the city with the purpose of lining-up every unaffiliated voter with the G. O. P. and to carry on a campaign for the registration of voters whose names are not now on the lists and the naturalization of aliens. It is stated that 300 women are ready to take hold and help the club as members of an auxiliary organization.

Following a period of reusing community singing, led by H. B. Hockanill, the meeting started last night with a brief address by Edgar P. Dougherty, who said that the organization that it was proposed to form had not been developed by any politician and that it would be among the purposes of the club to see that all public officials live up to the duties of their offices and realize that they are the servants of the whole people.

An Important Election

Frank H. Foss, chairman of the republican state committee, told an audience that in 1922 would come one of the most important elections in years, with a United States senator, representatives and a full state ticket to be elected, and that the campaign promised to be one of the hardest-fought in years. He asserted that the Harding administration had given the country more constructive legislation in three months than the democratic party had in eight years. He spoke of the need of party organization and said that the work of naturalization must be pushed. "Naturalize every alien you can; get hold of him; register him," urged the speaker.

Mr. Foss called attention to the fact that the 18th amendment to the constitution had given Massachusetts approximately 68,000 more women than men voters. "These women want clean politics," said the speaker. "They have brought into politics a conscience they never had before." He urged the importance of getting the feminine voters affiliated with the republican party. He also made a plea for a registration campaign, asserting that there are probably now 1,000,000 persons in Massachusetts who are entitled to vote whose names are not on the lists.

Office Holders Not Wanted

Mr. Dougherty read a list of recommendations for the guidance of the club from a committee that had charge of the formation of the new organization. The second recommendation was that the club should keep from holding positions as its officers all persons holding any political office whatsoever. It was also recommended that, in addition to other officers, the club should have a committee in each ward.

"We have a big job on hand in registration work," asserted Mr. Dougherty. "In one precinct in this city are 500 women voters unregistered; 90 per cent. of these could be brought into the republican party. It is the women who have brought the republican vote of the city where it is today."

"I am not a candidate for political office and do not intend to be," asserted James A. Stiles, former district attorney of Worcester county, in beginning an address. He asserted that he was neither a politician nor an orator, and told of his early experiences in political life, saying that he had cast his first vote for president for Rutherford B. Hayes. He said that he had early been taught that it was the part of every "alleged" educated man to take an active part in politics, and that he had spent years in trying to further the hopes and aspirations of the republican party.

ORPHANS' OUTING

Rotary Club Plans Big Time for Children

The orphans of Lowell are to be entertained some day in the not far distant future, at a monster outing by the members of the Lowell Rotary club. Preliminary plans for the event having been discussed at a meeting of a special committee of the club, which was held this forenoon. The club had planned at first to hold an outing for all the children of Lowell, or in other words continue the good work started by the late John McManamon, but on second thought it was deemed advisable to entertain only the orphans and give them a bully good time.

The committee is composed of Harry Pitts, chairman; Harry G. Dillard, William A. Mitchell, George Spillane, Thomas Lee and Maj. Walter R. Hayes. The plan is to give the children an automobile ride to some grounds, perhaps the Martin Luther in Tyngsboro, and then entertain them with games and sporting events. A good luncheon will also be given, and the little ones, also the members of the club will be in attendance and each one will take upon himself the task or enjoyment of acting as a big brother to two or more orphans, so that everyone will be able to feel at home.

The committee has communicated with the heads of the various local orphanages and is said the plan for one big outing is being approved by all. Final plans for the event, such as the selection of the grounds and date, will be made between now and next Wednesday, on which day the committee will report to the club at a meeting in the form of an outing to be held at the Nashua Country club.

INSTITUTE DIRECTOR LEAVES LOWELL

Miss Helen G. Hutton, director of the International Institute, resigned her office yesterday, to take up social welfare work in another field. She expects to accept another position in the fall, but during the summer will remain at her home in Ogunquit, Me., for which town she left Lowell yesterday. A new director of the activities of the organization will be appointed during the present month. It is stated. In the interim, Mrs. E. B. Hilden, of Wilder street, chairman of the International Institute committee, is in charge of the Palmer street rooms of the association.

SEEKING TO HAVE WILL SET ASIDE

In the suit brought by relatives contesting the will of Peter J. Foley of West Acton, on trial before Judge Franklin T. Hammond and a jury in the superior court today, testimony was introduced showing the alleged drinking habits of the deceased. It was testified that the testator when sober was prudent, but that when under the influence of liquor "he would give away anything that he had." The estate is valued at about $10,000. The contestants seek to have the will set aside on the ground that testator was of unsound mind and that undue influence was brought to bear in connection with its making.

John D. Carney of Ayer appeared as counsel for the will; Francis McKee of Worcester for the contestants. The case went to the jury this afternoon.

Many Greeks Die In Frightful Massacres In Armenia

LONDON, June 3.—The Athens correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph says, under yesterday's date, that it is reported from Constantinople, new frightful massacres of Christians have occurred at Samsun and Trebizond, on the Black Sea coast of Armenia. The streets are strewn with the bodies of Greeks, he adds. Many shops in the two cities have been ransacked, according to the reports reaching Athens. An American destroyer has arrived at Samsun to protect the Americans there, it is added.

TWO MEN BADLY INJURED

Many Narrow Escapes When Racing Car Wheel Bursts
in Hurd Street

Two men were badly hurt, several others narrowly escaped serious injury and an automobile was wrecked, when the flywheel of a rebuilt Ford racer burst and flew out of the car, in Hurd street, yesterday afternoon. The injured are Stewart Hunt and Fred Gunther, both of Dracut. Hunt is foreman for the Pitts Auto Supply Co., while Gunther is also employed at the Pitts station. Both men were taken to St. John's hospital.

A strange feature of the accident was the fact that both victims sustained precisely the same injuries, each having suffered a compound fracture of the right leg. No serious complications are feared by the hospital authorities, but it will be a considerable length of time, it is stated, before the men are able to return to work.

The machine that figured in the accident is owned by William Foley of Billerica, and won the Memorial day automobile race at Medford. It was formerly a Ford touring car, but was rebuilt into a racer with parts of other machines. It is said that when the shaft was lengthened, some of the bearings were taken out. Foley drove to the Pitts Auto Supply for accessories and was conferring with Foreman Stewart relative to repairs when there was a loud report. The flywheel, weighing about forty pounds, flew out, tearing the hood and engine of the car to pieces, and scattering pieces of iron and steel in all directions. One of the pieces of the wheel struck Hunt and Gunther in the leg, while Ralph Cletow, another employee, had a close call when a piece grazed him as it flew by.

It is said that several pedestrians, who were in the immediate vicinity narrowly escaped being struck by flying pieces of iron, one of which weighed ten pounds, and was later found on the roof of the Ipswich mill building. Mr. Foley, who was in the car when the accident occurred, received a bad shaking up, but was not injured. The ambulance was called and the two victims of the accident were taken to St. John's hospital, where today they are reported as resting comfortably.

TRIED TO HANG HIMSELF

Boston Policeman Arrested
on Complaint of Wife Attempts Suicide in Cell

SOMERVILLE, June 3.—Patrolman John J. Morrissey of the Boston police force, arrested by the Somerville police last night on complaint of his wife that he threatened to shoot her, attempted to hang himself after he was placed in a cell. He was unconscious when found, and when revived became so violent that he was strapped to a cot and sent to the psychopathic hospital for observation. When arrested Morrissey said it was all a joke and that he meant no harm to his wife.

FOR TREATY RIGHTS FOR ALL ALIENS

WASHINGTON, June 3.—A proposal to confer upon the federal government power to determine and enforce, even as against states, treaty rights which aliens in the United States may be given, was introduced yesterday by Senator Kellogg, republican, Minnesota. In the form of a bill framed by the judiciary committee of the American Bar association, Senator Kellogg said that the measure was put forward to raise the issue and not to apply necessarily to any specific situation.

Under the bill the president would be authorized, when in his judgment any statute of a state or territory contravened treaty rights of aliens, to instruct the attorney general to take up the defense of civil or criminal prosecutions brought by state officials before state courts, and to secure their removal to federal courts for trial. The federal courts would take jurisdiction when any acts had been committed against aliens which would constitute crimes under state laws and penalties similar to those provided in the state statutes would be imposed in case of acts against American citizens. United States marshals and, if necessary, army or navy forces, would be available to enforce decisions.

Under present conditions there is no law authorizing intervention by the federal government for the protection of aliens in state proceedings, Senator Kellogg said. The Bar association bill, he added, was intended to make clear the rights and duties of the federal government.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 3.—The Republican Glee club of Columbus, which has sung at many national conventions today accepted an invitation from President and Mrs. Harding to sing at a garden party to be given on the White House lawn on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 8, for wounded overseas veterans of the Walter Reed hospital. Fifty members of the club will make the trip, leaving here next Tuesday evening in a special car.

Cost $6,445,658 for Help to Punch Clocks

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Provisions of the national agreements placed in effect during government control which required "the railroads to allow employees one hour extra pay each week for punching the clock, regardless of the number of hours actually worked," cost the railroads $6,445,658 during the first six months of last year, E. T. Whiter of Philadelphia, chairman of the conference committee of managers, told the senate investigating committee today.

Run-down—through failure to pay your body for the work it has done?

A frequent cause of exhausted vital power is a real shortage in the body of several mineral elements, particularly Iron, Calcium, Potassium, Sodium and Phosphorus.

WINGARNIS

contains all these mineral elements because it is prepared especially for people who are weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down. Wingarnis enables your body to re-construct vital power by restoring the very mineral elements which the body needs to create vital power—to make the blood rich and red—to strengthen the nerves—and promote abundant vigor, vitality and endurance. Try Wingarnis for yourself. The results will surprise you.

Why Sparring Partners Are Quitting Dempsey

THE INSIDER

The fact that the $50 pastebards for the Dempsey-Carp fight sold before the $5 ones shows which way the mind of the American public runs.

With athletes tiring in the best grades in schools and colleges it is no wonder that some institutions favor compulsory athletics.

Francis Outmet says that watching top-notchers will help the American golf stars. This was not meant to be a sarcastic remark.

The speed kings burn a lot of gas. And raise big clouds of smoke. To settle who is fastest they make old grim face a joke.

Life guards have gone on duty at Atlantic City. With so many fight fans walking the board walk it was probably feared the beach would wash each other into the ocean.

Dempsey is watching Carpenter work—but it's on the silver screen. Answer to the query of whether the 121 baseball is livelier or not is found in the changed pitching rules not the bats.

DEMPSEY AND CARP NOW IMMUNE TO RAZZING

BY JOHNNY KILBANE
Featherweight Champion
Did you ever wonder when you sat in the crowd at a fight and yelled "Mum, him!" "He's wobbly!" "Punch him!" just what effect you have on the men in the ring?

It does have an effect. I can say that from my own experience. A fighter, even though he is up against a man who has him fighting hammer and tongs, hears almost every word that is spoken by those in the crowd. And many a fight has been won by a suggestion voiced by some friend of the boxer's who sat at the ringside. Often these friends see the weakness of an opponent even before a boxer has found it out, and by slipping the advice to the man in the ring, they put him on a round or two earlier and make victory surer and oftentimes a knockout possible.

Applause has the same effect on a fighter as on the actor. Give an actor a good hand after a good show and he'll give you half a dozen encores. If a boxer gets a good hand when he slips over a hard one, he'll try to repeat. For who doesn't like admiration?

But razzing by fans doesn't have much effect on the ordinary fighter. He doesn't like it, of course, but it doesn't get on his nerves.

There has been a lot of fanning among fight bugs about whether the fact that Carpenter will be fighting in a strange land and the question has been asked whether the fact that appearing before an American audience—a fight crowd that says what it thinks in no uncertain words—wouldn't get on the nerves of the Frenchman. No, it won't.

Georges has been fighting since 1917. In a man who can hammer his way regularly in a ring through all the fighting classes certainly is immune by this time to any remarks that may be made during a bout by those outside the ropes. Dempsey, too, is the type of fighter who keeps on fighting if he was discovered under the ring.

So don't look for either of the boys who battle July 2 to go "up in the air" or even "out of the groove" because of any choice remarks from the crowd during the big scrap. (Copyright 1921 by Lowell Sun.)

Gems of Alabama's Diamond Mine

BY DEAN SNYDER
CLEVELAND, June 3.—The University of Alabama is proving to be the best diamond mine in the country. Three times within a year it has been called upon to give the 'World's Champion' Indians players. Three times it has come across with the goods. Joey Sewell came up to fill the hole at short last fall following Ray Coyle's untimely death. He made good with betis on. Riggs Stephenson answered the

S.O.S. call this spring when Second Baseman Bill Wamby was injured. He has filled Bill's shoes at second and in hitting he is up among the leaders of the American League and still swatting. Sluggar Tris Speaker went back to the Alabama diamond mine a third time. He annexed Luke Sewell, Joey's kid brother. Luke is a catcher. With Steve O'Neil out of the game with a broken finger and Leslie Numa-maker nursing a sore hand the kid catcher from Alabama will get into a harness right off the feet. It is up to Baseman Bill Wamby to carry the Indians over their hard luck period. It would take a check for $50,000, possibly $75,000, to buy Joey and Steve from the Indians now. And none of the trio cost Owner Jim Dunn a cent. Speaker has taken his place along beside wise Connie Mack in picking off young players who attain stardom without touching the well known back roll. The University of Alabama now has a mighty strong interest in baseball.

"I'd Lick 'Em Both the Same Night," Says Willard

BY DEAN SNYDER
WICHITA, Kas., June 3.—Jess Willard—bigger, jollier and growing richer every hour of his gushing oil wells—is giving Rickard's big fight only a passing interest. Looking after the drilling of new wells and keeping an eye on his 240-acre potato patch absorb Willard's mind at present. When he talks oil and potatoes he smiles a million dollar smile. When he talks about the Dempsey-Carpenter fight he becomes so serious he frowns just a bit. "Why, I honestly believe I could lick Dempsey and Carpenter both in the same evening," says Willard. "I'm not saying this to boast. I believe I could do it just as sure as I'm sitting here."

Willard was sitting on the edge of the bed in his hotel room. His 240-acre potato patch sunk deeply into the mattress springs. In his hand he held a blue-print of his oil holdings in Greenwood county where he is drilling for more oil dollars. "I think Dempsey ought to hear Carpenter. Dempsey's all in his favor. But I haven't seen this fellow Carpenter. There's no mighty power and fact. He might surprise us all." Willard refused to risk a guess as to what round he thought the fight would end but his sizeup of Jack and George is significant. "If I was going to fight Carpenter July 2 I wouldn't train at all. It wouldn't be necessary. "If I was going to be in Dempsey's opponent I'd want to be in condition. Dempsey and Carpenter will draw a lot of money. I believe though that Dempsey and I would draw just as much."

"If I ever do fight Dempsey again I want it to be on the winner-take-all basis. It wouldn't be money that I'd be fighting for. I've got plenty of that. Dempsey beat me with a lucky punch at Toledo. After he clipped me on the chin in the first round I never knew anything more. I fought the other two rounds after I was knocked out. They said I nearly fattened Dempsey even when I didn't know what I was doing. It's likely Dempsey would be so lucky in a return match. "In as good as I was when I beat Jack Johnson at Havana. People think I'm an old man because I'm 39. But I'm not. I didn't start fighting until I was past 25. "A fighter has just about so many good fights in his system. I've still got several in me yet. It's the young fellows who begin boxing in their teens while still growing that soon burn out as fighters. "The oil game beats boxing. It's all

CALIFORNIA FRANKIE BURNS IN LOWELL

California Frankie Burns, the well known lightweight boxer, who has met many of the leading 133-135 pound boys in the country, was in Lowell yesterday, visiting his friend and former buddy, George Paquin, and both dropped into the sporting department of The Sun late yesterday afternoon. Burns is now living in the east, having married a Providence girl and he is anxious to take on any boy of his weight in the vicinity. While at the same number of years, he is still a young man, and owing to the fact that he has always taken excellent care of himself, he feels that he can still give any lightweight in the country a battle. Burns is a clean cut fellow. While his face shows a few marks of combat, he looks to be in perfect physical condition. His last ring battle was about six months ago, yet he continues weekly runs on the road, and daily engages in light gymnasium work. He informed The Sun that he has heard considerable about Phiney Boyle and expressed regret when told that the local lightweight was forced out of the game last season as a result of an injury. He said that he hoped Boyle would entirely recover from the injury and when he does he would like nothing better than a match with the local lightweight. In the meantime, however, Burns announced he is ready to tackle any lightweight in this part of the country.

CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHTS OF OTHER DAYS

The coming Dempsey-Carpenter battle for the world's heavyweight championship recalls records of the former title holders and the manner in which the championship passed upon the head of the present defender.

The first of the modern clashes officially advertised as of heavyweight championship importance took place Feb. 7, 1952, a Mississippi City, just across the Louisiana line from New Orleans. John L. Sullivan was the victor, walloping Paddy Ryan with bare fists. The winner took all the purse.

The bout lasted nine rounds. There were only 11 minutes of fighting, however, in the ninth round, when the one-rounder between Ryan and Sullivan was broken in two places by Sullivan's smashes. There were important fights long before then, even as far back as the one-rounder between George Cal and Abel, but the sport record books count time from the collision at Mississippi City.

DARTMOUTH BEGINS FOOTBALL WORK EARLY

HANOVER, N. H., June 3.—Dartmouth's eleven next fall should know football, both the playing and coaching part of the game. Working on the theory that successful gridiron campaigns of the fall are best begun in the summer, Head Coach Jack Cannon of the Green team has recruited candidates take a football with them on forthcoming vacations for practice in handling and kicking, and to give a rule book into a pocket for study. Exercise through the season is ordered, with an injunction, however, against too much swimming. A man cannot be a good football player, and a swimmer too, it is believed. Actual practice will start Sept. 5, on Alumni oval. Word has come to Hanover informally that a Dartmouth team may be asked to christen a stadium. Green eleven have been the first to play at the Harvard stadium, the Palmer stadium at Princeton and the University of Washington stadium, each time defeating their host of the occasion.

Another Coaster Ready For the Big Leagues

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Willie Kamm, third baseman for the 'Frisco Seals, may be the next diamond star to filter through the Golden Gate park hour-glass to the big leagues. Coast fans think Kamm is a greater player than Buck Weaver or Oscar Vitt, both former third base stars for the Seals, who developed in Golden Gate park here. Charley Graham, manager of the Seals, intends to put his brilliant third sacker on the major league market this fall. This is Kamm's third year in baseball. He broke into Class AA company in 1919. When he makes his debut it will probably be with Ty Cobb's Tigers. Since Detroit has first call on 'Frisco players now. The recruit will find himself right at home in the big show, for he will be just another of the many pastime-ers developed in Golden Gate park to go up. The Cincinnati Reds have Sammy Bohne, who cost them $20,000, and Louis Ronsava who cost them a $1500 bonus to sign. Detroit has Harry Heilmann, one of the greatest right-hand hitters in the game, and Bert Cole and Carl Holling, both promising young pitchers. Brooklyn has Walter (Dutch) Reuther. As an incubator for real players of ability and color Golden Gate park is in a class by itself.

TY SETS DIZZY PACE				JACK'S CHEST GROWS
DETROIT, June 3.—Ty Cobb is traveling at a dizzy pace. He has made four hits per game on four different occasions this season. Twice he has scored four runs in one game. He is leading the league in three-base hits too.				ATLANTIC CITY, June 3.—Jack Dempsey's physical make-up has changed much since he knocked Willard for a row of goals at Toledo. Jack has lost weight in his legs while his chest is doing a regular "Babe Ruth" growth.
The only difference between American and National League balls is that one is stitched with red and black thread, the other with red and blue.				Behind Tom Gibbons is a trail of fallen little guys—Most every day he lands a jolt between some unknown's eyes.

Broadways Take Gillespies Into Camp In See-Saw Game on The South Common

The Gillespies, last year's Twilight League champs, met their second defeat of the week and the fourth of the season last evening on the South common when they fell victims to the Broadways, 4 to 3.

The game was a see-saw affair with the odds favoring the Gillespies up until the final inning when a hard hit ball rolled past the washing machine men's left fielder and allowed two runs to score.

Sam Pouliot was once more on the mound for the Gillespies, his second game in three days, but as in Tuesday night's game with the C.M.A.C., he didn't receive big league support.

Farwell, the Texile school teacher, pitched for the Broadways and had a slight advantage over his opponent.

The first three innings were sterile for both teams but in the fourth the Broadways got one and the Gillespies three. For the Broadways, Connors smashed out a two-bagger to left and came home on Sullivan's single to the same territory.

For the Gillespies O'Hare took first on an error but was retired at second. Brogan hit to the pitcher's box. Allen singled and Brogan scored. Then Sam Pouliot walked one to left bringing in Allen. Adams then hit to left and Bird sent one out to center bringing home Pouliot. The Gillespies did no further scoring.

In the fifth Mansfield came through with a run for the Broadways and in the seventh Mansfield got one. Again and came home when Connors hit to deep left and the ball got past Duke's, allowing both runners to score.

The Gillespies were silent in their half. The score:

GOLF ON THE ROOF? SURE! HERE IT IS

No longer need the busy man waste an hour each day driving back and forth to his golf club for a practice game. Instead he can go golfing on the roof of his office building or in his basement.

The golf machine has a regulation golf ball, attached to a revolving upright rod, at the top of which is a dial. The stroke is made and the ball comes to a standstill. The dial indicates the number of yards the ball would have gone had it been free.

KEARNS WOULD SELL PICTURES
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 3.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, today announced that he would consider an offer for the sale of their interest in the motion pictures of the Dempsey-Carpenter fight. Dempsey and Kearns will have a fourth interest in the pictures, another fourth will belong to Dempsey and Carpenter, while Tex Rickard, promoter of the contest, reserves the right to the other half.

Kearns offer to sell the interests of Dempsey and himself is taken to indicate that the champion intends to win as quickly as possible. It further removes foundations for rumors that the contest would be a picture fight in which the contestants would box several rounds in order to make the films lengthy enough to be financially attractive.

The possibility of another lay-off of three or four days for the champion was discussed by Kearns who said that at present, he had no plans to call another halt in training, but the future depended on the rapidly with which the champion reached the fighting form.

Dempsey himself is anxious to resume training tomorrow. The inactivity of the last three days has made him irritable.

EXPECT CLOSE RACE
PRINCETON, N. J., June 3.—From all appearances and prophecies, the California-Princeton crew race on Lake Carnegie will be one of the closest events of the year. Both Dr. J. Duncan Speth and Ben Wallis, coaches of the Tigers and Westerners, respectively, predict a neck and neck finish, the latter declaring that one length at the most would separate the two shells as they cross the line.

The race will start at 4:30 eastern standard time.

PANAMA WELTERWEIGHT MAKES HIT WITH CARP

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 3.—Although he received a good bit of punishment at the hands of Georges Carpentier last Wednesday, Jack Goldberg, the Panama welterweight made a hit with the Frenchman as a sparring partner. Georges likes Jack's speed and pep, so he will do two fast rounds with him this afternoon.

Carpentier is also slated for two rounds with Paul Journee, after lunch, with the customary two hours' road jogging in the forenoon.

Jake Schaefer

In 18.2 ball billiards was made here recently by "Young Jake" Schaefer, in a 1000 point match against Edouard Hoernmans, the Belgian champion, when Schaefer set a grand total average of 57.17 on the 1000 point match, beating the previous record of 50.15-20 held by Hoernmans.

Schaefer already holds the high record run of 436, and western fans are backing him to win when he is matched against Willie Hoppe for the title.

BROTHERS WILL SEEK WINNER

BY MAX BALTHASAR
Noted Fight Expert
NEW YORK, June 3.—No matter who wins the Dempsey-Carpenter fight, a member of the fighting Gibbons family from St. Paul is going to challenge the winner. If Carpenter wins, brother Mike will challenge him. If Dempsey wins it will be brother Tommy's job to challenge.

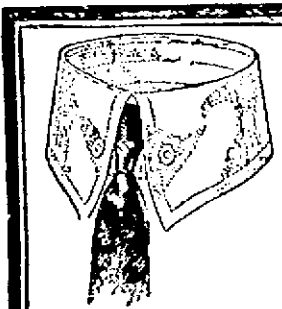

"We want that title in our family and we are going to do our best to get it," said Mike who is here. "Naturally, I would like to get a chance at it, but I'll not fight Dempsey. He is entirely too big and strong for me. But if Carpenter should win I would be tickled to death to meet him. Tommy will look after Dempsey if the latter wins."

"Based on what I have heard of Carpenter and on what I have seen him do in the pictures, it is my belief that Dempsey will win within five rounds. He punches too hard. In addition to that, he has a very scientific offense. He is nearly always set to deliver, and while his defense is not so very good, he has the effort to take two punches to get in one."

GEORGES "ICY" TO VISITORS

BY MAX BALTHASAR
Noted Fight Expert

MANHASSET, L. I., June 3.—Visitors who drop in on Monsieur Carpentier during his "visiting hours" from 2 to 5 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, aren't handing him any medals for his showing in early workouts.

And the fighting Frenchman doesn't seem to want to win any.

Georges, during the exhibition, seemed to be doing something for which he had a great dislike—working before the visitors who had criticized him so sharply for trying to keep them away from his camp. Dempsey, manager for Georges, finally compromised by letting visitors see the Frenchman at work three afternoons a week.

The visitors were made to feel, however, that they were not welcome by the grudging manner in which Georges went through his stunts, in which no boxing figured.

Even the gates were not opened to the visiting party so that they might enter the hallowed precincts

with a little dignity. They either jumped over the barbed wire fence that surrounds Carpentier's quarters or crawled under the lower strand. Some made the grade with ease; the stouter ones indulged in much grunting and squeaking.

It was cold, raw and wet and a dispiriting rain was constantly blown into the barn in which Carpentier trains while he was going through the motions. The dismal weather may have dampened his ardor and some were willing to let it go at that.

Wearing a pair of mossy blue trunks and a white athletic shirt, Carpentier made his appearance some time after the appointed hour.

His first essay was at the punching bag, which he tapped gingerly a few times. Then he took up the skipping rope, at which he is somewhat of a hand, going at the work with a degree of ferocity. He gave his legs a good day's work with the vicious and rapid swing of his arms. Manager Dempsey occasionally breaking in with a plea to go faster.

Floor exercises, for which Georges also showed a liking, was next in order. In this he gave particular attention to his legs and neck and in deep breathing.

and rapidly with both hands, but the particular feature of this part of the performance was his peculiar grating. He spun around like a ballet dancer, hurling himself about with an abandon that threatened to result in disaster for some of the spectators.

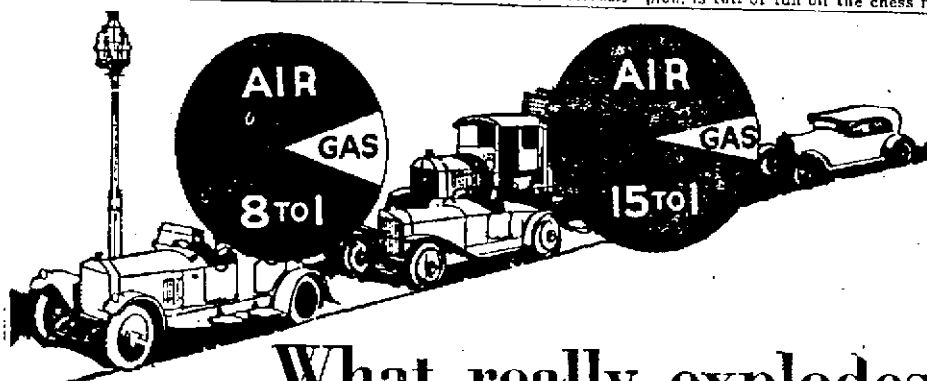

A few more taps at the bag and arm and body exercises against the wall wound up the day's work, and then he posed for the camera men. To this also he showed a dislike, stopping the men in the midst of the snapping and telling them he could pose no more, fearing he would catch cold.

Then he rushed away with a curt goodbye, dashed across the cowpatch that serves as the backyard to the cottage, hastened into the kitchen and locked the door.

Carpentier showed he already is in good physical condition. He has plenty of speed and his muscles stand out like whipcords. There is little if any excess flesh and with a little more work he could step fast enough for anybody, provided that his eye is true and his wind is in shape.

Carpentier doesn't appear to have any more trouble than a coal man when it comes to getting down to weight.

Capablanca, the serious chess champion, is full of fun off the chess field.

What really explodes in your engine

SLUDDISH gasoline vaporizes slowly. It requires a rich, wasteful mixture—8 parts of air to 1 of fuel.

Using more air and less fuel, Tydol Economy Gasoline operates on 15 parts of air to 1 of fuel.

Tydol vaporizes fast. It gives you better power, mileage per gallon, pickup. It reduces carbon and contamination of lubricating oil. It prevents common engine trouble from these sources.

Have the 15 to 1 carburetor adjustment on your car.

Tydol will operate on the rich mixture required by ordinary gasoline. But with Tydol you can use the 15 to 1 mixture—less fuel and more air.

GERMAN WAR RECORDS FOR HARVARD COLLEGE

CAMBRIDGE, June 3.—A collection of official German war documents and war time periodicals, some presented by Ellis L. Drexel American commission at Berlin, has just been added to the assembly of war-time papers being made at Harvard university library.

The new collection contains documents of interest to the historian who wishes to study conditions in Germany during the war from first hand evidence. Included in it are complete files of "Parade," the German army publication, and other official military journals, complete official casualty lists, complete files of a newspaper published for the enlightenment of allied prisoners of war in Germany, and files of German revolutionary papers of the winter of 1918-19.

SEWING TABLE FOR MISS ELIZABETH REGAN

A banquet and social marked the closing of the second unit of the dressmaking class of the Women's Industrial club of the Massachusetts mills last evening, the affair being held in the spacious and well appointed quarters of the club. A feature of the evening was the presentation of a handsome mahogany sewing table to the teacher, Miss Elizabeth Regan, as a mark of appreciation on the part of the members of the class for the interest she has taken in the class since its formation last October.

There were 24 young women present, all members of the class and the special guests were Agent William A. Mitchell and Miss Ann Taylor, the mill nurse and permanent director of the club. The early part of the evening was taken up with a banquet, a very appetizing menu being served.

The tables were handsomely decorated with flowers, candles and potted plants and presented a very pretty appearance. At the close of the dinner, the curtains on the stage were drawn and the handsome table was exposed. Just then, to the surprise of Miss Regan, Miss Nora Ryan, the new president of the club, delivered a brief address, complimenting Miss Regan for the result of her activities in conducting the dressmaking class and presented her the gift, at the same time extending the best wishes of all members of the class. Miss Regan, although taken by surprise, responded in a happy manner and extended her heartfelt thanks to the young women present.

Agent Mitchell congratulated the class for the work accomplished during the class sessions and also extended his felicitations to Miss Regan for the manner in which the class was conducted, commenting favorably on the fact that the daily average attendance of the class was 20.

The next event under the auspices of the club will be the installation of officers, which will take place on the evening of June 10, and on the evening of June 17 a social dance will be conducted by the employees of the spinning department.

Mrs. Collier Says She is Just Full of New Life and Energy

"Just think of it! This time last month I was so weak I just had to sit around the house all the time, but now I am well and happy and it's all because of what Tanlac has done for me," declared Mrs. Josephine Collier, 11 Melton st., Brockton, recently. Mrs. Collier has lived in Brockton for the past 20 years, formerly residing at Fall River, where she is also well known.

"My health had been gradually failing for more than a year," she said. "I lost my appetite and had no reason for food. Was restless and easily excited and at night just couldn't get any sound sleep to save me. I lost my strength and just felt draggy and weak from morning till night. My household would simply break me down and I had to give it up."

"Mrs. Swift, who lives at 1014 North Main street, told me how Tanlac had helped her and I just felt somehow that it would help me, too. And it certainly has. Three bottles have restored my health perfectly and I just feel so strong and well now that I want to be up and doing all the time. I enjoy everything I eat and sleep soundly every night, and I never can thank Mrs. Swift enough for telling me about Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, Dr. Wright Drug Co., Haverhill, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass.; and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

TO INCREASE SUNSHINE
Result of Recent Solar Eruptions Which Caused Brilliant Auroras, Says Scientist

LONDON, June 3.—Recent solar eruptions which caused brilliant auroras and disorganized cable and telegraph service throughout the world, may result in the earth receiving an increased quota of sunshine during the remainder of the year, says Sir Oliver Lodge, the noted scientist. He declares it is probable that the monsoon will be strengthened and that in consequence the Indian harvest will be improved. He even ventures the opinion that the climatic particles thrown off by the sun during the disturbance, may assist in the development of vegetation and reduce the amount of dust held suspended in the atmosphere.

MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION
A get-together and social for the residents of Pawtucketville was held last evening in the vestry of the Pawtucket Congregational church under the auspices of the Pawtucketville Memorial association and the affair was attended by nearly 200 people. The evening's program was presided over by Cornelius Cronin and included remarks by Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department, who spoke at length on the work of the Lowell police and the result of their activities; Benjamin Fournier, who gave valuable hints on the organization of a community club; Joseph Wilson, who is now writing a history of Pawtucketville; and Architect Harry Prescott Graves, who has prepared the plans for the Pawtucketville memorial, also addressed the gathering. At the close of the meeting it was voted to form a permanent organization, the officers to be chosen later. Refreshments were served.

CHARMING PLAYLET
High School Class Presents "The Ladies of Cranford" in St. Anne's Parish House
"The Ladies of Cranford," a charming playlet of village life in 1840, was ably presented by members of Miss Alice Silkeny's first hour English class of the high school last evening in St. Anne's parish house. The costume was very appropriate to the time of the play and those who took part displayed more than ordinary skill in their characterization. An orchestra made up of men who are members of the same class furnished music and between the acts oldtime ballads were sung by Miss Sally Gonsalves, a member of the class. The cast of characters was as follows: Miss Matilda Jenkins, the rector's daughter; Elizabeth Moody, Miss Mary Smith, her visitor; Miss Jessie Brown, a new recruit; Miss Polo, a friend to Miss Jenkins; Helen Reed, a friend to Miss Polo; Miss Betty Barker, a friend to Miss Polo; Mrs. Forrester, born a Tyrrell; Margaret Olney, Hon. Mrs. Jamieson, a leader in society; Martha, maid to Miss Jenkins; Hazel Sharkey, Peggy, maid to Miss Barker; Little Susan, her daughter; Ardenlyder Manucllan, a country girl; Ardenlyder Manucllan.

New Elephants With Sells-Floto Herds Find Old Timers Upstage

There's artistic temperament among the elephant performers with Sells-Floto circus, coming to Lowell on Wednesday, June 8, and the artistic temperament of good opera stars, artists' models and wives of English cabinet officials met offstage on the art roads of the pachydermic actors under Sells-Floto six pole menagerie top. But there's a reason for the upstage act with the old elephants. Sells-Floto, Billy Sunday and the rest of the "bulls" with the big troupe. They have interlopers among them this season—"artists," the herds' cult men. This year, two new groups of pachyderms are added to the elephantine displays: They are; Mamie, Sue, Babe, Toby, Sullivan, Tom, Cora and Peggy. And how the old members of the big show herd dislike to share the glory of the new comers in the elephant line, you'll see the older "bulls" turn their backs, so far as is possible, and get their heads together. It is the old story of the new pupil in school. Perhaps in time, the new elephants will be made part of the family by the old timers, but it won't be this season. Four agree on circus day when you feed peanuts to the great, hulking rascals. The old ones will resent the new ones getting anywhere an equal share.

the democratic party," Mr. Stiles said. "We cannot hark back to Thomas Jefferson, although the democrats lately seem to have thrown Jefferson into the discard." The speaker told of the formation of the republican party, and said that "although it has not always stood for the most enlightened statesmanship, it has stood for freedom and justice. It is no use to talk of past issues to aliens, they do not understand references to bleeding Kansas and the extension of slavery into the free states; we must teach them that the republican party stands for freedom and that in our party rests the hope of the nation."

"The hope of the nation rests in the republican party, and the hope of the party rests in us," commented Mr. Dougherty, at the close of Mr. Stiles' address. Continuing, Mr. Dougherty referred to the proposed new city charter and said that it would not be for the club to decide whether it would be advisable to adopt the proposed instruments, as some members are opposed while some favor it, but that it would be desirable to have members of the charter commission come before the club and explain what the charter means. He said that the club should have something to do with seeing that Lincoln's birthday is more fully observed in this city in the future.

As the members of the club received their membership tickets, they found printed on the back of each a statement of the principles of the new organization as follows:
"The purpose of this club is to promote honest politics; to prevent candidacy for public office or even party prominence for private gain; to encourage political activity at primaries and elections among all good citizens; to encourage sociability and good fellowship among republicans; to advocate and disseminate the principles in which the republican party was founded and by which it won its greatest victories; and with such principles at heart to enumerate from time to time new objects and measures deserving support."

Millions Lost Through Waste in Industry 175 Protesting Citizens Rounded Up

Former Charged With 50 Per Cent Waste, Latter With Less Than 25 P. C.

Outlines Program of Governmental Assistance to Eliminate Waste

Urges Labor to Co-operate by Developing Policy for Increasing Output

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Responsibility for more than 50 per cent. of the waste in industrial processes, which is causing enormous annual losses to the nation, can be placed at the door of the management and less than 25 per cent. at the door of labor, declares a report of the American Engineering Council's committee on elimination of waste in industry made public today at a meeting of the council's executive board. The committee was appointed by Herbert Hoover, when he was head of the council.

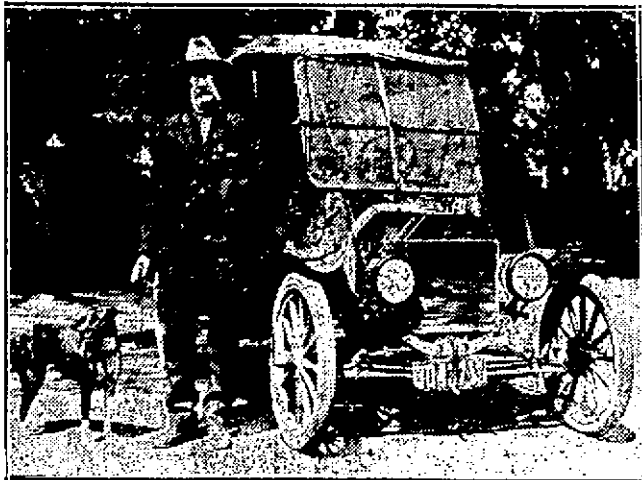

The report says that the margin of unemployment amounts to more than a million men; that billions of dollars are tied up in idle equipment; that high labor turnover is a rough index of one of the commonest wastes; and that waste of time and energy and money through duplications and estimates and bids in building trades run into millions annually.

Capital and Labor Blamed
Both employers and employees restrict output, it is said. Both capital and labor are blamed for existing abuses, but the annual losses through waste by conflicts between them is much less than is popularly supposed.

From four to five million workers were idle during January and February of this year. In 1921, half a billion dollars will be lost in wages in the building trades, the report says. The inquiry was in charge of a committee of 15 headed by J. Parker Chaney of New York as chairman, and L. W. Wallace of Washington as vice chairman. This was the beginning of a movement by the country's organized engineers, about 200,000 in number to bring about better industrial conditions and more harmonious relations between capital and labor.

Program to Eliminate Waste
The report does not consider "the present business crisis, due in part, to world-wide waste and extravagance."

Aged Civil War Veteran Makes Trip In Auto From the Golden Gate to Lowell

WALTER H. MORRISON, HIS TRAVELLING COMPANION, "EGGY," AND THE MACHINE IN WHICH THEY MADE THEIR TRANS-CONTINENTAL JOURNEY

Arrives Here in Time to Participate in Memorial Day Parade—A Pet Dog His Only Companion on Long Journey—Plucky Veteran on Last Leg of Journey to Home Town in Maine

On the last leg of a transcontinental trip made in a Ford car which he drove unassisted despite the loss of his left hand, Walter H. Morrison, an 82-year-old Civil war veteran, arrived in Lowell a few days ago and is living in Dutton street for a short time before he starts out for Waterville, Me., his home town, which he has not seen since the days of '61. Barely has so interesting a visitor struck Lowell and the story of his adventures in the west, his Civil war experiences and the vigor which he still possesses despite his advanced age combine to make him an exceptionally attractive conversationalist. In his youth he studied to become a surgeon

Many Greeks Die In Frightful Massacres In Armenia

LONDON, June 3.—The Athens correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph says, under yesterday's date, that it is reported from Constantinople, new frightful massacres of Christians have occurred at Samsun and Trebizond, on the Black Sea coast of Armenia. The streets are strewn with the bodies of Greeks, he adds. Many shops in the two cities have been ransacked, according to the reports reaching Athens. An American destroyer has arrived at Samsun to protect the Americans there, it is added.

Ten More Officers Slain In Ireland

CORK, June 3.—District Inspector Stevenson, a police sergeant and four constables were killed and four officers were seriously wounded when a police patrol was ambushed by 100 armed men at Carrowkinnedy, near here, last night. Arms and ammunition carried by the police were taken, and the three motor cars in which the officers were riding were burned.

DUBLIN, June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Four constables were killed and five wounded in an ambush by 200 civilians at 10 o'clock this morning in Kylebeg Cross, near Borrisokane, County Tipperary, says an official statement. The constables were in motor cars and on bicycles when attacked by the civilians, who were concealed in the woods.

Tilden Advances to Final Round

ST. CLOUD, June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—William T. Tilden of Philadelphia today advanced to the final round of the world's hard court tennis championship tournament by defeating Nicolas Mishu of Rumania, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Arnold W. Jones of Providence, and Miss Edith Signourney of Boston, were eliminated from the mixed doubles, by M. Hirsch and Mme. Figueon, of France, 6-0, 6-0. Only Tilden in the men's singles and Tilden and Jones in the men's doubles, are left as the representatives of America in the tournament.

LAWRENCE, June 3.—The Volstead prohibition act, which permits of one half of one per cent alcohol in beer, is superseded by the Massachusetts statute, which permits 2.75 per cent alcohol in beer, in the courts of this commonwealth, according to a finding made by Judge J. J. Mahoney in district court here today.

The decision was made in the case of James McGurn, charged with illegal keeping of liquor. Counsel for the defense argued that the state law should apply rather than the federal law. When a chemist of the state department of public health testified that the sample seized at McGurn's place contained only 2.51 per cent alcohol, the court dismissed the case.

In disposing of the case, however, the court suggested that the case be brought to the attention of the federal authorities, and that a conviction might be procured in the federal court.

TO BUILD NEW NEGRO COLONY

Martial Law Still in Force at Tulsa—Known Death Toll Aremains at 30

TULSA, Okla., June 3.—Plans for building homes for the thousands of negroes rendered destitute by the burning of the negro quarter here in the race war, were worked out today by a civilian committee of relief.

Business men of the city have agreed to erect as many houses as needed in the shortest time possible. One plan under consideration is to form a corporation to buy up land in the northern part of the city and build a new negro colony.

Known Dead 30
The number of known dead remained at 30 today, no additional bodies having been found. This list was expected to be increased slightly by deaths of some of the several hundred wounded.

More than 1000 negroes, who have not been released from guard, slept at the fair grounds.
The Red Cross distributed food and clothing at a dozen churches. An identification bureau, operated by the Red Cross sifted the names of the refugees and brought families together.

Martial Law Still in Force
Martial law, greatly modified, remained in effect, but the 300 troops under the command of Adjt. Gen. Barrett, had little to do except aid in relief work among the negroes.

Hundreds of negroes, wearing badges inscribed "Police Protection," were on the streets and downtown Tulsa took on a normal appearance. Negroes were at work in hotels and stores and other places. Employers fed them and provided shelter last night in garages, shops and basements of residences.

MAN FOUND IN ALLEY DIES AT HOSPITAL

Edward Sweeney of Appleton street died at 2 a. m. today at St. John's hospital, after being found lying in an alley off Tyler street, by Officer Considine about 10:15 o'clock last night. The patrolman heard groans proceeding from the alley, and upon investigation discovered the prostrate form of the victim. A bottle containing a deadly substance, it is said, was found in Sweeney's pocket. Police headquarters were notified and the man was sent to St. John's hospital, where his death occurred a few hours later. Immediately upon his arrival at St. John's, the authorities at the institution placed his name on the dangerous list. Officers Winn and Phillip D. Murphy took him to the hospital. That his name is Edward Sweeney and his address 256 Appleton street, was information given the police by a Mr. Murphy, residing on Congress street. The city directory revealed the name and address, as being that of the deceased, who is said to have been a lodger at an Appleton street house. He was employed by the city, it was learned, and was working on the First street grade.

Many Narrow Escapes When Racing Car Wheel Bursts in Hurd Street

Two men were badly hurt, several others narrowly escaped serious injury and an automobile was wrecked, when the flywheel of a rebuilt Ford racing car burst and flew out of the car, in Hurd street, yesterday afternoon. The injured are Stewart Hunt and Frank Gunther, both of Dracut. Hunt is foreman for the Pitts Auto Supply Co., while Gunther is also employed at the Pitts station. Both men were taken to St. John's hospital.

A strange feature of the accident was the fact that both victims sustained precisely the same injuries, each having suffered a compound fracture of the right leg. No serious complications are feared by the hospital authorities, but it will be a considerable length of time, it is stated, before the men are able to return to work.

The machine that figured in the accident is owned by William Foley of Billerica, and won the Memorial day automobile race at Medford. It was formerly a Ford touring car, but was rebuilt into a racer with parts of other machines. It is said that when the shaft was lengthened, some of the bearings were taken out. Foley drove to the Pitts Auto Supply for accessories and was conferring with Foreman Stewart relative to repairs when there was a loud report. The flywheel, weighing about forty pounds, flew out, tearing the hood and engine of the car to pieces, and scattering pieces of iron and steel in all directions. One of the pieces of the wheel struck Hunt and Gunther in the leg, while Ralph Getow, another employee, had a close call when a piece grazed him as it flew by.

It is said that several pedestrians, who were in the immediate vicinity narrowly escaped being struck by flying pieces of iron, one of which weighed ten pounds, and was later found on the roof of the Ipswich mill building. Mr. Foley, who was in the car when the accident occurred, received a bad shaking up, but was not injured. The ambulance was called and the two victims of the accident were taken to St. John's hospital, where today they are reported as resting comfortably.

DIFFICULT TO FILL JURY BOX

Only Seven Men Secured in Three Days—Sheriff Rounds up Group of 175

DEDHAM, June 3.—A panel of 500 veniremen having failed to complete a jury for the trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti on charges of robbery and murder, the homes and highways of Norfolk county were combed overnight by direction of the court for additional takersmen and a group of 175 protesting citizens was rounded up for examination as prospective jurors today. Only seven seats in the jury box were filled in three days up to last night.

This morning Sheriff Capen and 12 deputies who had gathered in the citizens sought to quiet them but business men protested that their affairs needed attention, factory workers said discharge would follow their failure to punch time clocks, as required; professional men objected to what they termed the sudden seizure, and farmers represented the need of their oversight and labors on crops at a critical time in their development.

Routed Out of Bed
Most of those who appeared had been routed out of their beds. Others had been hailed as they returned from an evening call or as they left their homes this morning. Nearly all were in a protestant mood while the sleepless sheriff and his deputies sought to hold them until the court could pass on their objections.

The extraordinary panel was drawn from the city of Quincy and the towns of Brookline, Dedham, Stoughton, Norfolk, Millis and Medway.

The impressed takersmen trotted in the courtroom while counsel conferred at length with the judge in chambers on the situation.

Question Raised by Defense
It was understood from attorneys associated with the defense that a question was raised as to the manner in which men were summoned, whether from prepared lists or at random. If from lists, it was said, objection would be made on the ground that the defense was not consulted in their preparation and that the sheriff, who was in charge of the round-up as an officer of the government associated with the prosecution, might be considered as not qualified to direct the selection.

Deputy sheriffs said informally that they had obtained their takersmen in various ways. One said he served notice on nine men whom he found at a lodge meeting last night and that the meeting immediately broke up.

Count came in an hour late, and proceeded to instruct the panel on the duties of jurors.

Another deputy sheriff told how the audience at a band concert in Braintree melted away after he had served notice on several men. Two or three

HAD HIS NERVE WITH HIM

Thief Steals Car While Supt.
Welch Explains Police
Methods

Owner Gets Car Back But
the Thief Is Still At

That thief simply was lacking in good taste, and that's all there is about it. He had no sense of the fitness of things. His aesthetic bump was a dent. He's as mean as a man who, with a bottle of real liquor, gives his dear old father a drink of Lowell molasses when he craves a small comfort.

Who was the fiend in human form who stole the Dart touring car belonging to Walter Bruce, while Bruce sat within the Pawtucketville Congregational church harkening to the eloquent words of Superintendent Redmond Welch, of the local police department, as the latter depicted the uncomparable vigor of the millions of the law? Bruce would like to know. Superintendent Welch would like to know. The police flunkeys would like to know. And, by grave, they're going to know. Any crook who will breeze away with a 1920 model automobile must at the moment when its owner is listening with ravished ears to proof that you can't get away with it—any such crook ought to be caught! It's all right for a run-runner to escape in a car of his own, especially when he can make the car disappear—wheel—just like that, in the very heart of the city. That's cleverness, just like a magician. But to sneak off with a machine when the art of running down malefactors is being theoretically explained a few yards away—that's low down. Well, we'll get him yet, by chowder!

Anyhow, Bruce got his car back. That well-known resting place for the purloined automobiles, the rear of the textile school, once more proved its fame as a spot where stolen machines are abandoned by thieves suddenly seized with cold feet. About 5:30 a. m. today, Officer Farris, member of the late shift, made his way to this place, and sure enough, there was Bruce's car calmly awaiting redemption. The chap who so nonchalantly took it, figuratively speaking, from beneath the very nose of the law, or if we consider the note of Superintendent Welch, perhaps it were better to say the very eyes, apparently lost heart. He must have heard in imagination the tolling of the tocsin of justice. He must have pictured the saluting forth of the infuriated business, armed in all the pomp of authority—and his pedal extremities must have grown icy. He didn't even take with him as a souvenir a spare tire, as did the last law-breaker who parked a stolen limo back of the school.

"The Chief and the Thief"
Was listening to the tale
Of how policemen capture
Evil-doers o'er hill and dale.

The accomplishment of coppers
Were detailed in words sublime—
How they act as doughty stoppers
Of every sort of crime.

'Twas the Chief, in words melodious,
Speaking words of grace and cheer,
Woe to malefactor odious,
Who should venture to appear!

Let the naughty burglar shiver!
The police are on his trail,
And the bird who steals a silver
Will be parked within the jail.

Now it changed, a miscreant fearful Littered in the dark without,
Did he fail to get the carful
That the chief was passing out?

Did he miss the chief's expounding
Of police department wiles,
And with confidence abounding
Hover near with baleful smiles?

Yes, he missed the dire narration
Of how doomed all culprits are,
And with confidence abounding
Stole a listener's touring car.

Sad the fate of wretch so daring!
All that superhuman power
Coppers use in thief-snaring
Were on foot within the hour.

Forth the telegraphic message
Flashed relentless, crisp and short,
With its words of ominous presage,
"Stolen, strayed or lost—one Dart."

Every badge is brightly gleaming;
Every suit is neatly pressed,
As police, with faces beaming,
Hasten forward to arrest.

By the cops, with flashlights tested,
He'll be tracked by land and sea,
If he fails to be arrested,
How extremely rude he'll be!

Will the Bechard brothers, L. T. and F. W., and T. Lirette, owners of a dance bungalow on the Pawtucket boulevard, lose their investment of $10,000 when their petition for a permit to hold dancing parties there comes before the license commission, Tuesday, June 14, at a public hearing? If the Lowell General hospital trustees, and other remonstrants, are able to convince the commissioners that such festivities as would be carried on at the structure would be a public nuisance, the three men who were concerned in the venture stand a large chance of being much out of pocket.

Yesterday afternoon the first echo of last year's protests against a permit for the pavilion, which resulted in its handling idle and unoccupied up to the present time, was heard when the trustees of the hospital voted to oppose vigorous efforts against the proposed summer amusement headquarters. The trustees were in receipt of a communication from James J. Kerwin, representing the owners of the dance hall, and were asked to revise their decision of last year. Their reply drawn up by Clerk William Trull, Stoughton, states in no ambiguous terms that the institution will most earnestly oppose any attempt to disturb the existing adjudication of our honorable board of license commissioners.

It is reported that litigation among Pawtucket residents, which took place against the dance hall last year, will be duplicated when the matter comes up again. The proposal of Lirette and the Bechards that a two weeks' trial be accorded their enterprise has fallen on deaf ears as far as the trustees are concerned. It is feared that hospital patients will be

Five Arrested In Kidnapping Case.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Five men were arrested this morning in connection with the kidnapping last week of Giuseppe Verotta, five year old son of Salvatore Verotta, who lives in the Italian quarter. Officials said they had obtained confessions that the prisoners had sought to collect ransom money from the father.

The capture of the five men, all of whom are Italians, was made possible largely through the efforts of a woman detective, who took up her residence in the Verotta home posing as a cousin from Detroit. She conducted negotiations for payment of ransom with one of the men, and later caused the arrest of the gang.

Police officials said they expected to recover the boy some time today, as they were convinced the men would tell where he was being hidden.

Prehistoric Ruins of Cliff Dwellers

DURANGO, Colo., June 3.—Discovery of prehistoric ruins of what is believed to have been a different race of cliff dwellers from those who inhabited the ruins in the Mesa Verde national park, was reported by Charles Hayes of Mancosco, who returned from an exploration trip.

The discovery, he said, was made in an almost inaccessible region north of the Navajo mountains. He said he believed he was the first white man to view the ruins, many of which were larger and better preserved than those in the Mesa Verde national park.

Other discoveries have been made by scientists near Pagosa Springs, according to reports received here.

Anti-Bolshevik Forces Annihilated

STOCKHOLM, June 3.—Anti-Bolshevik forces at Vladivostok have been annihilated by soviet troops, it is asserted in a despatch sent out by the Russian Official Telegraph Agency. The despatch asserts that the anti-Bolsheviks were aided by the Japanese. General Budenny, the Bolshevik cavalry leader who played a prominent part in the campaigns against General Wrangel, has reported that Ukrainian troops which were threatening to attack the Bolsheviks in southern Russia have been scattered.

The action followed a visit by State Senator Schreiner of Arizona, who told the legislators of conditions along the border.

Morey school left the Highlands at 8 o'clock and journeyed to the New Hampshire resort, where they spent a most enjoyable day. They were accompanied by the principal, Mr. Donnell, and the teachers of the highest grade, Misses Donahue and Whitney. During the day games were played and a basket luncheon was enjoyed. The pupils of the Varnum school boarded a special electric car at the corner of John and Merrimack streets at 5 o'clock, their objective point being Whittier's birthplace, just outside of Haverhill. Several historic points were visited in the vicinity of Haverhill and at noon luncheon was enjoyed. The afternoon was devoted to sports and games. The party was in charge of the principal, Miss Kenne, who was assisted by Misses Wal-

MADAME CURIE MAKES UP HER MIND ABOUT US

BY N. W. QUINN

PITTSBURG, June 3.—Madame Curie knows now what she thinks of America and Americans. A week after her arrival from France the famous discoverer of radium began to be excused—she had had only time for superficial opinions, and scientists cannot think superficially.

But now—After visiting several of our greatest cities and educational institutions. After receiving from President Harding a $10,000 gift of radium presented by American women.

After inspecting the laboratory here in which more of the world's supply of radium is refined—

The madame speaks. She has found much that is good in us, some that is—well, not so good.

American women—Ah, yes, how she admires them! So different, so much more active, so much more independent than European women.

American cities—Wonderful, to be sure. But she dislikes the noise, the push, the jam. It tires her so—but so does Paris.

New York—Long and narrow, cold and steel! Too much marble, too few flowers. Too many people dogs; too few children.

Washington—She likes it best of all. The parks and gardens and statues—ah, there is an inspiration and a happiness.

Our rivers—The Hudson—majestic, mac—there's a river you can take to but spoiled by commerce! The Potomac—your heart and love!

Smoking by women—She likes best those women who confess they do smoke—for then you can ask how much.

Jazz—Never heard it—or of it—either in Paris or New York. What is it?

Carpenter-Dempsey Fight—Please write down a blank like this—!

American cooking—Ditto for the sake of diplomacy.

The writer came to Pittsburgh to interview Madame Curie. He found the famous scientist had surrounded herself with the same barriers that presidents and kings erect. She must not be quoted directly; her daughter Irene was authorized to express her views; yes, she understood them fully! Irene is her mother's co-worker.

This recluse of the Paris laboratory, who has stepped for a few weeks into the whirl of American affairs, confesses it is somewhat dizzying. But she enjoys it—much!

The wrinkles around her lips and eyes deepen with concentration, but often relax into a motherly smile. Of Polish descent, the madame has a typical Slavic face. The nose is prominent but well molded. Her lips are thin, her chin strong. Her eyes gray—are true mirrors of intellect. Her hair, once brown, now is gray.

Madame Curie dresses most plainly—like an American housewife going marketing. Black shirtwaist, with some lace and white collar. High shoes with low heels, black, of course. No ornaments, save a ribbon with jeweled clasp, from which dangled the golden key to her casket of radium.

She fingers the key frequently—it is the key to further scientific researches, which she hopes may benefit the world far more than did her discovery of radium.

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With Othline—Double Strength

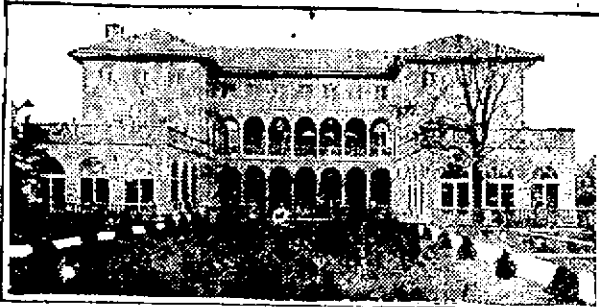

This preparation for the removal of freckles is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othline and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othline; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

ZIONIST CONVENTION OPENS SUNDAY

CLEVELAND, June 2.—Zionist districts in every Jewish community in the country are expected to be represented here next Sunday at the opening of the annual Zionist convention, when the Zionist Organization of America will demand a vote of confidence in it for its stand in the controversy relative to the placing of safeguards around the funds that are being raised for the Palestine foundation.

While numerous other subjects will come before the convention the vote of confidence on this subject has temporarily overshadowed all others.

American leaders, headed by Judge Julian W. Mack, of New York, contend that the activities of the Keren Hayesot or Palestine foundation fund, be limited to a donation fund, to be paid to the executive of the World Zionist organization, but to be expended by the latter body only in Palestine and only in accordance with the fixed Palestinian budget.

They point out that there was chartered in London on March 23, a Keren Hayesot association, as a separate corporation independent of the World Zionist executive, or of the Zionist congress. The American leaders headed by Judge Mack contend that the charter gives to the five directors of the association power to supersede the world organization and the congress. They claim further that the London resolutions provided that the Palestine foundation be a fund for the immigration and colonization of Jews in Palestine but that the articles of incorporation give its five directors powers which may be exercised in any part of the world and to surrender the up-building of Palestine to private individuals and corporations.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, head of the World Zionist organization recently declared in New York that the charter of the Keren Hayesot association is merely provisional, and that it may be altered at the world Zionist congress to be held abroad next September. He asks that the whole matter be held in abeyance until then, while collections for the fund continue.

The American leaders say they are willing to leave to the Zionist congress the disposition of the funds, but demand proper safeguards for the expenditure in Palestine only of the fund collected meanwhile and they will ask that this attitude be upheld by a vote of confidence.

FIGHT ON IRISH REPORT IN AUSTRALIAN HOUSE

LONDON, June 2.—Efforts on the part of extremists in the Australian house of representatives to introduce the report of the American commission on Ireland into the official record of that body were defeated yesterday, says a Melbourne despatch to the London Times. Mr. P. Conisidine read the conclusions of the American committee and while he was thus engaged, Sir Robert W. Best of Victoria denounced them as "vile and odious slanders upon the empire."

STEFANSSON TO VISIT HEART OF ICE FIELDS

PASADENA, Cal., June 2.—It is to hit the veil of mystery from the unexplored icy area, lying 350 miles beyond the North Pole, that Vilhjalmur Stefansson, famed explorer, will make his new Arctic dash in 1922.

His goal is the center of this ice field, concerning which nothing is known.

This vast tract, he believes, is playing an important part in the evolution of the world. The ice packs at the southern edge are being worn away by the gulf stream, the warm currents of which flow constantly into the Atlantic. This gradual melting and breakage process has placed the pole 350 miles nearer the open ocean.

Such are the announcements of vast scientific interest just made by the intrepid explorer while vacationing here at the home of Ernest Dekoren Lefingwell, who commanded an expedition in 1906.

Stefansson is starting east to prepare for what may prove his most hazardous undertaking.

The area which he hopes to penetrate, he points out, extends some 450 miles this side of the pole and the central point is located 500 miles beyond any point so far reached by ship.

"It might be reached by airship," he said, "but nothing of a scientific nature could be unearthed en route. Necessary observations of the surface of the ice and earth must be made on the way."

His ambition is to reach the very center of the ice area. There has been much conjecture regarding what lies there, and he hopes to answer the question for the world.

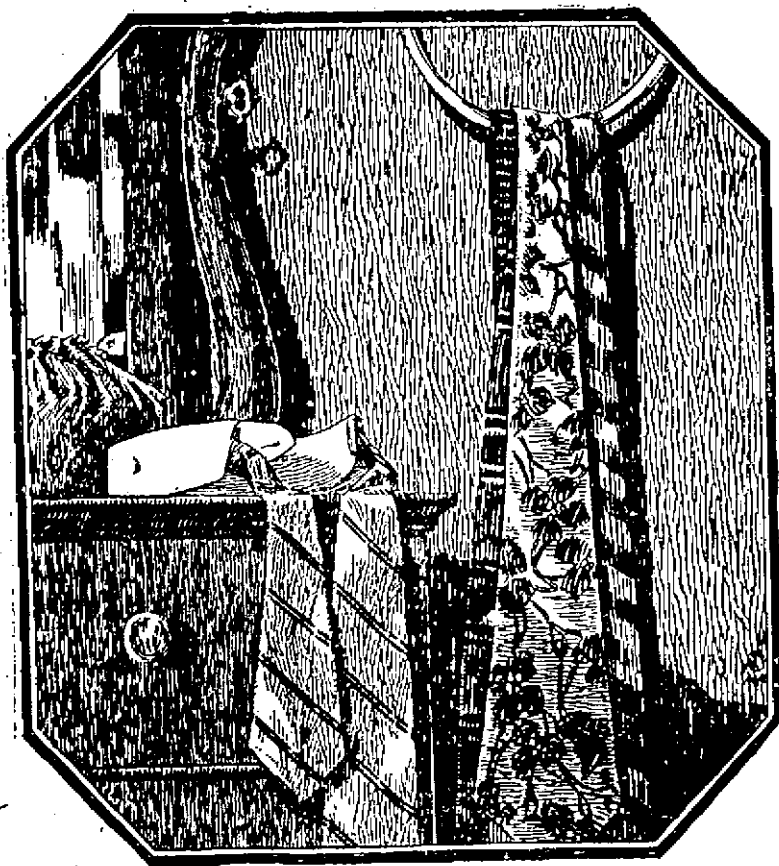

Stefansson laughed when the question of hazard was raised.

"Proper preparation for an Arctic expedition eliminates danger," he said. "Tropical exploration is far more dangerous. There are no poisonous snakes and fevers in the northland. It is a simple matter to maintain perfect health."

He expects to take some 15 men with him. He will make up his expedition in New York.

RISK LIVES IN SEARCH FOR HIDDEN GOLD

BISBEE, Ariz., June 2.—For three hundred years, according to the reliable records, the Sierra Madre mountains of Sonora and Chihuahua, Mexico, have held the secret of a gold mine of fabulous richness and a vast treasure store of gold, mined and hidden away in an inaccessible tunnel.

The romance of the gold hunter is written in the history of man's efforts through the centuries to reach and bring back to civilization this wealth of the Old Tyopa mines. Murders and violence have marked many of these efforts and still in many hardy breasts of this mining country today there still stirs the spirit which has promoted many to brave the dangers of starvation, thirst and death at the hands of Indian bands and outlaws in the search for gold.

Mexico City contains records of the old mine and several prospectors, one of them Jack Dunn, accredited discoverer of the Warren district, have reported seeing ruins of the old mine, but none ever reached there.

According to records at the Mexican capital, in the latter part of the 17th century the isolated village of Old Tyopa was raided by Indians, who destroyed the town and killed all the inhabitants except a priest.

After wandering for several weeks the priest arrived at a little town called Agua Fria, on the Papigochic river, where he was received and cared for by a Mexican family. His hardships caused his death, but before he died he gave to the family a description and map of the mining camp. He also reported that the gold obtained from seven years of mining had been stored in an old tunnel because of the impossibility of shipment to civilization.

The story and map, it is said, have been handed down from family to family for generations. Those who attempted to reach the camp lost their quilts and many did not return. The Indians for years menaced all prospectors and this condition still exists, augmented by bands of outlaws.

Max Covita, for several years Mexican consul at Naco, is said to have been the latest possessor of the priest's map. He declared he twice succeeded in getting as far as Casa Blanca from which the ruins of Old Tyopa are visible and it was reported he had not given up hopes of reaching the place at his death several years ago.

Hert Grover, a local man, twice started with two companions to make the perilous journey, but was forced back because of insufficient equipment, Indians and outlaws.

Some remarkable gold specimens have been brought back from the vicinity of the Old Tyopa, but so far as known no one ever has reached the mine since the old town was destroyed centuries ago.

WOMEN RESCUE CHILD FAMINE VICTIMS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Little Chou Ya Dao has come out of a far land stricken with famine and disease into a land of peace and plenty—the first victim of famine-stricken China

to be rescued and brought to the United States.

Mrs. H. A. Raider of Tientsin, China, is the rescuing angel of the frail little 10-year-old Chinese girl, and has brought her here to act as "mamah" to her two little children during their tour through the states.

Throughout all China, Mrs. Raider declares, American men and women, and other foreigners, are doing everything within their power to alleviate the suffering of the famine victims.

FOR PAN-PACIFIC LEAGUE OF NATIONS

HONOLULU, T. H., June 2.—A Pan-Pacific league of nations, with Honolulu as the capital of the league, as recently advocated by Professor Walter B. Pitkin of Columbia university, is a subject which has been informally discussed between officials of the Pan-Pacific union, whose headquarters are in Honolulu, and several premiers of Pacific lands, according to Alexander Hume Ford, secretary-director of the union.

Last year, said Secretary-Director Ford, both Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Franklin K. Lane, then secretary of the interior, advocated a Pan-Pacific league of nations.

It has been suggested by some of the Pacific premiers who have passed through Honolulu that the Pan-Pacific union, of which all of them are officers, should take up the project of the Pan-Pacific league and Mr. Ford, who recently left for the national capital, expects to confer on tentative plans along this line with officials there.

American Institute of Banking
Meets at Minneapolis This Month

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 3.—The American Institute of Banking, educational section of the American Bankers' association, holds its 1921 annual convention here July 19 to 22. Approximately 1500 delegates from almost every state in the union are expected to be present.

Because of recent financial readjustments, the meetings promise to be the most important held by banking heads this year. Five industry talks by men actively identified with each individual subject will be a feature of the convention. Men nationally known are to be selected to talk on milling, livestock and packing, automobiles, merchandise jobbing and transportation.

Another feature will be a symposium on foreign trade, in which a number of prominent institute men will participate. Questions of world-wide trade, and any relating subject which affects American bankers will be discussed.

Formed a number of years ago at Richmond, Virginia, through the consolidation of a number of local associations, the organization now has an active membership of 41,000 throughout the country. Originally, it was known as the American Institute of Bank Clerks, but later, when it became a part of the American Bankers' association, its name changed and both officers and clerks of banks were admitted to active membership. Many bank directors recently have become affiliated with the institute as associate members.

Local chapters of the institute have been established in 54 of the country's principal cities, and six state chapters have been organized for the purpose of extending the educational advantages of the organization to country bankers.

Educational classes for the most part are conducted under agreements with well-known universities, but where this system cannot be effected, the work is under the direct supervision of George E. Allen, educational director of the institute.

Many women will be found among the membership of the institute and the active participation of women in the banking business is seen by their recent election to some of the larger organizations of the American Bankers' association.

GREATEST AUCTION OF
WET GOODS IN WORLD

NEW YORK, June 3.—Uncle Sam will soon hold the greatest auction of wet goods in the world. About $20,000,000 worth of bonded liquor, confiscated in New York since the Volstead act became effective, will be placed under the hammer. If $5,000,000 is realized the government will be happy.

But this auction will be a semi-private affair. The man with a thirst, regardless of the condition of his pocketbook, will not get an opportunity to participate, except possibly in the role of a mournful spectator on the sidelines. The only bidders will be persons duly licensed to deal in alcohol or have it in their possession. Some of the liquor may be given away to hospitals if there are no bidders.

The principal reason for holding the auction is that the big warehouse where the liquor is now stored, is crowded to capacity. In this glorified bar room is stored every kind of intoxicant known in the dry era. There are something like 25,000 cases of rare old whiskey, brandy, gin and wine; more of the same in 5000 barrels, to say nothing of hundreds upon hundreds of demijohns, bottles and flasks.

Marshal (Big Tom) McCarthy has been designated as auctioneer.

JUDGE ALMOST HAILED

SALEM, June 3.—Judge George B. Sears, justice of the local court, was almost summoned into his own court yesterday. The judge left his automobile standing in front of a hydrant on Washington street. A fireman discovered the machine and promptly tagged it with a notice directing the owner to appear at the nearest police station. Judge Sears reported to Police Captain Edwin W. Dennis as ordered and after explanations, was dismissed because of his first offence. The judge smiled at Captain Dennis that "it wouldn't happen again."

JAIL SENTENCE FOR
"HARDING'S COUSIN"

CHICAGO, June 3.—Everett Harding, self-styled cousin of President Harding, was sentenced yesterday to 15 months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth by Federal Judge K. M. Landis, after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of impersonating a federal officer.

REPORT CONCESSION
ON YAP BY JAPAN

TOKIO, June 3.—(By the Associated Press).—The Hochi Shimbun says it has reason to believe Japan has proposed to give the United States the Yap-Guam cable, with the privilege of control of the line to the island of Yap. While Japan intends to keep the mandate, the newspaper says, she considers this to be virtual internationalization.

Dan Beard Tells How To Make Log Boats

THIS IS HOW THE FIJI ISLANDERS RIDE LOGS. TRY IT YOURSELF.

"Dan Beard is national Boy Scout commissioner of America. He has spent his life in work in the interest of boys and has written many books about them. This is the fourth of six stories on "Summer Stunts For Boys," written by him.

DAN BEARD
National Boy Scout Commissioner
Logs are cranks, awkward things in the water and I have always marveled at the lumber pack and rivermen of Maine and Canada who could take them through all sorts of rough water and only average about one inching a day.

But from reading about the FIJI Islanders in my geography, I learned the wrinkle of how to handle a log and keep it from being "cranky" and rolling over all the time. When I learned that secret I felt that I could make a capital craft out of almost any ordinary old log.

The South Sea Islanders put outriggers on their very narrow canoes so that they could carry a roll of put on loggers on a log (Fig. 1). It was easy. All I had to do was notch the log fore and aft, spike two cross pieces on (A & B), then to these spike two smaller logs (C & D). The main log was about 18 inches through the butt. The smaller logs were about 8 inches through the butt.

There was my craft all ready for

me. I shoved it off the sand bar where I had built it, into the water, and climbed aboard. I could do a jig on the big log and it just wouldn't roll over because the outriggers held it firm.

But I wanted a more comfortable craft than that, so I made a seat about two feet from the stern of the main log. I found a slab (Fig. 2), or as the pioneers used to call them, a poncheon, and used an auger to make a poncheon bench (Fig. 3).

Keeps You High, Dry

This was done by drilling holes into the slab (Fig. 2, F, G & H) and inserting the bench a few, first wetting them a little so that the wood would swell after it had been forced into the holes. That made a bully seat that would let me sit down, all high and dry, and paddle my own canoe wherever I wanted to go.

To be sure, the catamaran sort of thing was a little heavy to make very fast progress, but by paddling or pulling (I found pulling more successful) I found I could get almost anywhere on Mud Creek I wanted to go, and it wasn't long before several other town boys had copied my craft and we had a regular fleet of these "logomans" on the creek.

SURPRISE PARTY

John W. and Harry Cole
Guests of Honor

John W. Cole, for the past 25 years connected with the D. L. Page Co. and his son, Harry A. Cole, who has also been connected with the company, were the guests of honor at a surprise party given last evening at the Cole home, 14 Fairfield street. Both men are soon to take over the management of an out-of-town hotel.

Mr. Cole, Sr., was presented a large silver loving cup and gold pencil, while his son received a writing set. The presentations were made by William B. Reynolds on behalf of the Page Co.'s employees, 60 of whom were present at last evening's affair. Both expressed their appreciation of the thoughtfulness of those present and expressed their regret at leaving Lowell. In the course of the evening an entertainment program was carried out and included several songs by Miss Theresa McCarron and Leslie Moffet and piano selections by Solomon Steep and Miss Helen Coughlin. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the affair included Miss Mary Cox, Miss May McQuire, William B. Reynolds, Austin Page and John C. King.

SAYS PADDOCK

NEW YORK, June 3.—Sprinter Charley Paddock could run the 220 yard dash in 20 seconds flat, if he trained exclusively for the distance, in the opinion of Lloyd Constock, former trainer of the University of Southern California. Constock, who is on a business trip to the east, stated today that he considered Paddock one of the greatest sprinters in this country.

"Paddock should be at his best in the two-twenty," he said, "and if he gets started up I should not be surprised to see him do even time for the furlong. That he will overturn 9 3-5 seconds for the hundred, for he is not a particularly quick man of the mark, but once under way he gathers speed quickly and finishes at a terrific pace."

Constock also said he believed that the victory of the University of California at the intercollegiate games in Boston last week would prove a great boom for college track and field sport on the Pacific coast. He said that the winning of the eastern track classic would encourage other colleges to come east more frequently to compete in this as well as other branches of college sport.

"We have plenty of fine athletes on the western coast," said Constock.

WILL ATTEND LAYING

OF CORNER STONE

A large delegation of members of Court St. Antoine, C.O.F., will go to North Cambridge next Sunday to attend the laying of the corner stone of the new Notre Dame de Ste. Marie Church. The trip to the neighboring city will be made in automobiles, which will leave the C.M.A.C. hall in Pawtucket street in the early forenoon.

The program of the exercises will consist of a street parade in which the Lowell men will participate, followed by the laying of the stone, which will be marked with appropriate exercises. Later a banquet will be served and a mass meeting will be held, during which addresses will be delivered by prominent clergymen and laymen.

NEW LAKEVIEW PARK

The old days of Lakeview's popularity have been restored, with good measure added. Never has the picnic ground of Lowell seen the crowds that enjoyed its many and varied features the past week. Lake Mascoptic is a natural beauty spot, where rest and quiet await the fatigued, and a wholesome diversion makes its appeal to those who are striving to banish dull care. The grand old hall is the center of activities but there are others. The fare is 10 cents—just half what it used to be.

LOOKING FOR GAME

The Park A.C. would like to challenge any 12-14 year old team in the city for any Saturday afternoon or Sunday. The team will be picked from Joyce, Quinn, Donohoe, Garbrieldian, Welch, P. Melton, de Welch, T. Halls, F. Black, G. McGowan, J. Stackpole. For games answer through this paper.

matter what town he is in. Accordingly, he marched with the 36 G. A. R. veterans last Monday's parade here and received his share of the continuous applause which greeted the grand old men.

He served three years in the Civil war with the Eighth Maine Infantry and did a lot of surgery during the great struggle. However, he had not completed his professional education at the time the war broke out and for that reason refused to accept a commission as an assistant surgeon. He was content to leave the army as he entered it—a private.

When asked if he made it a practice to march in the Memorial day parade every year, Mr. Morrison said: "Yes, sir; there aren't any too many of the old vets now and every one helps to keep the brass buttons carefully polished. In tribute to the two of his sons who saw service with the air forces in France in the great conflict, he has worn a poppy in the buttonhole of his uniform since he arrived in Lowell. These sons are now in California engaged in the airplane business."

Looking For Excitement

Asked why he never returned to his home in Maine after the war, Morrison said that the excitement of the conflict gave him a taste of excitement and he wanted more. Consequently he struck for the west, after serving a few years on a railroad in New York state. It was while he was working for the road that the accident which made him give up his intention of becoming a surgeon occurred. There was an explosion on a section of the road where construction work was going on and one of the workmen was pretty well rattled as a result. The services of Morrison were called upon and while performing an operation on the injured man another unexpected explosion occurred, injuring Morrison's forehead and causing him to lose his mind for a short time. The shock of the accident steadied his hands and he was unable to pursue his professional work further.

were in their prime. His experiences on his fate, he says there came to him a sort of a vision that misfortune was to befall several members of the Sioux tribe who were out on a buffalo hunt. He was aware of the great respect and awe in which the Sioux held anyone who could foretell the future and he decided to tell Sitting Bull what was going to happen. He warned him that several of his men would be killed by the Blackfeet before daylight and his prophecy happened to come true.

Sitting Bull and the other braves were duly impressed and thereafter looked upon Morrison as a sacred being. Nothing was too good for him.

Mr. Morrison has spent much of his time during the last few years with his sons at Sausalito, Cal., but has been unable to stay near the seacoast for any extended period because of his inability to stand the cold. He says he liked to be in the mountains where he has spent much of his life.

A few years ago he decided to come east to see his own home town in Maine once more and to spend the rest of his days in a soldier's home there. At the time he made the decision he was in Colorado and wanted to go west to see his sons before starting out on the trip. He left Colorado in May 1920, and in the following autumn came to Illinois. He arrived there on September 27 and remained there for the winter months, starting out again early this spring for the east. He has traveled from 50 to 125 miles a day. He has had little trouble with his machine, which carried full equipment for sleeping out, except when he struck poor roads. However, he managed to make the entire trip practically unassisted. An appliance attached to the steering gear on his machine has assisted him.

His car is in a more or less battered looking condition but runs smoothly. Upon his arrival in Lowell it needed a number of repairs. He took it to a local garage, but was charged exorbitantly and then went to Peter J. McKenna's garage in Broadway where the car was taken care of. It is now in a garage in Cheever street.

Mr. Morrison expects to leave for Montpelier, Vt., tomorrow, and will then swing over into Maine to reach Waterville where his long journey will end.

Despite his advanced age, Mr. Morrison looks like a man not more than 55 or 60. His hair, which he has not had cut since he was a boy, is jet black, this being due to constant care. Simple living and plenty of outdoor activity are the essentials of longevity, he says. He is not an opponent of tobacco but rather enjoys smoking a pipe occasionally.

His friend, "Peggy," During his trip across the continent Mr. Morrison's sole companion has been "Peggy," a pet bull dog. "There's my best friend," said Mr. Morrison, pointing to the dog in the corner of his room. Before I had her, I used to lose many of the articles from my machine, but since she and I have been travelling together, there has been no stealing.

Mr. Morrison's first acts when he gets back to Waterville, he says, will be to fix up his mother's grave. She died during his absence in the west.

PLEASED WITH ELECTION

Members of Local Greek
Community Well Satisfied
With Results

General satisfaction prevails in the local Greek community over the result of the recent election, the announcement of which was made in yesterday's Sun, and the members of the community feel and expect that the new board of officers will accomplish
a great deal toward the advancement of the colony.

The new president, James Danas, is an active young man, who has the

Interest of the community at heart.
He is a very successful business man
and his friends predict that under his direction the affairs of the community
will be conducted under strictly business principles. The new secretary, Demetrios Kirkilis, has had considerable experience in the administration of the community's affairs as he has served for years on the board of directors. Last year he was a member of the board of auditors.

As far as could be learned the recent election cost the community over $100

and the work of counting up the ballots was very slow, this being due, it is said, to the system in vogue. There was but one voting place and that was in the basement of the church in Jeferson street and inasmuch as there were close to 100 names on the ballot,
the task of counting, which was in the hands of only a couple of men, was

a very difficult one. The new board of directors are now planning to change the system and to establish voting places in various parts of the district, or in other words, divide the district into wards. Then election
officers will be chosen and the election
will be conducted along the same lines
as the city election. It is felt that with such a system the tabulating will
be facilitated, while the election expense will not be so great.

705 MEN ARE LAID OFF

Great Falling Off in Both
Freight and Passenger
Traffic On B. & A. R. R.

BANGOR, Me., June 3.—To meet a 40
per cent. falling off in passenger business and a decided slump in freight
traffic, the Bangor & Aroostook railroad today notified its men that large temporary reductions would be made immediately in its forces, a total of 705 men being suspended for a period
of 30 days. The locomotive and car repair shops at Bangor will be closed, affecting 350 men at the former and 55 men at the latter shops, and the maintenance of way and construction departments. 200 employees will be relieved for a similar period. The men were notified that they may report
for work in 30 days.

"The great falling off in both freight
and passenger traffic all over the United States," said President Todd,
"was not so severe in northern Maine
as elsewhere in the country, and our traffic, both passenger and freight
compared fairly with the corresponding months of last year until about two months ago when the bottom seemed
to fall out of everything and since then the number of passengers carried on our train is about 40 per cent. less than it was a year ago."

Honeymoon Interrupted
Norman Gardinere of Quincy, who was summoned by Deputy Sheriff
Studley had just been married. Mr.
Gardinere was preparing to start for
New York on his honeymoon, the officer said, but the wedding trip was postponed and he was in court today.

The Italian consul at Boston, Marquis A. Ferranti, was present today,
accompanied by Vice Consul Silvio Vitale. The consul said he was under instructions from his government to observe the proceedings and would be in attendance at such times as counsel
for the defense recommended. The defendants Sacco and Vanzetti are nationals of Italy.

Moore Was Counsel For Etor

Fred H. Moore of Los Angeles, who has been active in formulating the defense of the prisoners, filed with the court a power of attorney signed by Sacco, together with a petition that he
be allowed to represent him. Moore, who appeared before the council of this state previously as counsel for the defendants in the trial at Salem in 1912, of Etor, Giovanniitti and Caruso,
I.W.W. leaders, for murder in connection with Lawrence strike riots, is not
a member of the Massachusetts bar.
Judge Thayer said he would reserve
decision for the present, adding that he would announce his answer shortly
with the reason for it. Meantime,
Attorney Moore continued to look after Sacco's interests.

Counsel for the defense suggested to the court that because of the unsatisfactory manner in which the talesmen were obtained, the usual questions be amplified and after conference with the prosecution, the judge added to the Woman Drover—Miss Cribb Finds Business Success In Health Quest

MISS GRACE CRIBB

MINNEAP, Minn., June 3.—Miss Grace Cribb was assistant credit manager of a large department store four years ago.

She was a city-bred girl. She knew nothing of the small village or the country.

She had never looked into the soulful eyes of a cow. She knew not the difference between a Holstein and a Fulpin buffalo. Sheep made splendid effects in oil paintings, and in real life bleated and were the parents of lambs. Pigs and hogs were one and the same to her; she liked them best in pork chops.

Becomes "Drover"

Today Miss Cribb is a "drover." She often stops by a cattle pen to discuss market conditions and the latest quotations on hogs.

Her business is to sell sales service to stock farmers. Although she doesn't

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF LOWELL

This is to let you know that Johnson's Boot Shop opened its doors on April 2, 1921, with ladies' and men's shoes in stock, up to date in every respect, to sell for one price, $5.00.

Of course, we admit that we are, what is considered, a little bit out of the way of the real shopping district, (36 Gorham St., opposite the postoffice), but wouldn't it seem reasonable to believe that if a man or woman could save from two dollars and a half to five dollars on every pair of shoes they buy that they would come down to 36 Gorham Street for that saving?

If you do not believe that we save you that much money on every pair of shoes, go into your dealer's store and ask him what he can sell a pair of "Just Wright" shoes for, (remember the name is "Just Wright"), and see what he will say to you.

If you are convinced that we are able to save you that much money, come in to see us and we will sell you a pair of shoes for $5.00 that you will be proud of.

Yours very truly,

TRANSIENT POSTAGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 3.—Householders held their noses as a postman passed by. An inquisitive crowd followed him to an office building. There he delivered a first-class package from Germany. It held first-class hamburger cheese.

Atty. Gen. Daugherty was among the callers at Jack Dempsey's training camp the other day. The cabinet member who should have called on Dempsey was the former secretary of war.

Flight experts seem to be agreed that Carpenter is the fastest man with whom Dempsey has ever been matched. He may be a fast man, but when it came to getting up and being knocked down again there never was anybody as fast as Jess Willard.

WINDY CITY TO HONOR MADAME CURIE

CHICAGO, June 3.—During a part of the two days of her three-day visit in Chicago, Madame Marie Sklodowska Curie, famous woman scientist who, with her husband, discovered radium, will be entertained by Northwestern University, the University of Chicago and the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society of which Prof. W. Lee Lewis of the former university is chairman, according to an announcement made by Prof. Lewis. Mme. Curie is due in Chicago on the morning of Monday, June 13, coming here from Colorado. That afternoon at the Art Institute, Chicago women will pay her tribute at a reception promoted by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, and by the Associated Women's Organization of Chicago.

Tuesday, June 14, Mme. Curie will be the guest of the University of Chicago a part of the afternoon and, in the evening will be entertained by the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society, when the Willard Gibbs medal, one of the highest honors bestowed by chemical circles will be awarded to Madame Curie. Prof. Lewis is a member of the national committee of scientists which early last winter co-operated with Mrs. William Brown Meloney of New York in an appeal to Mme. Curie to visit America. There ensued the movement for a gift of $100,000 worth of radium which on May 20 was presented at the White House in Washington.

Wednesday, June 15, Mme. Curie and her daughters, Irene, aged 20 and Eva, aged 15, with Mrs. Meloney, will be guests of Northwestern University at the annual convocation exercises. The distinguished guest will then be honored with the doctor of science degree. Mme. Curie will be entertained at luncheon the same day and her daughters will be the guests of the women at Northwestern University, at Willard hall. At the head of the Willard hall girls' committee will be Miss Raymond Bartholomew, daughter of the French consul in Chicago, who is a senior at Northwestern University.

Returning from the Evanston campus of Northwestern University Mme. Curie goes to a reception to be tendered her by the Polish Women's association of Chicago. Mme. Curie leaves for the east Wednesday night.

Miss Julia Sullivan, a popular young woman of this city, who will soon become the bride of Mr. James S. Oldfield, was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Thomas Galvin, 31 Coburn street, last evening. A large number of the young woman's friends were present and after extending their best wishes, showered her with numerous gifts. Miss Sullivan responded in a fitting manner and an evening of pleasure followed, during which entertainment numbers were given and luncheon was served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Galvin, Mrs. McAvoy and Miss Tessie V. Oldfield.

Romance of "Most Beautiful" Princess Wrecked by Spectre of First Husband

♦ Mrs. Schultz-Princess Troubetskoy

PRINCESS NADEJDA TROUBETSKOY, KNOWN AS THE "MOST BEAUTIFUL RED CROSS NURSE," WHOSE WHIRLWIND ROMANCE WITH CAPTAIN WALLACE STRAIT SCHULTZ CAME TO AN UNHAPPY ENDING WHEN THE ARMY OFFICER SECURED AN ANNULLMENT OF THE MARRIAGE IN GREEN BAY, WIS.

Out of the past has come the specter of a husband she thought dead to lay in cold ashes the romance of Princess Nadejda Troubetskoy, known as "the most beautiful Red Cross nurse," and the dashing Captain Wallace Strait Schultz.

Annulment of their marriage was recently secured by Schultz in Green Bay, Wis. He secured the decree through the declaration that a former husband of the princess, Victor A. Turin, at one time officer of the Imperial Russian Guard, was alive and residing in New York state.

At the very moment Schultz was bringing his action the princess was attempting to secure a legal residence in California that she might sue for divorce. She had gone to San Diego under an assumed name, it developed, only to end in this.

and was studying aviation under the direction of Lieutenant W. F. Richardson, her father's adjutant in Russia. But a few weeks after the marriage, which followed a whirlwind courtship in Washington, D. C., the "ghost" of the "dead" first husband crossed the family threshold and began his work of matrimonial destruction. Captain Schultz, it is said, accused her of having another husband. The princess declared that Turin had been killed in France and that she had proof of this. Schultz, however, had started on the trail of Husband No. 1 and the romance went smash.

"I had come to America to find freedom," the princess related when she heard of the annulment suit. "I had fled from my revolution-torn country—under an assumed name, it developed, only to end in this."

NAVY RECRUITING STAFF OFFICE

An office has been hired by the local navy recruiting staff, in the Howe building, and unlimited acceptance of men for sea service is in prospect in the near future. Chief Gunner's Mate McDowell, in charge of activities here, states that the lid is expected to come off July 1, when every man of moral fitness who can pass the physical and mental tests will be eligible to become a man-of-war's man. Until a recent order limited the number of recruits to sixteen throughout this part of New England Lowell had held the lead as furnishing the greatest proportional number of men for Uncle Sam's sea-fighting forces. Many local young men have joined the colors during the past months, many of them veterans of the world war.

LOWELL FIREMEN WILL PLAY SALEM

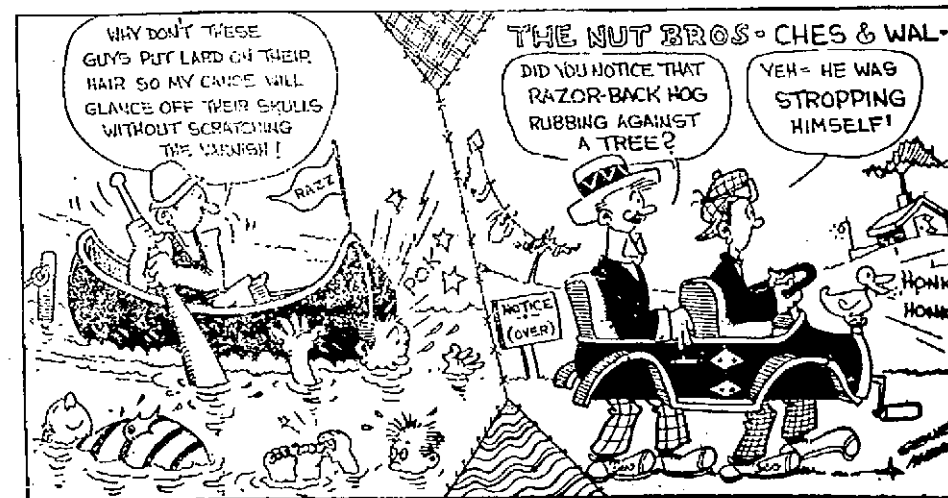

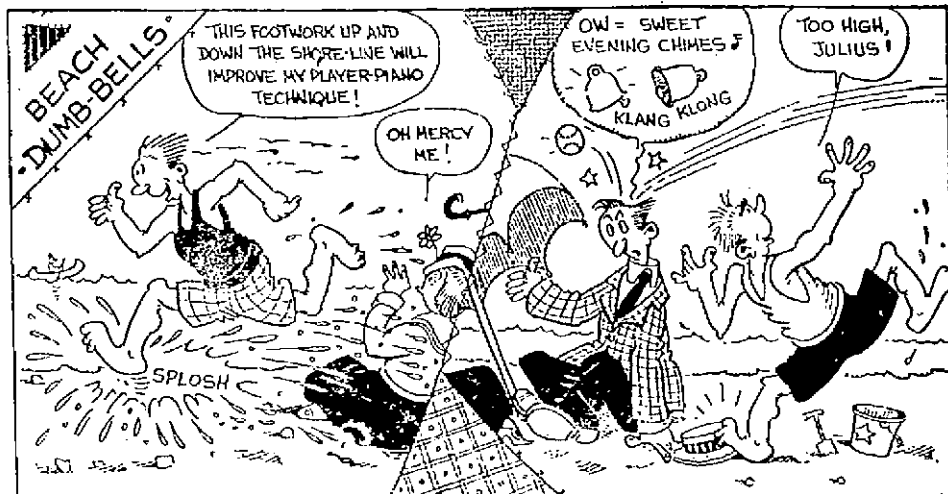

The baseball team of the second platoon of the Lowell fire department will play the team of the second platoon of the Salem department next Monday, June 6, at Salem. The Lowell team with a large delegation of loyal rooters will leave Central fire station at 5 o'clock. Game will be called at 11 o'clock.

LOWELL'S STATE TAX THE SAME AS LAST YEAR

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 3.—Lowell's contribution to the expense of operating the commonwealth will be $298,485 this year, this being the same amount of tax which the city was obliged to raise last year for the benefit of the state.

The aggregate amount which the commonwealth will assess upon the cities and towns—and every municipality in the state is obliged to contribute—will be $11,000,000.

The state tax, as it is called, is always levied by the legislature in an amount approximating the difference between the expenses which it authorizes the various state departments to incur, and the amount of revenue which is expected from ordinary sources, including inheritance and other special taxes, license fees, and the many other sources of revenue which a thoughtful legislature has provided in an effort to conceal as much as possible of the expenditures which it annually authorizes.

This year those expenditures amount to about $40,000,000, and since only about $26,000,000 of that is expected to come in from other sources, it became necessary to levy the so-called state tax.

Figuring the apportionment of the state tax is looked upon in the office of the tax commissioner as a real "man's" job. Each city and town is supposed to contribute according to its ability to pay, and in determining that ability the commissioner takes into account the valuation of the city or town, the number of poll taxes it collects, and any other information he may have as to the wealth of the town and its inhabitants.

The figures showing the wealth of all the cities and towns are then added together, and for each municipality a determination is made as to its proper proportion of the total. Figuring these proportions is likely to perplex any except a trained mathematician. For example, it appears that Boston is required this year to pay thirty and four hundred and forty-five one-thousandths per cent. of the total, or $4,267,300. Lowell's percentage shares at two and one hundred and thirty-two thousandths per cent.

The little town of Gay Head, down on Martha's Vineyard, rejoices this year that it pays the smallest tax in the state, $240, which, reduced to percentage, amounts to one one-thousandth of one per cent. of the total tax. New Ashford, up in the hills of Berkshire, ranks second, and pays just twice as much, not because it is exactly twice as rich as Gay Head, but because the mathematicians tired of using small figures and decided they would use nothing smaller than thousandths of one per cent. So they assigned one of "those things" to Gay Head, and because New Ashford was a little richer, they decided that her "dose" must be two.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
There's an excellent program of attractions being shown at the Merrimack square theatre today, fully up to the usual high standard of the popular amusement house. The leading feature is "Don't Neglect Your Wife," an original story by Gertrude Alberton, dealing with riches and social position in San Francisco and poverty and degradation in New York. Mabel Jullienne Scott plays the leading role. The other feature for the week-end, "See My Lawyer," is an Al Christie comedy of exceptional merit. The International News and a "Torchy" comedy are other attractions.

THE STRAND

Allan Joyce is making a pronounced hit in her newest picture offering, "Cousin Kate," an adaptation from the stage play of the same name in which Ethel Barrymore scored one of her biggest stage successes. It's a delightful story and handled remarkably well by Miss Joyce. Harry Carey in "If Only Jim" is another picture of exceptional merit in which the star and an able cast of players are seen to advantage. The remainder of the program is commendable. The Strand is "always cool and comfortable."

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The wonderful tapping of the mallets by Signor Fritsco at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, marks the work of the master xylophonist, for it is probable that no more artistic player on this instrument has ever appeared in this city than he. He also brings delightful comedy into his act. A most attractive woman is Elsie Lange, who appears with Ernest Gilfillan, and in her bridal gown she is wonderfully fascinating. Will Mahoney, the Cossack comedian, is certainly a laugh-causer all of the time, while the Three Kevitts give one of the season's best novelty acts. Others on the bill are: Holmes & Holliston in a rube comedy skit; George and May LeFevre, dancers; and Adams & Barnett.

"WAY DOWN EAST"

A feature of every production bearing the name of D. W. Griffith is the music and those who have given his "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Hearts of the World," "Broken Blossoms" and "Way Down East" find that a real enjoyment is to be had in the flow of melody from the large orchestra always present. Each situation is given the proper emphasis or shading by the character of music that is played and whether there is fortissimo or pianissimo makes the greatest difference in the world in the effect of the scene upon the eye. In "Way Down East" the music that is heard in "Way Down East" when it comes to the B. F. Keith theatre for a special engagement of one week, beginning Monday afternoon, June 13, actually makes people laugh and the reason for this is that the music is identified with a role for all the characters in a Griffith play have their characteristic musical theme and when the theme recurs the appearance of the person is definitely indicated.

RIALTO THEATRE

The first showing of the week-end program at the Rialto theatre lived up to all expectations yesterday afternoon and established the same reputation which that theatre holds for first class pictures. The program introduced Wanda Hawley in a rube comedy, "Her First Love," also William Fairbanks in "Eighteen," and there is also a Johnny Hines comedy "Torchy's Knighthood," and the last episode of "Fighting Fate."

There is little need to comment upon the work of Wanda Hawley, and it is sufficient to say that her screen appearance in this, her latest picture, is well up to her usual standard. The western picture is equally good, though of a far different type, and is full of red blooded action.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATIONAL WORK
CHICAGO, June 3.—Walter S. Atchison and Sidney A. Weston, of Boston and George T. Webb, of Toronto, were appointed yesterday to work out a plan to co-ordinate religious educational work of the Sunday school council of the Evangelical denomination and the International Sunday School Association.

Crisis in World's Fuel Problem Averted by Scientific Discovery

BY PAUL N. WILSON,
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Science
has come to the rescue of the world's rapidly dwindling fuel supply.

The serious danger of oil reserve
exhaustion will be removed by a discovery which will not only double the world's fuel supply, but will make the use of that fuel so cheap that the cost
of freight, manufacturing and production is expected to drop as soon as
its employment is made common.

This is not the dream of an over-
enthusiastic amateur, but the solemn pronouncement of an engineer and
scientist of world renown, Lindon W.
Bates. Bates is given credit for having developed the hydraulic dredge, as well as many other mechanical appliances, and did invaluable work during the war as head of the Submarine
Defense association.

His discovery, announcement of which is here made for the first time,
will be called Colloid Fuel and is an outcome of Bates' researches during the war for a fuel which, while easily handled in liquid form, still would not
make necessary the transportation
across the Atlantic of enormous quantities of fuel oil, so often the special target of enemy submarines. With the new discovery it became possible to ship to England half the previous amount of oil, mix it with English coal
and still have the same amount of liquid as was being transported before Colloid was perfected.

Saves Millions

Hundreds of millions of dollars will be saved annually to railroads the world over, manufacturers and other
big users of fuel oil, and through them
to the ultimate consumer, it is declared.

Bates' discovery will be made available to all users of either coal or oil.

Low grade coal, which has heretofore been considered useless for fuel

Lindon W. Bates

purposes, will immediately assume
value commensurate with that of coal
of higher test. For Bates' new fuel will be about 45 per cent. coal and 55 per cent. crude oil. It is described by Bates as merely the suspension of pul-

verized carbon from coal in the hydro-carbonates that make oil, the two being stabilized by the introduction of a small percentage of saponified substance to keep the solid carbon particles from settling.

The new fuel has been thoroughly
tested by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and pronounced the satisfactory fuel yet devised. It has been given an unusually low insurance rating,
since its flash and ignition points are high, and it can, unlike oil, be easily
quenched by water.

Given National Test

The immense waste now involved in transporting coal will be eliminated,
as all fine particles broken off in carrying will be available in the manufacture of the new product.

The new fuel will be of great importance not only in the reduction of operating expenses of industries, and the conserving of the present oil supply, but will also be of great assistance
to the navy in that it will greatly enlarge the cruising radius of vessels.

Tests made with U. S. naval vessels have proved Bates' new composition to be the most economical as well as the most efficient fuel yet found. Bates is also negotiating with the large railroad systems of the country, and it is expected that Colloid will shortly come into universal use for transportation and industrial purposes.

Scientists and industrial engineers
who have studied Bates' new discovery
state that it is the biggest discovery
to result from the millions of inventions and researches made during the war.

Chief Iron Lightning Led
One of Sitting Bull's Divisions at Little Big Horn.

PIERRE, S. D., June 3.—In the recent death of Chief Iron Lightning,
at his home near Thunder Butte in
the northwestern part of the Cheyenne Indian reservation, the country
lost probably the greatest of the few remaining famous Indian characters who figured in the early history of Dakota territory.

Iron Lightning was one of the sub-
chiefs, who under Sitting Bull, participated in the memorable battle of
the Little Big Horn, June 25, 1876,
when Custer and his band of 261 men
were annihilated. He is said to be the last of the chiefs who were in control of the Sioux nation at that time. He was 76 years old at the time of his death and has for years
made his home in the vicinity of Thunder Butte station.

Usually tall and well proportioned,
even for an Indian, and possessing a voice which commanded attention and
obedience although it knew no word
of English, Iron Lightning was a natural leader of men. In the early part of this century following the Ute
Indian uprising, when the Utes had been routed up and sent to the Cheyenne reservation, it was Iron Lightning
who went among them urging them
to forget their grievance with the whites and settle down to peaceful lives.

He was the last Indian, so far as
is known, to have continued to live
with two wives after the order prohibiting polygamy and further polygamous marriages among the Indians
was made. Iron Lightning was called to the Thunder Butte station when
this order was received and told he must choose between the two women
with whom he was living.

"If the commissioner has lived with
one woman," the chief replied in Indian, "he will know how impossible it is for Iron Lightning to separate himself from two. Iron Lightning
laughs."

This speech won for him his case
and the two wives were retained. They lived together in harmony, one doing
the cooking for the family, which
among the Indians is regarded as an honour, for one week when the other
came into power for a like period.

Chairman, U. S. Shipping Board
During the war, in connection with recruiting work, we were obliged to give a great deal of consideration to the power of advertising. I became an absolute believer in the government paying for messages they desire carried which, strictly speaking, come within the province of advertising.

It is particularly apropos at this time, with the labor situation confronting us, to refer to our advertising campaign. This campaign began last August and has reached a point
where it affects, in a material sense,
the passenger ships of the government
fleet.

Faced as we were within the last month by a threatened tie-up of our
shipping, we found it necessary either
to stop our advertising at once or to go ahead full force.

We refused to let go; our campaign
continues full force.

Our campaign to arouse the American traveler and shipper to "Ship and Sail in American Ships" is meeting with success. Passenger ship business was in full swing when the labor controversy threatened its success. But we have carried that slogan into every American home and business house,
and the response is most encouraging.

I have refused to recognize any
move as a reason to cease for one moment our campaign of advertising.
Through it we can stimulate the whole
some interest and support that is necessary to success in any line of endeavor.

By R. H. WHITNEY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 3.—The man who in all probability will be the next chief justice of the United States regards governmental economy and reduction of taxation as the greatest necessities in the administration of national affairs.

I laid before William H. Taft in his office room at the Hotel Taft 12 questions dealing with national and international problems and asked him to discuss them. He declined, saying, "It would be improper for me to talk upon these matters at this time. The president has gone into them very fully in his recent address in New York."

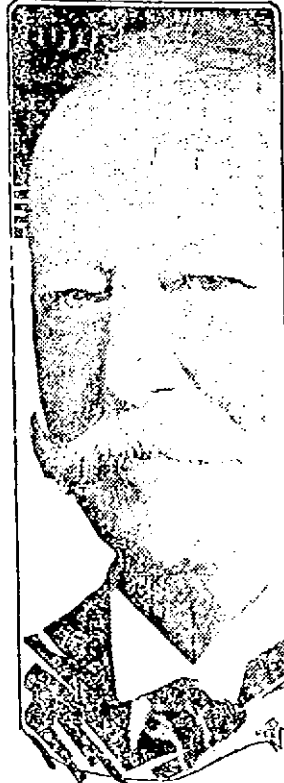

"But," I inquired, "do you agree fully with all that President Harding said with all that he suggested should be done?"

"I will answer that, and thereby touch in a measure on those other questions you've presented," he replied. He stepped across the room to his desk and wrote what follows:

"I shared the pleasure which the 29th anniversary of the president had in listening to the strong words he used in favor of economy in public expenditures and the adoption of methods by which it could be, and would be, promoted." (In this respect President Harding said: "There must be a continuing effort to keep expenses down to insure full value for every dollar of the taxpayers' money the government spends.") perience in such matters can value to the full the importance of such a speech.

"Of course I cordially and emphatically approve the policy of the president in his proposed fiscal reform and budget."

WILLIAM H. TAFT

get. (President Harding said in this connection: "Establishment of a budget system is the foundation on which reorganization must be based.")

"But, as the president himself pointed out, the adoption of a budget is only one step. The main reform must be in putting down appropriations in many fields of expenditure with a ruthless hand. The numbing weight of taxation shown in the hall of business, in the spread of unemployment, and in the general depression, requires this."

While advice from Washington are that President Harding has definitely decided to send Taft's nomination for the chief justiceship to the senate at an early date, Taft gives the impression that he will consider the appointment most seriously before acceptance.

Taking this post has been a grave question with him even if, as has been said, it would be the crowning achievement of a life honored in many ways, including four years in the White House.

Lloyd George Under Fire
LONDON, June 3.—Premier Lloyd George and Sir Hamar Greenwood were again bombarded yesterday in the House of Commons with inquiries regarding Ireland.

The chief secretary said that since January 1, 1921, six women had been murdered, seven wounded and three kidnapped by the Sinn Féin. During the fortnight ending May 29, 20 police, eight military and 10 civilian deaths were reported by the police.

TRUCK AND CAR CRASHED --2 SEVERELY INJURED

WORCESTER, June 3.—Mrs. Ida Peterson, 50 years old, and Albert Buskey, 24, were dangerously injured when an automobile truck driven by Buskey collided with an electric car near Chadwick square, today. Four other women occupants of the truck were severely injured. Mrs. John Ekberg, 40, suffered concussion of the brain and injury to the back; Mrs. John Johnson, 45, injuries to chest and head; Mrs. Nils Backlund, 40, fracture of right hip; Mr. Cristie Quist, 43, injury to left hip and head injuries. All are in City hospital.

The women were being taken to the fair grounds in Greenleaf to prepare the tables for the big dinner of the United Commercial Travelers of New England there tomorrow.

"A national industrial information service should be established covering more timely, regular and complete information covering current production and consumption and stocks of commodities; a national statistical service should be established covering employment requirements; a national policy regarding public health should be fostered and encouraged; the national program for industrial rehabilitation should be encouraged and should offer opportunities for education and placement to those having physical defects as well as those handicapped because of industrial accidents; a nationwide program of industrial standardization should be encouraged in conjunction with industrial interests; the government should recognize the necessity for a revision of such federal laws as interfere with the stabilization of industry; a body of principles should be accepted which should be developed for the adjustment and settlement of labor disputes."

After emphasizing the need of reform an improvement in plant management and administrative policies the report urges the co-operation of labor.

"Organized labor should develop a policy for increasing output," it says.

The attitude of opposition or indifference to proper standards for production should be changed to a frank and aggressive insistence on such standards; there should be a scientific examination of the basis for wages; certain union rules should be modified; regard in machine operation, appreciation and craft workers' distinction, which result in restriction of output; individual workers should realize their responsibilities for waste resulting from ill-health and disregard of safety measures."

Declaring that the annual economic loss in the country through preventable diseases and death amounts to $3,000,000, the report urges a more general use of safety methods already perfected. It is asserted that 75 per cent of the deaths and serious accidents in industry could be thus prevented.

In regard to the number of days lost, the report says: "Forty-two million persons lose 350,000,000 days from illness and disease and non-industrial accidents annually; 42 per cent of the waste of ill-health is preventable; 4,120 three were three million industrial accidents resulting in an economic loss to the country of about $133,000,000. Industrial accidents are caused by the carelessness of the workmen and lack of ordinary safeguards."

Plant efficiency comes in for its share of the blame for waste. In the printing industry alone, the report says, an investment of more than $100,000 in stocks of paper carried to meet trade requirements could be cut in half through standardization in the brands of paper.

The building industry is said to be about 60 per cent. efficient. In the shoe industry the waste is put at about 33 per cent. The average plant, the actual trades group is from 25 to 40 per cent. behind the best plant output per employee.

In the ready-made clothing industry the report says, it should be relatively easy to save three-quarters of a million dollars a day—An increase of 10 per cent. in effectiveness. The value of the output in this industry is $1,400,000,000 a year.

CHAMPIONS WAGE EARNER'S CAUSE

Lord Haldane Says That Old
Social Order is Passing
Away

Newer and Better State in Process of Achievement,
He Avers

BY MILTON BRONNER
LONDON, June 2.—"When people talk about labor and wages and the one fundamental thing—that the old social order is passing away and that a newer and better state is in process of achievement in most of the civilized lands of the globe.

"Everywhere you look you see the workers determined to secure—and securing—a better and fuller existence for themselves and their families. Part of this demand is a demand for an adequate wage. But the desire of the workers is for something higher than mere money, although money can help them attain it.

"The worker of today—and properly so—is demanding his chance to have some of the better things of life—knowledge, music, art. He says—and I agree with him—that these good things shall no longer be the monopoly of a small proportion of the people."

"The man who said these things to me is one of the greatest living Britons—Lord Haldane. Multifarious activities have been crowded into the life of this Scot, who was educated in the best Scotch and German universities.

He is an authority on constitutional law. He is an authority on philosophy and has translated some of the greatest German philosophers into English. He served in the House of Commons for 25 years. He has been rector of several great British universities.

From 1905 to 1912 he was secretary of state for war. It was in those fruitful years that he completely reorganized the British army, so that when the great war came Britain sent her first expeditionary force into France in recent times.

He was lord chancellor of Great Britain from 1912 to 1915. He is now one of the law lords, constituting the court of last resort in the kingdom. It may be added that all his life Lord Haldane has been a liberal in politics and liberal in his outlook on life.

An Advocate of Progress
"When the worker demands better things he is not a Bolshevik and it is wrong to accuse him of being one," Haldane continued. "He is an advocate of a progress which will make for the good of the state."

"He is simply demanding that we shall narrow, as much as possible, the gap that has hitherto always separated the manual worker from the rest of the nation. He is demanding that the importance of his labors and its dignity shall be recognized and that it shall receive a fair share of the wealth it helps to create."

"That doesn't mean he is seeking to put everybody upon a wage equality. Every worker who thinks at all knows that some kinds of work are worth higher rates of pay than others. He knows that though manual labor is necessary, the mental labor of directing and organizing work because of their trained intelligence are entitled to high rates of pay."

"When the new order of things becomes stabilized, the manual workers will get a full share of the monetary profits, so they can get a full share of intellectual pleasures in their leisure hours. There will then be something that is often too sadly lacking today—contentment."

Cause of Discontent
"It has been said that our British miners are constantly in a bad temper. That comes very near being true with the workers in most industries. It's because many of them have been looked down upon, underpaid, and thereby denied the good things of life."

"During the war the workers began to come into their own. They are, therefore, very suspicious of anything which looks like a movement to take away all they have gained. You must not be surprised then if they violently protest against any sudden and general reduction of wages."

"I have found in Britain—and I imagine you would find it so in America—that the workers are keenly alive to the needs of education. I don't mean merely the education boys and girls get in the schools up to the age of 15. I mean the fuller education which begins when school days are over and which continues during the rest of life. We must bring that kind of education within the means of every worker.

"Knowledge makes men free. The educated man is the contented and

the honest working man. His job may be tiresome. So are many of my tasks in the law courts. But when a man knows his work is useful and necessary and an honorable service to his nation, he carries on in a cheerful frame of mind.

"But there is another reason why education must be available to the workers throughout life. Hitherto the great jobs of leading in the state have—with some exceptions—been done by those who have had the advantages of full education and training. We have thus left untapped a great source of power and talent and, perhaps, even genius. We have not used the latent abilities of the great mass of the people. It is up to us to use this reservoir of fresh mental and spiritual power."

"Now you, perhaps, begin to realize why there is this fierce hostility to wage reductions. Such proposals, especially when not well grounded, at once suggest to the workman that he is once more to be treated as a chattel, instead of a fellow servant."

"The way to prosperity and to peace and contentment is to bring it about that capital is really and truly nothing but a fellow servant in industry with the manual worker and also with the inventing and organizing type."

State Ownership or Control
"I think another thing is coming, too. Sooner or later I think such arterial industries as the railroads and the coal mines will either be state-owned or state-controlled."

"I know that both in America and England there is an objection that such things are never as well done by the state as they are by private enterprise."

"But before the war there were no better railways in the world than those owned by Germany. What Germans did, Americans and Britons can do. All that is necessary is a special training and education for a special type of government servant."

I mentioned to Lord Haldane that in America and Britain many employers said that with wages at their present figure, they couldn't compete with nations where the rate of wages were very much lower. He replied:

"It is quite possible that in some cases a temporary adjustment will be found necessary. But if it is, the employers might take a leaf out of the Italian book. The workers should be taken into the confidence of the employer and shown the books. But I think in many instances wage cuts will not be necessary if the employers introduce better machinery and better methods. I have one final thought to give you:

"If there is an industry which is unable to meet competition while paying decent wages, it may be far better for the nation for that industry to cease to exist."

mel of Boston, to succeed Joseph Maynard.

Commissioner of Immigration—John G. Hagberg of Watertown, to succeed Henry Skellington.

Assistant appraiser of customs—William S. Briry of Melrose.

Assistant appraiser of customs—Osgood C. Blaney of West Roxbury.

These appointments complete the list of big jobs in the state. The senior senator said that the selections were made after a careful survey of the field.

The big federal appointment, collector of internal revenue, which went to Mr. Nichols, is not alone generally satisfactory to the republican organization, but it was supported by some of the most responsible business men in Massachusetts. From the beginning Mr. Nichols had a substantial lead over the other candidates by reason of his exceptional qualifications for the office.

Mr. Nichols was for many years a member of the staff of the Boston Post. He was born in Portland, Me., May 5, 1875. Graduated from Harvard college in 1899, is a lawyer and member of the Massachusetts bar.

He served in the Boston city council, in the house of representatives and for four years in the Massachusetts senate.

McCarthy's Successor
Emmer C. Potter of Worcester, who has been named federal prohibition commissioner for New England, and had considerable experience in handling liquor legislation, having served for a number of years as chairman of the liquor commission of Worcester.

He was born in Framingham, Aug. 23, 1868.

He is a graduate of Dartmouth college, a member of the Worcester County bar association, and has served in both branches of the legislature for an aggregate of eight years. He was also at one time a member of the Worcester city council and is prominent among republican party workers.

Mr. Potter studied law and was admitted to the bar in Worcester county in 1897. He has practiced law in Worcester since 1898.

The new federal prohibition officer, Mr. Wilson, is unknown to politics. It is understood that he had the solid backing of the "dry forces" in the state.

Wilson was born in Cawker City, Kansas, is a graduate of Tufts college and a former newspaperman. In 1917 he enlisted as a private in the Aviation Service. Served at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex., appointed second lieutenant Jan. 2, 1918. Served at same field as adjutant of the flying school until transferred to Mineola Field, Long Island, August, 1918. Promoted to first lieutenant. Air Service Aeromantics August, 1918. Subsequently transferred to Langley Field, Virginia, as commanding officer of a battalion. Honorably discharged Dec. 30, 1918. Is now a commissioned officer in the Reserve Corps.

The new immigration commissioner is promoted from inspector to the head of the department. This appointment is a recognition of the civil service principle.

Hagberg was born in Sweden in 1874. Has resided in the United States for 41 years, coming to this country at the age of 6. Was associated with various business firms until appointed an inspector in the immigration service in 1902. Is in the classified civil service, having been appointed after examination. Served in the Massachusetts state militia and is a veteran of the Spanish war. Served as a republican member of the house in the Massachusetts legislature.

Hormel's Appointment
Mr. Hormel, the new surveyor, was born in Boston, Oct. 15, 1873. Educated at Boston Latin School and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Has served for 15 years as a member of the republican state committee of Massachusetts and had charge of the speakers' bureau of the committee from 1905 to 1911. Has served several terms in the Massachusetts senate and at the present time is chairman of the republican city committee of Boston.

Assistant Appraiser of Customs William S. Briry, in charge of drug inspection, department of civil service and registration, for the state of Massachusetts. He is secretary of the Commercial Travelers' Republican club of Massachusetts and an experienced druggist and chemist.

good C. Blaney was born in Boston Jan. 20, 1860. Served as republican member of the Boston city council. Appointed sealer of weights and measures in Boston in 1893; Massachusetts House, 1898; served for 15 years as assistant appraiser during the administration of McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. Is at present a member of the house of representatives of Massachusetts.

Adventures of The Twins

OLD MAN FLOOD ESCAPES

The Magic Green Shoes curled Nancy and Nick right up to the star of the weatherman, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, a great big place with plenty of room on it for everything.

They walked along and pretty soon they came to two houses. One was on one side of the road and the other house was across from it on the other side of the road.

So the twins did what anyone else would have done, walked up to one of them and knocked. If that wasn't the right one, at least there was no harm in asking, was there?

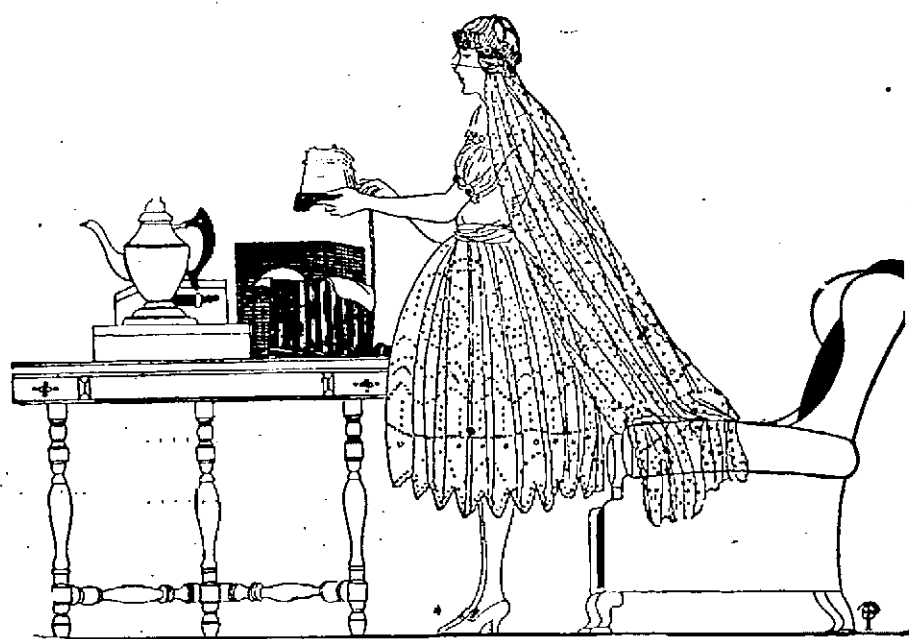

A voice inside said, "Come in!" and Nick gave the door a push, wide open. Before Nancy could move an eye-bash, something dashed out of the door past her with a great rushing noise, almost knocking her down. Nick grabbed the door and pulled it shut again with all his might, but not before some words reached his ears. A lot of voices were shouting at once, "Oh, there goes Old Man Flood!" said one.

"Jack Frost, why didn't you watch your turn and get out, too?" said another.

"Get out old Sizzly Dry-Weather!"

IN THE POLICE COURT LINCOLN CLUB HAS A MISSION

The case of Samuel H. Romano, of Fulton street, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of six-year-old Marion McCartney, struck and fatally injured by an automobile operated by the defendant, was continued to June 21 to await the result of the inquest hearing. The little McCartney girl was struck at the corner of North and Walnut streets on Wednesday, and died early yesterday at the Lowell Corporation hospital, where Romano carried her in his machine after the accident. According to the defendant the child stepped directly in front of his car from the sidewalk and had been hurled to the ground before he could halt the machine. The usual bonds of $2000 were furnished for his appearance.

Disgrace to Uniform

"A disgrace to the uniform" was the comment of Judge John J. Pickman, in the police court this morning when the officer who arrested John Brown, a soldier, for drunkenness told of the defendant being intoxicated and soliciting passers-by to purchase liquor. As a matter of fact, however, said the officer, Brown did not have any hoosh in his possession. Brown pleaded guilty to drunkenness, and the court, after stigmatizing his conduct as a disgrace, even though he had not been a member of the military forces, added the sentiment that "soldiers are supposed to be brave." Brown, who admitted buying liquor in a local store, was then fined $5.

Truck Driver Fined

A $5 fine was the penalty paid by Victor M. Schult, operator of the motor truck which struck and fatally injured Mrs. Helen A. Fuller, and also knocked down two other women who were less seriously hurt, when he appeared before Judge J. Pickman in the police court this morning. Three charges were lodged against him, namely, manslaughter, reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle without a license. The former two counts were dismissed, as Judge Pickman in the inquest found no criminal negligence on the defendant's part in connection with the death of the Fuller woman. It was on the charge of operating without a license that the fine was imposed. Schult's license was recently suspended at the state house, subsequent to the accident in which he figured.

Other Offenders

The case of Wladislaw Nalwajko, charged with threatening his wife, Mrs. Nalwajko, continued to Tuesday. The case of Daniel O'Keefe, charged with assault and battery on his wife, was continued to tomorrow. The case of Alex Jachimowicz, 18, charged with assault and battery, was continued for the juvenile session one week from today.

FOR SEPARATE SUPPORT

A petition for separate maintenance of Mary Perrault of Tewksbury by her husband, Dennis Perrault, was under consideration today by Judge Liggett in the probate court. The case was taken under advisement. Attorney Henry V. Charbonneau appeared as counsel for the petitioner; Daniel J. Donahue by the respondent.

Starts on its Career With 500 Names on Membership List

It Plans to Purify Local Politics and Also to Boom the G. O. P.

With a mission "to prevent candidacy for public office or even party prominence for private gain," to boost the republican party, and with all holders of public positions barred from its staff of officials, the Lincoln club, with 500 members strong, was launched on its career at a meeting held in Eagle hall, Central street, last night. According to an announcement by its newly elected president, Edgar P. Dougherty, the organization plans to make an intensive survey of the city with the purpose of lining-up every unaffiliated voter with the G. O. P. and to carry on a campaign for the registration of voters whose names are not now on the lists and the naturalization of aliens. It is stated that 200 women are ready to take hold and help the club as members of an auxiliary organization.

Following a period of rousing community singing, led by H. E. Hockman, the meeting started last night with a brief address by Edgar P. Dougherty, who said that the organization that was proposed to form had not been developed by any politician and that it would be among the purposes of the club to see that all public officers live up to the duties of their offices and realize that they are the servants of the whole people.

An Important Election

Frank H. Foss, chairman of the republican state committee, told the audience that in 1922 would come one of the most important elections in years, with a United States senator, representatives and a full state ticket to be elected, and that the campaign promised to be one of the hardest-fought in years. He asserted that the Harding administration had given the country more constructive legislation in three months than the democratic party had in eight years. He spoke of the need of party organization and said that the work of naturalization must be pushed. "Naturalize every alien you can get hold of; register him," urged the speaker. Mr. Foss called attention to the fact that the 15th amendment to the constitution had given Massachusetts approximately 68,000 more women than men voters. "These women want clean politics," said the speaker. "They have brought into politics a conscience they never had before." He urged the importance of getting the feminine voters affiliated with the republican party. He also made a plea for a re-education campaign, asserting that there are probably now 1,000,000 persons in Massachusetts who are entitled to vote whose names are not on the lists.

Office Holders Not Wanted

Mr. Dougherty read a list of recommendations for the guidance of the club from a committee that had charge of the formation of the new organization. The second recommendation was that the club should keep from holding positions as its officers all persons holding any political office whatsoever. It was also recommended that, in addition to other officers, the club should have a committee in each ward.

"We have a big job on hand in registration work," asserted Mr. Dougherty. "In one precinct in this city are 300 women voters unregistered; 90 percent of these could be brought into the republican party. It is the women who have brought the republican vote of the city where it is today."

"I am not a candidate for political office and do not intend to be," asserted James A. Stiles, former district attorney of Worcester county, in bringing an address. He asserted that he was neither a spellbinder nor an orator, and told of his early experiences in political life, saying that he had cast his first vote for president for Rutherford B. Hayes. He said that he had early been taught that it was the part of every "alleged" educated man to take an active part in politics, and that he had spent years in trying to further the hopes and aspirations of the republican party.

ORPHANS' OUTING

Rotary Club Plans Big Time for Children

The orphans of Lowell are to be entertained some day in the not far distant future, at a monster outing by the members of the Lowell Rotary club, preliminary plans for the event having been discussed at a meeting of a special committee of the club, which was held this forenoon. The club had planned at first to hold an outing for all the children of Lowell, or in other words continue the good work started by the late John McManmon, but on second thought it was deemed advisable to entertain only the orphans and give them a bully good time.

The committee is composed of Harry Pitts, chairman; Harry G. Pollard, William A. Mitchell, George Spillane, Thos. Leeg and Maj. Walter R. Joyce. The plan is to give the children an automobile ride to some grounds, perhaps the Martin Luther in Tyngsboro, and then entertain them with games and sporting events. A good luncheon will also be provided for the little ones. All the members of the club will be in attendance and each one will take upon himself the task or enjoyment of acting as a big brother to two or more orphans, so that everyone will be made to feel at home.

The committee has communicated with the heads of the various local orphanages and it is said the plan for one big outing is being approved by all. Final plans for the event, such as the selection of the grounds and date, will be made between now and next Wednesday, on which day the committee will report to the club at a meeting in the form of an outing to be held at the Nashua Country club.

INSTITUTE DIRECTOR LEAVES LOWELL

Miss Helen G. Hutton, director of the International Institute, resigned her office yesterday, to take up social welfare work in another field. She expects to accept another position in the fall, but during the summer will remain at her home, in Ogunquit, Me., for which town she left Lowell yesterday. A new director of the activities of the organization will be appointed during the present month. It is stated, in the interim, Mrs. E. B. Holden, of Wilder street, chairman of the International Institute committee, is in charge of the Palmer street rooms of the association.

SEEKING TO HAVE WILL SET ASIDE

In the suit brought by relatives contesting the will of Peter J. Foley of West Acton, on trial before Judge Franklin T. Hammond and a jury in the superior court today, testimony

was introduced showing the alleged drinking habits of the deceased. It was testified that the testator when sober was prudent, but that when under the influence of liquor "he would give away anything that he had." The estate is valued at about $10,000. The contestants seek to have the will set aside on the ground that testator was of unsound mind and that undue influence was brought to bear in connection with its making. John D. Carney of Ayer appeared as counsel for the will; Francis McKean of Worcester for the contestants. The case went to the jury this afternoon.

PRES. HARDING

AT ANNAPOLIS

Expresses Hope Nation Will Never Be Called Upon to Fire Gun in War Again

Will Never Sanction War Except it Squares With U. S. Conscience

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 2.—Hope that the nation would never be called upon to fire a gun in war again, was expressed by President Harding today in presenting diplomas to the graduating class at the naval academy.

He added a promise that while he was president the young men graduating today never would have to go to war except in a course that squared with American conscience.

"A good deal is said nowadays about preparing for defense," he said. "I know nothing nobler in this world than the defense of one's own country. That is an inherent thing in man, planted in the human breast by God Almighty. There would be no civilization today if men weren't willing to give their all for its preservation."

"But the preservation of the established order is one thing, and it is highly essential, while crusading for a new order is quite another thing, sometimes most nobly inspired, sometimes most ill advised. I can believe the idea for our country is a sensible blend of the maintenance of the established order and the enthusiasm of the crusader."

"I want to say to you young men that I hope you'll never be called upon to draw a sword nor fire a gun except in the expression of the customary amity and respect. And, I promise you that while I am president, you'll never be called to fire a gun except you can do it with the American conscience with which you can answer to God."

"I do not want to be misunderstood. I want an America unafraid but I want you to help make a republic of conscience, a republic of sympathy and a republic of high ideals."

POPPY DAY BIG SUCCESS

Total Receipts for Sale of Poppies Here Amounted to $2747.07

The total "Poppy Day" receipts were announced this afternoon by Mrs. Charles Young, chairman of the American Legion Ladies' auxiliary committee in charge of the drive, as amounting to $2747.07. "The enterprise was a wonderful success," declared Mrs. Young, "and we of the committee cannot thank the public and the press enough for their co-operation in this great cause. The Sun's assistance in carrying the drive to a successful conclusion I can only describe as splendid."

Mrs. Young also paid high tribute to her co-workers in the poppy days, Mrs. Frederick McDermott, secretary of the auxiliary, Mrs. Paul Kiltredge, treasurer, and Mrs. William Merritt and the other members of the committee.

From early this morning the employees of the Middlesex Safe Deposit and Trust company were busily engaged counting thousands of half-dollars, quarters and dimes contributed to the legion auxiliary's fund for disabled war heroes. But to the fact that Monday was a holiday, and Tuesday the final day of the month, there was an unavoidable delay in reckoning the final figures, and the added machine did not cease to click until after 3 o'clock this afternoon. All the figures were checked by the auxiliary committee.

"We are not done yet!" was Mrs. Young's final word, after making announcement of the grand total receipts of the drive. We wanted to do something big for the boys, and I think we may say that we accomplished this end. But we are out for continued achievement. We want something to look back upon, something that may make those who come after us feel that we have tried to do our share in recompensing those who fought for us."

LOSSES AWARD FOR LOSS OF STEAMER BOSTON, June 2.—The United States supreme court having refused to intervene, the circuit court of appeals today issued a mandate by which the Seaboard Transportation Co. loses damages of $321,740 awarded by the district court for the loss of its steamer Chisholm in the Cape Cod canal in July, 1916. The mandate had been withheld pending the supreme court's action on a plea for a writ of certiorari.

Judge Morton originally made the award to the owners of the steamship on the ground that the canal company was to blame for the Chisholm's sinking. A cross suit by the Canal company alleging that the Seaboard Co.'s steamer had blocked the canal, was subsequently dismissed. The circuit court of appeals then vacated the award, finding that neither side had proved its case and the steamship company sought to bring it before the supreme court.

GENERAL STRIKE A FAILURE

Efforts by Communist Labor in Argentina Have Thus Far Failed to Succeed

Vigorous Repression of Communist Activities Prevents Spread of Strike

BUENOS AIRES, June 2.—Efforts by communist labor elements to bring on a general strike in Argentina have thus far failed to win complete success. All public services, with the exception of taxicabs, continue in operation, while work in the port zone is proceeding, and non-union laborers are being employed.

Newspapers generally credit the authorities with preventing the spread of the strike by vigorous repression of communist activities and preventing gatherings and demonstrations.

A manifesto issued by the Argentine labor federation called on affiliated unions to assist in making the general strike effective until the authorities released persons who had been arrested, restored to the unions the headquarters which had been seized and permitted meetings. The manifesto closed by declaring the government had "gone over to capital." Should this call be obeyed, the situation would become more serious as the federation is credited with a membership of 30,000.

The Munson liner Martha Washington, which had been tied up in this port for two months and about which raged one of the most bitter labor struggles in the history of the republic, is today well on her return trip to New York. The vessel left Buenos Aires yesterday after members of her crew, who had been arrested in connection with the outbreak of a fire on board the ship on Monday, had been released and had returned to their posts.

WAS CONTEMPORARY OF SUSAN B. ANTHONY

NEW YORK, June 2.—Rev. Phoebe A. Hanford, 22 year old suffrage worker, who died today at Rochester, N.Y., was a pioneer in the movement for equal rights and a contemporary of Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and other early leaders in suffrage work. She was the first woman ever ordained in New England, where she became a minister of the Universalist church in 1853. Two years later, she appeared before a joint session of the Connecticut legislature and acted as chaplain of both upper and lower houses. The check which she received for this service was one of her cherished possessions, as it marked the first instance of such a position being held by a woman.

Mrs. New Haven, Conn., and Jersey City, N.J. For twenty years before becoming a minister, she taught school, lectured on literary and reform topics, and for a time edited the Ladies' Repository and the Myrtle. She was the author of several books of prose and poetry. Among these were biographies of Lincoln, Dickens and George Peabody.

PASS ANOTHER FARMERS' RELIEF MEASURE

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Another farmers' relief measure, the bill of Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, loan up to $50,000,000 to federal farm loan banks to distribute among farmers at not more than 5 1/2 per cent interest, was passed today by the senate with assurances of early house approval.

RYKOFF ASSISTANT TO PREMIER LENINE

RIGA, June 1.—(By the Associated Press)—M. Rykoff, former president of the supreme economic council of soviet Russia, and an advocate of modifications of the soviet economic policies, has been appointed first assistant to Premier Lenine and will be practically the executive officer in carrying out new policies recently announced from Moscow.

HAD "HIGHBALLS" NIGHT HIS AUTO KILLED MAN

WORCESTER, June 2.—Samuel H. Colton, on trial in superior court here for manslaughter, in connection with the death of W. Wilder Rice on the night of March 13, when Colton's automobile ran into a tree on the highway near Northboro, following a dinner party at a tavern in Marlboro, testified that he had two "highballs" that day and that several highballs were served during the dinner.

WORCESTER, June 2.—John Shaw French, for three years professor of mathematics at Clark university, today offered his resignation, to take effect at the expiration of the examination period.

Broadways Take Gillespies Into Camp In See-Saw Game on The South Common

The Gillespies, last year's Twilight League champs, met their second defeat of the week and the fourth of the season last evening on the South Common when they fell victims to the Broadways, 4 to 2.

The game was a see-saw affair with the odds favoring the Gillespies up until the final inning when a hard hit ball rolled past the washing machine men's left fielder and allowed two runs to score.

Sam Pouliot was once more on the mound for the Gillespies, his second game in three days, but as in Tuesday night's game with the C.M.A.C., he didn't receive his long league support. Farwell, the Textile school twirler, pitched for the Broadways and had a slight advantage over his opponent.

The first three innings were sterile for both teams but in the fourth the Broadways got one and the Gillespies three. For the Broadways, Connors smashed out a two-bagger to left and came home on Sullivan's single to the same territory.

For the Gillespies O'Hare took first on an error but was retired at second when Broome hit to the pitcher's box. Allen singled and Broome scored. Then Sam Pouliot walked one to left bringing in Allen. Adams then hit to left and Bird sent one out to center bringing home Pouliot. The Gillespies did no further scoring.

In the fifth Mansfield came through with a run for the Broadways and in the seventh Mansfield got one again and came home when Connors hit to deep left and the ball got past Duke's short, allowing both runners to score. The Gillespies were silent in their half. The score:

GOLF ON THE ROOF? SURE! HERE IT IS

No longer need the busy man waste an hour each day driving back and forth to his golf club for a practice game. Instead he can go golfing on the roof of his office building or in his basement.

The golf machine has a regulation golf ball, attached to a revolving upright rod, at the top of which is a dial. The stroke is made and as the ball comes to a standstill, the dial indicates the number of yards the ball would have gone had it been free.

KEARNS WOULD SELL PICTURES
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 3.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, today announced that he would consider an offer for the sale of his interest in the motion pictures of the Dempsey-Carpenter fight. Dempsey and Kearns will have a fourth interest in the pictures, another fourth will belong to Desamps and Carpenter, while Tex Rickard, promoter of the contest, reserves the right to the other half.

Kearns' offer to sell the interests of Dempsey and himself is taken to indicate that the champion intends to win as quickly as possible. It further removes foundations for rumors that the contest would be a picture fight in which the contestants would box several rounds in order to make the films lengthy enough to be financially attractive.

The possibility of another lay-off of three or four days for the champion was discussed by Kearns who said that at present, he had no plans to call another halt in training, but the future depended on the rapidly with which the champion reached the fighting form.

EXPECT CLOSE RACE
PRINCETON, N. J., June 3.—From all appearances and prophecies, the California-Princeton crew race on Lake Carnegie will be one of the closest events of the year. Both Dr. J. Duncan Speth and Ben Wallis, coaches of the Tigers and Westerners, respectively, predict a neck and neck finish, the latter declaring that one length at the most would separate the two shells as they cross the line.

The race will start at 4:30 eastern standard time.

PANAMA WELTERWEIGHT MAKES HIT WITH CARP

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 3.—Although he received a good bit of punishment at the hands of Georges Carpentier last Wednesday, Jack Goldberg, the Panama welterweight, made a hit with the Frenchman as a sparring partner. Georges, likes Jack's speed and top so he will do two fast rounds with him this afternoon.

Carpentier is also slated for two rounds with Paul Journe, after lunch, with the customary two hours' road legation in the forenoon.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—A new world record for high lining average

Jake Schaefer

In 182 ball billiards was made here recently by "Young Jake" Schaefer, in a 4000 point match against Edouard Hoernemann, the Belgian champion, when Schaefer netted a grand total average of 57.17 caroms per inning, beating the previous record of 50.19-20 held by Hoernemann.

Schaefer already holds the high record run of 436, and western fans are backing him to win when he is matched against Willie Hoppe for the title.

BROTHERS WILL SEEK WINNER

BY MAX BALTHASAR

NEW YORK, June 3.—An enter who with the Dempsey-Carpenter fight a member of the fighting Gibbons family from St. Paul is going to challenge the winner. Carpentier wins, brother Mike will challenge him. If Dempsey wins it will be brother Tommy's job to challenge.

"We want that title in our family and we are going to do our best to get it," said Mike, who is here. "Naturally, I would like to get a chance at it, but I'll not fight Dempsey. He is entirely too big and strong for me. But if Carpentier should win I would be tickled to death to meet him. Tommy will look after Dempsey if the latter wins."

GEORGES "ICY" TO VISITORS

BY MAX BALTHASAR
Noted Fight Expert

MANHASSET, L. I., June 3.—Visitors who drop in on Monsieur Carpentier during his "visiting hours" from 3 to 5 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, aren't handing him any medals for his showing in early work-outs.

And the fighting Frenchman doesn't seem to want to win any. Georges, during the exhibition, seemed to be doing something for which he had a great dislike—working before the visitors who had criticized him so sharply for trying to keep them away from his camp. Desamps, manager for Georges, finally compromised by letting visitors see the Frenchman at work three afternoons a week.

The visitors were made to feel, however, that they were not welcome by the grudging manner in which Georges went through his stunts, in which no boxing figured.

Even the gates were not opened to the visiting party so that they might enter the hallowed precincts

with a little dignity. They either jumped over the barbed wire fence that surrounds Carpentier's quarters or crawled under the lower strand. Some made the grade with ease; the stouter ones indulged in much grunting and snorting.

It was cold, raw and wet and a dispiriting rain was constantly blown into the barn in which Carpentier trains while he was going through the motions. The dismal weather may have dampened his ardor and some were willing to let it go at that.

Wearing a pair of bossy blue trunks and a white athletic shirt, Carpentier made his appearance some time after the appointed hour. His first essay was at the punching bag, which he tapped gingerly a few times. Then he took up the skipping rope, at which he is somewhat of a bear, going at the work with a degree of ferocity. He gave his legs a good day's work with the vicious and rapid swing of his arms. Manager Desamps occasionally breaking in with a plea to go faster.

Floor exercises for which Georges also showed a liking, was next in order. In this he gave particular attention to his legs and neck and in deep breathing.

and rapidly with both hands, but the particular feature of this part of the performance was his peculiar grating. He spun around like a ballet dancer, hurting himself about with an abandon that threatened to result in disaster for some of the spectators.

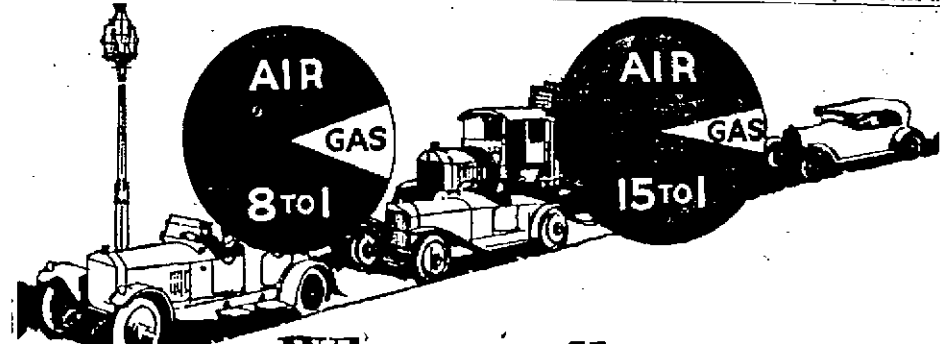

A few more taps at the bag and arm and body exercises against the wall wound up the day's work and then he posed for the camera men. To this also he showed a dislike, stopping the men in the midst of the snapping and telling them he could pose no more, fearing he would catch cold.

Then he rushed away with a curt goodby, dashed across the cowpatch that serves as the backyard to the cottage, hastened into the kitchen and locked the door.

Carpentier showed he already is in good physical condition. He has plenty of speed and his muscles stand out like whipcords. There is little if any excess flesh and with a little more work he could stop fast enough for anybody, provided that his eye is true and his wind is in shape.

Carpentier doesn't appear to have any more trouble than a coal man when it comes to getting down to weight.

Capablanca, the serious chess champion, is full of fun off the chess field.

What really explodes in your engine

SLUGGISH gasoline vaporizes slowly. It requires a rich, wasteful mixture—8 parts of air to 1 of fuel.

Using more air and less fuel, Tydol Economy Gasoline operates on 15 parts of air to 1 of fuel.

Tydol vaporizes fast. It gives you better power, mileage per gallon, pickup. It reduces carbon and contamination of lubricating oil. It prevents common engine trouble from these sources.

Have the 15 to 1 carburetor adjustment on your car.

Tydol will operate on the rich mixture required by ordinary gasoline. But with Tydol you can use the 15 to 1 mixture—less fuel and more air.

Look for the orange and black Tydol sign.

GERMAN WAR RECORDS WANTS TO BE BUSY FOR HARVARD COLLEGE ALL THE TIME NOW

CAMBRIDGE, June 3.—A collection of official German war documents and war time periodicals, some presented by Ellis L. Dresel, American commissioner at Berlin, has just been added to the assembly of war-time papers being made at Harvard university library.

The new collection contains documents of interest to the historian who wishes to study conditions in Germany during the war from first hand evidence. Included in it are complete files of "Parade," the German army publication, and other official military journals, complete official casualty lists, complete files of a newspaper published for the enlightenment of allied prisoners of war in Germany, and files of German revolutionary papers of the winter of 1918-19.

A study of several hundred war proclamations presented by Mr. Dresel, which were posted in Berlin during the war, dealing with regulations for the civilian population, sales of food, war loans, etc., showed that several issued apparently prior to Aug. 1, 1914, were not dated. The dated posters in Germany, however, were dated every proclamation bore a date. The question whether the dates on the earlier publications were omitted by accident or because they were prepared in advance in one on which the Harvard announcement says, historians will draw their own conclusions.

SEWING TABLE FOR MISS ELIZABETH REGAN

A banquet and social marked the closing of the second unit of the dressmaking class of the Women's Industrial club of the Massachusetts mill last evening, the affair being held in the spacious and well appointed quarters of the organization in one of the mill buildings. A feature of the evening was the presentation of a handsome mahogany sewing table to the teacher, Miss Elizabeth Regan, as a mark of appreciation on the part of the members of the class for the interest she has taken in the class since its formation last October by Mrs. Regan. There were 24 young women present, all members of the class and the special guests were Agent William A. Mitchell and Miss Anna Taylor, the mill nurse and permanent director of the club. The early part of the evening was taken up with a banquet, a very appetizing menu being served. The tables were handsomely decorated with flowers, candles and potted plants and presented a very pretty appearance. At the close of the dinner, the curtains on the stage were drawn and the handsome table was exposed. Just then, to the surprise of Miss Regan, Miss Anna Taylor, the mill nurse, in a manner and extended her heartfelt thanks to the young women present.

Agent Mitchell congratulated the class for the work accomplished during the class sessions and also extended his congratulations to Miss Regan for the manner in which the class was conducted, commenting favorably on the fact that the day classes attendance of the class was 30. The remainder of the evening was given over to entertainment numbers and general dancing, which was enjoyed till a reasonable hour, those participating in the entertainment program being Miss Helen Lynch, Miss Margaret Knowles and Miss Leonie McNamara. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Miss Anna Taylor, Miss Nora Cryan and Miss Dorothy Potter, the latter a member of the executive committee.

The next event under the auspices of the club will be the installation of officers, which will take place on the evening of June 10, and on the evening of June 17 a social and dance will be conducted by the employees of the spinning department.

Mrs. Collier Says She is Just Full of New Life and Energy

"Just think of it! This time last month I was so weak I just had to sit around the house all the time, but now I am well and happy and it's all because of what Tanlac has done for me," declared Mrs. Josephine Collier, 11 Mellen st., Brockton, recently. Mrs. Collier has lived in Brockton for the past 20 years, formerly residing at Fall River, where she is also well known.

"My health had been gradually failing for a year or more, the time I lost my appetite and had no reason for food. Was restless and easily excited and at night just couldn't get any sleep to save me. I lost my strength and just felt draggy and weak from morning till night. My household would simply break me down and I had to give it up."

Mrs. Swift, who lives at 1014 North Main street, told me how Tanlac had helped her and I just felt somehow that it would help me, too. I certainly have. Three bottles have restored my health perfectly and I just feel so strong and well now that I want to be healthy and doing all I can to enjoy everything I eat and sleep soundly every night, and I never can thank Mrs. Swift enough for telling me about Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, Wright Drug Co., 1111 Broadway, New York City, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

TO INCREASE SUNSHINE

LONDON, June 3.—Recent solar eruptions which caused brilliant auroras and disorganized cable and telegraph service throughout the world, may result in the earth receiving an increased quota of sunshine during the remainder of the year, says Sir Oliver Lodge, the noted scientist. He declares it is probable that the monsoon will be strengthened and that in consequence the Indian harvest will be improved. He even ventures the opinion that the electrical particles thrown off by the sun during the disturbance, may assist in the development of vegetation and reduce the amount of dust held suspended in the atmosphere.

MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION

A get-together and social for the residents of Pawtucketville was held last evening in the vestry of the Pawtucket Congregational church under the auspices of the Pawtucketville Memorial association and the affair was attended by nearly 200 people. The evening's program was presided over by Cornelius Cronin and included remarks by Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department, who spoke at length on the war, the Lowell police and the result of their activities; Benjamin Pousner, who gave valuable hints on the organization of a community club; Joseph Wilson, who is now writing a history of Pawtucketville, and Architect Harry Prescott Graves, who has prepared the plans for the Pawtucketville memorial. They addressed the gathering at the close of the meeting it was voted to form a permanent organization, the officers to be chosen later. Refreshments were served.

CHARMING PLAYLET

"The Ladies of Cranford," a charming playlet of village life in 1840, was ably presented by members of Miss Alice Stickney's first hour English class of the high school last evening in St. Anne's parish house. The costumeing was very appropriate to the time of the play and those who took part displayed more than ordinary skill in their characterization. An orchestra made up of men who are members of the same class furnished music and between the acts oldtime ballads were sung by Miss Mary Gordon, also a member of the class. The cast of characters was as follows: Miss Matilda Jenkins, the rector's daughter, made up by Elizabeth Moody; Miss Mary Smith, her friend, by Ernestine Laddlaw; Miss Jessie Brown, a new resident, by Helen Reed; Miss Betty Barker, a retired milliner, by Mrs. Forrester, born a Tyrrell; Mrs. Forrester, born a Tyrrell, by Margaret Olney; Hon. Mrs. Jamieson, a leader in society, by Elinor MacLennan; Martha, maid to Miss Jenkins, by Hazel Sharkey; Percy, maid to Miss Barker, by Arpenlger Manuella; Mrs. Purkis, a country woman, by Little Susan, her daughter, by Arpenlger Manuella; Jennie, a country girl, by Arpenlger Manuella.

New Elephants With Sells-Floto Herds Find Old Timers Upstage

There's artistic temperament among the elephant performers with Sells-Floto circus, coming to Lowell on Wednesday, June 3, and the artistic temperament of good opera stars, artist models and wives of English cabinet officials has nothing on the art of the pachyderm actors under Sells-Floto's six top manager-tops. But there's a reason for the upstage stuff with the old elephants Mamma, Trilby, Kae, Mo, Frieda, Floto, Billy Sunday and the rest of the "bull" herd. The big troupe, they have interlopers among them this season—"amateurs," the herds call 'em. This year, two new groups of pachyderms are added to the elephantian displays. They are: Mamie, Sue, Babe, Toby, Billiken, Tom, Cora and Patry. And how the old members of the big show herd dislike to share the glory of the elephant numbers with them!

When the boss "bull" men stake the new comers in the elephant lines, you'll see the old "bulls" turn their backs, so far as is possible, and get their heads together. It is the old story of the new pupil in school. Perhaps in time, the new comers will be made part of the family by the old timers, but it won't be this season. You'll agree on circus day when you feel peanuts to the great, hulking rascals. The old ones will resent the new ones getting anywhere an equal share.

the democratic party," Mr. Stiles said. "We cannot hark back to Thomas Jefferson, although the democrats lately seem to have thrown Jefferson into the discard." The speaker told of the formation of the republican party, and said that "although it has not always stood for the most enlightened statesmanship, it has stood for freedom and justice. It is no use to talk of past issues to aliens, they do not understand references to bleeding Kansas and the extension of slavery into the free states; we must teach them that the republican party stands for freedom and that in our party rests the hope of the nation."

"The hope of the nation rests in the republican party, and the hope of the party rests in us," commented Mr. Dougherty, at the close of Mr. Stiles' address. Continuing, Mr. Dougherty referred to the proposed new charter and said that it would not be for the club to decide whether it would be advisable to adopt the proposed instruments, as some members are opposed while some favor it, but that it would be desirable to have members of the charter commission come before the club and explain what the charter means. He said that the club should have something to do with seeing that Lincoln's birthday is more fully observed in this city in the future.

Officers Are Elected

The following named were appointed members of a nominating committee to report a list of officers: R. V. Stubbart, chairman; Fred Harrison, George M. Brown, Fred H. Cole and Frank H. Goss.

On recommendation of this committee the following named were elected officers:

nals: third vice president, Allen Gerson; fourth vice president, Alonzo G. Walsh; secretary, Edgar M. Kent; treasurer, Elmore L. MacPhie; auditors, Julian B. Keyes and Jefferson P. Mansfield. The directors appointed are Joseph W. Bowers, Joseph A. M. Christen, Fred H. Cole, Dr. Herbert E. Davis, Jr., Royal K. Dexter, James Danas, David Dickson, Allen M. Dumas, Arthur T. D. W. Griffith's Marvelous Picture Spectacle

A picturization of the delightful New England classic of the same title.

With the complete production direct from its record-breaking run of 30 weeks at the Tremont Temple, Boston, including the large Orchestra of Symphony Musicians.

Nights 50c, 81 and $1.50. Matinees 25c, 50c and $1.00. Advance Sale Starts Thursday, June 3.

Owing to cost, length of production and iron-bound contracts "Way Down East" will never be shown at less than first class theatre prices.

officers are being given out," asserted Mr. Walsh. A demonstration of applause and cheering was given by the members of the club standing as Mr. Walsh completed his address. As the members of the club received their membership tickets, they found printed on the back of each a statement of the principles of the new organization as follows: "The purpose of this club is to promote honest politics; to prevent candidacy for public office or even party prominence for private gain; to encourage political activity at primaries and elections among all good citizens; to encourage sociability and good fellowship among republicans; to advocate and disseminate the principles in which the republican party was founded and by which it won its greatest victories; and with such principles at heart to enumerate from time to time new objects and measures deserving support."

HOPELESS FIGHT FOR LIFE AT SEA

Lone Man's Battle in Open Dory With Little Food and No Water Disclosed

Body Picked Up 25 Miles East of Highland Light
Yesterday

BOSTON, June 3.—A lone man's hopeless fight for life in an open dory with little food or water was disclosed here today when the fishing schooner Valtham towed to his body picked up yesterday 25 miles east of Highland light and west of the Georges fishing banks.

The body was found in the bottom of a dory that was rilling the waves right and tight as if under a fisherman's hand. In the stern stood a bamboo pole with a piece of red attached to it, a marker of distress. The body was badly emaciated. By its side were the bones of several fishes, plucked clean.

Captain Clifford Hopkins of the Valtham said the fisherman probably had been shut off from his ship by fog storm without emergency food supplies. He had apparently set out to row to the coast. The extent of emaciation indicated that his suffering from thirst and hunger must have been great, and that it was days after his separation from his vessel that death delivered him from his troubles. The fish that he caught, apparently, were his only food and he had no fresh water.

The fisherman was well dressed for his calling, carrying in the clothes that included the rubber boots and oilskins of the doryman. A Swiss watch and a diamond ring. He appeared to be about 45 years of age.

"SAVE ELOQUENCE," SAYS JUDGE COX

"There is no jury here; you can save your eloquence," commented Judge Louis S. Cox in the superior court today as a dispute reached its climax between Judge John M. Mahoney of Ayer and Attorney Stanley N. Qua as the latter railed the tone of his voice and brought his fist down with a thump on the table in front of him. The incident occurred during the trial of an equity suit involving rights in the property of the Penner Electric light company.

Mr. Qua appeared as counsel for holders of notes secured by a first mortgage on the electric company's property and sought for a temporary injunction to prevent holders of notes under a second mortgage from foreclosing the mortgage or transferring their rights until a suit determining the issues in the case are determined by a court. This decree was ordered issued without time limit.

VOTE TO REPORT PORTER PEACE RESOLUTION

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The house foreign affairs committee with democratic members dissenting, voted today to report the Porter resolution for termination of the state of war between the United States and Germany and Austria-Hungary. Republican members voted solidly to adopt the Porter measure as a substitute for the Knox resolution passed by the state repealing the declaration of war. The democrats merely voted present.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the local American Legion post is scheduled for Monday evening. It will be held at Memorial hall.

At the request of the local postal authorities an are light is being erected in front of the new sub-postoffice in Middle street. This new light will brighten up that part of the street which heretofore has been very dark. John L. Phisley, supervisor of the high schools of the New York public school department, will be the speaker at the annual graduation exercises of the Lowell high school, to be held Wednesday evening, June 22, at B. F. Keith's theatre.

The residence of George Desforges at the corner of Acton and High streets in Chelmsford Centre has been purchased by Herbert White, former manager of the Livingston Coal Co. of this city, who is now making his home in Brookline.

Bugler John L. Condon, not Bugler Lafouroux, sounded taps at the memorial mass on the South common Monday. Through a misunderstanding, Bugler Lafouroux was credited with this part of the morning's ceremonies. Bugler Condon is a former member of old Co. M.

An excellent exhibition of views of the famous Arnold Arboretum in Boston is now being held at the city library in the main reading room. The views bring out the beauties of the various trees in the famous park in a most artistic manner and the exhibition is one well worth seeing.

The annual examination for the officers of the girls' battalions of the high school was held this afternoon in the high school annex. Three physics supervisors from the Boston school department acted as judges. Miss Frances R. H. Leggat and Miss Myrtle Rooney, the supervisors at the high school, were in charge. The young women who are successful in this afternoon's examination will become officers next September.

INITIATIVE CAMPAIGN

The chamber of commerce street paving initiative campaign was declared a success at the chamber's office early this afternoon when it was announced that only a few names were lacking of the 3000 required. It was expected that the required number would be checked up by evening and that when the petitions are turned in to the election commission next week there will be many more than the number required.
